ALEXANDER CATHRO CALLED BY DEATH ONE OF LINDSAY'S PROMINENT CITIZENS

From Wednesday's Post.

The call from beyond came to a pioneer resident and business man of Lindsay, at midnight last night in the person of Mr. Alexander Cathro, and the news of his demise was received with regret by all classes of the community.

The deceased was prominently identified with the history of Lindsay, during the past thirty eight years, and was looked upon as one of the town's best citizens. He was broad-minded and public spirited and was endowed with qualities of mind and heart, which brought him prominence in the business world, and wide personal popularity. He was full of the milk of human kindness, abounding in the charity that spreads mantle over all. He was a very human man, and being a warm hearted Scotchman possessed all the qualifications of a true hearted son of the heather.

Some weeks ago he took ill and was forced to forego his duties to his business. He continued to grow worse, and when the serious nature of his ailment was made known to him he resigned himself to the Almighty, his brave spirit finally passing out into the great beyond.

To the bereaved wife and family, the Post extends the sympathy, true and heartfelt of the citizens of the town and district. He was a kind husband and father, and a model citizen and the memory of his good life will be ever green.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

The late Alexander Cathro was a son of the late Alexander Cathro and was born at Brechin, Forfarshire, Scotland in 1846. After spending some years in Edinburgh, he came to Montreal, where he worked for three years.

About 1873 Mr. Cathro came to Lindsay, and entered the services of the late John Kennedy as cutter. He remained with him for some years, when he entered into partnership with Messrs J. H. Southerland and James Mark. The firm of Sotherland, Cathro & Mark conducted a dry goods business for some years. Withdrawing from this firm in 1889, the deceased opened the tailoring business which he has conducted for the past twenty-two years.

The late Mr. Cathro was a Presbyterian in religion and a member of St. Andrew's church. In politics he was a Liberal. He was a charter member of Grampian Lodge, Sons of Scotland, a member of Faithful Brethren Lodge, A.F., & A.M., a Past K. of P. of Midland Chapter Royal Arch Masons, No. 34, G.R.C., Ancient Order United Workmen and Royal Arcanum.

The deceased is survived by his wife and two sons and five daughters. They are: Harry, in Vancouver; Basil, at home; Mrs. Jas. H. Kelly, of Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. H. Bateson, of Lindsay, Elizabeth and Violet, of Regina, Sask., and Grace, at home. His eldest son, John, predeceased him eight and a half years ago.

The funeral which will take place under Masonic auspices, will leave the family residence, Colborne st. on Thursday, May 4, at 2.30 p.m. Service at the house at 2 o'clock.

CIRCULARS SENT TO HOTEL MEN

Hotel-keepers are busy these days consing over some circulars sent to them by the Provincial License Department. These circulars explain to greatest detail the new five per cent tax on bar receipts. In a few days they will receive some blank forms with a separate blank for each day in the month. These they are expected to fill in and return to the department at the end of the month with an affidavit as to the correctness of the figures.

They will be given the first ten days of June to get those returns in, and if they do not get them in by that time they will be liable to a fine. When the returns are in and entered up, the hotelmen will get notice of what their taxes are to be.

Examiner Mr. Walter Head, a well known resident of the city and the caretaker of the golf links, was killed at the Island golf links on the 22nd of a peculiar accident. The stone caught him across the chest, crushing him badly, and undoubtedly death was instantaneous. The body was discovered by Mr. Nigel Neill this afternoon as he was playing a game around the links. Mr. Head was quite dead. He is survived by a wife and two children.

ATHERLY LICENSE IS CUT OFF

Telegram Hon. W. J. Hanna, minister of government to the Licence Act, stated at last session of the Legislature, giving the power to vetoe licenses anywhere in the province, has vetoed the license of the hotel Charles Healy at Atherley. The License Commissioner of North Simcoe voted that the hotel again receive a license, in spite of the strong opposition against it. Orillia has long objected to this Atherley, which is just across the narrows of Lake Couchiching and on the borders of the town. The license there practically makes Local Option a dead letter in Orillia.

Despite the strong opposition that has been continually manifested and despite the fact that the license was suspended last year for a time by the courts as a result of selling to a drunkly intoxicated, and who was found dead, the license was renewed, by the commissioners last week. But the Provincial Secretary promptly vetoed the blue pencil.

Friends of the license holder were in town today making relief from the Minister's curt action, but as there is no appeal from it, they will likely get little help.

JOHN MEEHAN IS A CLEVER ACTOR RECEIVED GREAT RECEPTION AT ACADEMY

John Meehan, "The Man on the Box," has come and gone, and Lindsay district is basking in the clever young actor, who claims this town as his own, and whose parents reside here.

The large audience which attended the production was a tribute to Mr Meehan which he was not slow to recognize. For weeks there had been nothing else talked about but the visit of John and his talented company and everyone was anxious to see how he would acquit himself.

Mr. Meehan certainly lived up to his advance notices. He is a finished actor in the true sense of the word carrying himself with an ease and grace through his lines which went to show that he had been carefully schooled in his chosen vocation. His work last evening was a revelation to the large audience and he has undoubtedly a brilliant future ahead him.

During the evening Mr. Meehan appeared before the footlights and made a short speech, thanking Lindsay for turning out in such large numbers to welcome him to his visit to Lindsay. Some twenty years ago he sat on night in the gallery of the Academy of Music taking in Mr. Mack's Shamus production. During the evening he had spoken of his future, in which he saw himself appearing before a large audience in the same theatre. His appearance last evening was a realization of that dream of twelve years ago. He also took occasion to thank the press for its kindly references to his efforts. He was warmly applauded at the close of his remarks.

A great deal could be written concerning Mr. Meehan's work last evening but the greatest tribute that could be paid him is that he acted his part to perfection. "Lindsay is proud of you, Jack, and will watch your future success with interest."

Mr. Meehan was surrounded by a splendid company, one of the best, in fact, seen here in years, and he delineated their different roles in a remarkably brilliant manner.

"The Man on The Box" is a clean, bright comedy in three acts, sparkling with hilarious and also dramatic situations. The play centres around a young lieutenant, Robert Wolverton. Intending to play a practical joke on his sister, he dresses up as a groom, and intending to drive her home from a dance, by mistake gets the wrong girl. As she alights from the carriage, he, not knowing the mistake, seizes and kisses her. He is arrested and brought before the police magistrate and fined, but the young lady who lays the charge, Miss Elizabeth Bennet, [illegible] kes pity on him and pays his fine, and also takes him into her employ as a groom. He is subsequently located in his new profession, and finds it exceedingly hard to keep his identity concealed. The situation finally falls in love with him, and, it being mutual, brings down the curtain with the grand finale.

John Meehan, who took the title role of Robert Wabertoo, the groom, or "The Man on the Box," played the part with a natural grace and easiness peculiar to the stage. Miss Isobel G. Randall who very ably impersonated Charles Henderson, the newspaperman, won a great deal of applause by his "tree and easy," way. Harold Collins, as Magistrate Watts and Miss Ralegh acquitted himself very honorably and Frank Macdonald who had a very difficult task to perform in portraying three different characters, still maintaining their individuality, was very good. He managed very capably Count Kasloff, the chief of the court, and Monsieur Pierre, the chef. The ladies were also excellent in their different parts, especially Miss Marjorie Bennet, who was "Aunt Agnes," and Miss Ida Parker as Mrs. Conway, her friend. The musical selections by the orchestra were very sweet and very superior.

STORY OF CHICKEN THEFTS IN FRANKLIN THIEVES WERE TRACED TO LINDSAY

(Special to The Post)

Franklin, May, 1.—Quite a sensation was created in the neighborhood just to the south of this town last week, when some ten fanciers found the hen house of Mr. Wesley Dainard a visit taking away 2 Plymouth rocks. About four nights before they returned, they were getting 19. Next morning, Mr. Dainard traced them north, and concluded they had gone to Lindsay. The stolen birds were found in Lindsay, and found that a brown and open buggy had been hired from one of the livery men. Next night that the raid was made on the hens by individuals, one of them called with the description given by Mr. Dainard of the one he suspected of the thieving. He then found the hens in the possession of certain parties, but there were only 19, the other 25 having been dressed and shipped to Toronto. He was informed by a certain Jew, who in fact had done the shipping, never thinking they were stolen property. The town constable succeeded in getting one of them safely lodged in the county gaol, but while the constable, was waiting for the other culprit to enter a house, where he had been staying, some person put him wise concerning the officer inside. He then struck across some lots towards Queen st. and continued his course towards the G.T.R. station, the constable hotfoot sight of him as he passed behind a barn. However he wended back to the neighborhood on Sunday, where the poultry was stolen, to the home of his brother-in-law, Alfred Saunders, who lives in a house belonging to one Wm. Bigelow. Constable Short was communicated with by phone, and along with another constable drove down from Lindsay, and the thief was surrounded by men, but as he was very dark Sunday night, the constable backed his man for one of his own men, and allowed him to get out of the back kitchen door unobserved in the darkness, succeeded in dodging the half dozen men, who were posted outside, although Mr. Allan Murphy grabbed him as he was going over the fence, but he shook off his would be captor, and made good his escape. Mr. Short with hopes to effect his capture, however.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, MAY, 5th.

EFFECTIVE

Vancouver Province.

A Los Angeles minister has adopted an effective method of curing members of the congregation of the snoring habit. When he observes nodding he shies a hymn book at him. He has become so expert that cut offenders unconsciously duck their heads when a fly buzzes past them.

BEST PREVENTIVE

Ottawa Journal.

The Montreal wife beater sentenced to several lashes screamed for mercy before even the first stroke was administered. The man who strikes women is almost invariably a miserable physical coward, and thus the lash is the best possible preventive of wife beating, not only in the individual case, but also as a warning to others who might be deterred by fear of the lash, while a jail sentence would only be a sort of holiday.

VERY BLACK

Central Gazette.

At Livermore, Kentucky, a black man accused of murdering a white man was hanged by a mob in the yard of the stage in the court house, individuals in the audience getting so much a shot for privileges of making bullet holes in the dying worthy's body. This, at least, is what an unbiased news report, others. There are black spots of humanity here and there on the but shed surface on United States civilization.

THE TREATING HABIT

Drinking has received a solar plexus blow at Tacoma, where an ordinance has been passed forbidding "treating" and heavily fining any liquor dealer who allows one customer to buy another a drink. Women have the franchise in the State of Washington and was by their vote that the ordinance was carried. Probably a good many of those who considered it necessary to treat all hands when they went into a saloon will be left enough pleased that the ordinance is in force.—Kingston Standard. There is no doubt, says the Chatham Planet, that an ordinance such as the one quoted above would have the effect of lessening the amount of liquor drinking considerably. It is quite generally recognized that the treating habit is indirectly responsible for a lot of drinking, and many cases, the creation of drunkards. It is not, however, the actual treating which is the thing, as much as it is the nature of the man himself.

Men will be sociable, and when a man wishes to show his hospitality, immediately wants to buy something for someone else. This show of hospitality and good fellowship appeals to him in many ways. One man invites another out to lunch, another asks to the opera, the young man stops ice cream sodas and chocolates for his best girl, and others invite their gentleman friend and is to have a "nip," so they go into the bar, and the liquor traffic is connected in a merely a form of a universal custom which it would require many prohibitory laws to erase.

It would be impossible and undesirable to stop all treating. Friendship, generosity, and good fellowship are qualities which are too strong to be overcome by any law. Some of them are redeeming features, the most important of which is its power to promote sociability and good fellowship. What is needed most, is to instill into the heart of man courage enough to say no, when he is tempted to take a drink, or treat which he knows is not good for him.

In a free state a man is asked through courtesy to have a drink of liquor is no reason why he should accept it if he knows it will not agree with him, or that it will lead to more and more until he becomes intoxicated. An invitation to drink is not always a demand to drink. It is up to the man to decide for himself.

The best way to educate a man morally is not always to remove the temptation, but to show him how to resist the tempter. A man who has not sufficient will power to refuse a drink when it is offered him, and when he knows it will injure him will fall in some other way, even though the treating habit may be entirely abolished. His fall may be accounted for by his inability to refuse an invitation to indulge in other evils besides liquor drinking.

What the most of men need is instruction upon the line of self-control and of shaping their own lives instead of allowing others to carry out their desires for them.

THE LABOR ARREST

(London Advertiser)

The Secretary of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers of America, John J. McNamara, has been arrested on a charge of instigating a series of dynamite outrages which have been attended with great loss of life and property. Bound and manacled he is being hurried to Los Angeles, with an alleged accomplice, to face an indictment for the wrecking of the building of the Los Angeles Times, in which 21 men perished.

McNamara is either the victim of a hideous conspiracy or he is a foul traitor to the cause of organized labor. Readers of the industrial history of England know what a setback was given the trades union movement when strangling against other disabilities, by the Sheffield outrages in the sixties—the work of a few individuals. British trades unionism has not lived down the memory of those things, and to-day its officials sit in Parliament and the highest places in the land. The cause of labor in America must in self-defence crush violence in their ranks if it is found to exist. If McNamara is guilty, he has done an atrocious injustice to his comrades who have trusted him, and made him a leader. If he is not guilty, some persons have abused the powers of the law to bring disrepute on the trades union, and should be detected and punished to the limit. Meanwhile the labor organizations are prompted to defend a brother under arr. They owe it to his comrades and to themselves to see that there is a fair trial. The prisoners should be given the benefit of the doubt in the meantime. Mr. Gompers the President of the American Federation of Labor, says the incident is a well staged plot.

The President of the Bridge and Structural Iron-workers declares that the explosives were placed in the offices of the union by agent provocateur. It is hoped the trial will be thorough and searching, and that guilt or innocence will be made perfectly clear, so that responsibility may be fixed in either case.

RULING CLASSES

The decline and fall of the Lords as a legislative body which England is now witnessing, is an historical event of great moment, says the London Telegraph. All unbiased observers agree that their function as a legislative body is about ceasing. The radicals will not hesitate to force in changing the peerage as they have changed knighthood, if serious and determined opposition is offered to the veto bill. The loss of the power of this privileged class was inevitable in a democratic age and country. The effect of the opening up of new continents, the application of new inventions, and the extension of commerce—making it easy for men of talent to secure wealth—began the eclipse of hereditary lords. Society cannot stand still, and its movements will run the course set by the forces that produce it. With the passing of their legislative power should disappear the excessive development of conservatism, unintelligent, subservicey of the lower classes and sycophancy.

If it is easily possible to attain wealth, a class of upstarts rich men arise, who, in the fulness of time, must be recognized by the aristocracy, because they possess financial power and are needed. If it is difficult to attain wealth, classes become fixed and stable. Then there will be an old stay aristocracy which will tolerate no upstarts, and other classes will settle into established gradations of society. In the midgenor of the pork-packer in amassing wealth, or the shoemaker in forming combines, and of the tallow-chandler in cornering something else, produces an entirely different condition. They have made capital mobile by the device, of joint stock companies and disputed and largely defeated the social power of land property. The lords disappear because their social advantage is gone. The modern financiers, masters of industry merchants, hold control of available capital and social and political power. They have not yet formed a cast of nobles but they may do so. They may by intermarriage absorb the remnants of the old nobility and limit their marriages further to their own set. It is thus that classes form and reform, because power always produces results. In time the new men will their way. Old fortunes decay, and old families die out. The result is inevitable.

In every system of society or state of state order, there must be a ruling class or classes; that is, a class always gets control and determines the political form or system of the state. This class will always use power for its own service and gain, unless it is checked by institutions which call into action opposing forces and interests. In an earlier age the ruling classes were warriors and ecclesiastics, and they used all their power to aggrandize themselves at the expense of other classes. In England it was said that the middle class are doing by obtaining control. It should be said to their honor and they have invented systems and institutions, which secure to all safety of person and property. It is only under their rule that no other class can fear the oppressive use of political power.

WHY YOU SHOULD BUY A HOME

(Sackville Tribune).

Every man, whether laborer, artisan, mechanic, trader, or member of a profession, should buy himself a town lot, get busy on it for, and then work for the necessary improvements, says the Port Hood Greetings. A little lot and a little there with in time will produce you a home of your own, and place you out of your landlord's grasp. Remember that $50 a year saved invest well in a very few years pay for your home, and the money it costs you to move and shift about without a lease of furniture and time, pay the interest on a $500 mortgage against your property until you have paid it to nothing. You can all buy that way. Why not risk it? If you fail, you are no worse off—if you succeed as any central man is sure to do, you have made a home and established a basis equal to anyone, which will stand you in business. We know many people in several sections of this province who prefer living from hand to mouth than even make an effort to build homes for themselves.

No fault can be found with a person who moves for the sake of bettering his position, but in the majority of cases where an industrial enterprise is placed on properties and operated on a basis, the workmen connected therewith would be infinitely more prosperous if they would settle down and make their home in such localities. A plot of ground and an ordinary dwelling house do not cost much more than the cost of moving three or four times consequent thereon. The best citizens in every community are those who have an aim in life, and who take pride in having a stake in their country whether it be their native country or one of their adoption.

The conditions are changing so rapidly even here in Canada that it has become an absolute necessity to make a special study of thriftiness and economy. A good way to begin is to lay aside so much possible every month for building or buying a home. A clever author says there are three kinds of men in the world, "The willing, the won't's and the can't's." The first effect everything, the next oppose everything and the last fail in everything. Mr. Will builds our railroads and shamefacts, "I won't" don't bad save in experiments and nonsense", and the can't grow weeds for wheat and commonly ends his days in a court of bankruptcy.

LOW WATER IN SCUGOG LAKE

The Port Perry Star says: The steamer Cora brought up her first tow of logs on Friday April 21st. Last year the first tow came about the 3rd of April, the lee being out of the lake very much sooner.

Water in the lake is fully a foot lower than last year, and it is to be hoped that every effort will be made by the Government this year to keep the water to its present level.

A WARNING TO SPEEDERS

Numerous complaints have been received from citizens regarding the alleged excessive speeding of automobilists and drivers of horses on the streets of the town and more especially on Kent-st, and the new William-st pavement.

Ald. McGraw, chairman of Police and Light, Committee, informed the Post last night that he intends starting out the police officer, and if necessary, make an example of the offenders. The police will be notified to keep a strict look-out for reckless speeders, and if necessary a man will be appointed to catch the time made by some of the automobilists, as well as the drivers of horses.

Since the William-st pavement has been laid, it has become the rendezvous of the "speed" who let out their cars or steeds to the point of recklessness.

A word to the wise is sufficient and if this warning is adhered to those responsible in the past will avoid a visit to the police court.

In the notice taken of a letter from the Peterboro Review, will be of interest.

Magistrate Dunnie, wishes it to be publicly known, that henceforth, all drivers of autos and chauffeurs exceed a speed limit of six miles an hour in the business section of the city, will be subject to the penalty of the law if apprehended. "Unless there is a killed or badly hurt by reckless driving, owners of autos will begin to see the result of their senseless and careless actions," His Worship remarked at the police court this morning.

BUILD SIDEWALKS BY CONTRACT

Reeve Trousdale at last night's council meeting, introduced a resolution authorizing the Chairman of the Board of Works to call for tenders for cement plazed tile, etc. for circle undertaking.

Some of the aldermen thought the resolution crushed the Chairman too much power. The Clerk, it was thought, should call for tenders and report upon what he considered the Council.

Reeve Trousdale said that yesterday what his resolution meant. There was a time when work which did not have been under way long ago, and the chairman of the Board of Works would call for tenders and report upon the matter. He was a careful man.

Mr. Horn advocated letting the letting of the work by contract, claiming the work could be done much cheaper and more satisfactory.

Where Reeve Trousdale and Babcock, opposed Ald. Horn's proposition, as they claimed the town's experience with contract work was far from being satisfactory.

The Town Clerk suggested that instead tenders were asked for the work the Chairman of the Board of Works could put in his tender, the same as was done in Toronto.

The Reeve's resolution, slightly amended, was accordingly adopted.

BOY DROWNED AT PETERBORO

Examiner: The first drowning accident of the season occurred on Saturday evening, when little Eddie Taylor, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Weir street, fell from the local dam and lost his life in the swiftly flowing waters of the Otonabee.

The river is at its height now, and is rushing over the Lock's dam, in a manner that would give the strongest swimmer very little chance to escape and although the accident was witnessed by several people they were unable to do anything. For a few minutes little Eddie was swept away and disappeared in the turbulent waters below.

INDIAN WEDDING AT SCUGOG RESERVE

Our usual quiet Indian village has had some excitement occasioned by the wedding of Mr. J. Paudash and Miss F. Johnston, daughter of Chief Johnston, Rev. J. W. Totten officiating. It passed off very quietly, only a few being present. Mr. Paudash recently returned from Ottawa where he claims to have been entertained right royally by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and also by his excellency the Governor. He claims that their treatment of him as representative of his own race was of the most generous character. There was at the home of the bride on exhibition, amongst other wedding presents a beautiful silver service inscribed from Sir Wilfred Laurier to Miss Florence Johnston Mr. Paudash claims that he has been appointed by the Government to act on behalf of his people in settlement of some of the claims under discussion.

The Red Year

STORY OF THE INDIAN MUTINY

BY LOUIS TRACY

rified himself by his new rank, it sent a pleasant tingle through his veins and made that injured arm of his ache again. Lawrence had arrived to the 6th, and here he was in Allahabad on the very date of his chief's reckoning, after having gone through adventures that would make a novel of Ulysses.

But the paradoxical pride of a young and gallant soldier soon yielded an inexplicable sensation of mortification when he was brought before a small, slender, erect man, gray-haired, earnest, with strangely bright and piercing eyes, and a mouth habitually set in a firm, kindly line. This was Sir Henry Havelock, and Frank felt instantly that he was in the presence of one who lived by a world apart from his fellows. And, in truth, Havelock would have been better understood by Cromwell's Ironsides than by his contemporaries. He was outside the ordinary run of mankind. Tinged with more of a natural humility, he fought with and conquered it until his soul was refused to believe that Havelock knew aught of his weakness, and that a military genius he had borne without overweening or complacent or contemptuous superiorities of inferiors, and in an age when levity of thought and manners among officers was all too looked upon as the hallmark of distinguished social position, he had no opportunity of giving his men religious instruction, while every act of his life was governed by a stern sense of duty.

Such was the man who listened to Malcolm's account of the proceedings which led to the disastrous rout at Chinhut.

"You say you rode straight from the field on the evening of the 30th," said the Chief. Frank had delivered the message of Lucknow's plight. "How did you travel, and in what way did you find the country you crossed?"

Then Frank told him all that had taken place. Here there was no young officer would have cut short the recital, but this Havelock did not permit. His man was present, that younger Havelock who lived for two years to keep ever in the public memory a glorious name, and yet that father would turn towards him and punctuate Malcolm's talk with a word or a brief, "Do you hear that, Harry?"

At last the stirring narrative was ended.

"You speak well, young man," said Malcolm, with a kindly smile, "and you can tell your story in English."

Jottings From Fenelon Falls

(Special to The Post)

Mr. W. A. Bishop took a business trip north on Tuesday. He leaves shortly to relieve the manager of the King and Duke street branch of the Bank of Toronto and expects to be absent about six weeks. During his absence Mr. Morley W. Reeve will have charge of the local branch of the Bank of British North America.

On Sunday evening the members of Corona Lodge I.O.O.F. attended divine service in St. Andrew's church, where an excellent sermon was preached.

The regular meeting of the Fenelon Falls branch of the Women's Institute was held on Friday afternoon, April 28th at the residence of Mrs Walter B. Jordan. There was a good attendance and an interesting meeting, presided over by Mrs. Dr. Gould, too President of the branch. After the usual routine business was disposed of the programme was opened by an instrumental by Miss Tilly Pardee, in her usual excellent style. The subject of the meeting, "Fault-Finding" was then taken up, a paper on the subject being contributed by Mrs. M. B. Calder. The President offered several suggestions on the subject which were appreciated, and gave a broader view on the question than is generally taken.

A recitation, "People will Talk," given by Mrs. Walker Lamb, was much appreciated. Miss Maud Patten gave an excellent reading bearing on the subject of "Fault-Finding." A selection, instrumental was then given by Miss Doris Towsley, followed by a vocal solo by Miss Maud Patten The possibility of the improvement of a part of the lake shore near the foot of Francis-st., having it cleared and provided with seats, was then taken up. The subject was broached by the President and was discussed at some length, most of the members being of the opinion that such a resort near the lake shore would be a boon to many, both residents and visitors during the heated term. It was moved by Mrs. Calder, seconded by Miss Martin, that Mrs. L. Towsley and Mrs. J. H. Braudon be a committee to take the initial steps necessary to secure the place mentioned and report at an early a date as possible.—Carried.

A piano solo by Miss Martin was much appreciated and the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess afterwards. The next meeting will be held on May 26th in Dickson's Hall. A good attendance is requested at this meeting, as the election of officers will be held.

An entertainment under the auspices of the Junior Missionary Guild, of St. Andrew's church is to be held in the lecture room of the Church on Friday May 5th. The programme, a lengthy one, is to be largely of a Japanese character. All who enjoy children's entertainments may look forward to a most enjoyable and amusing evening. Special costumes and a special platform are being provided for the occasion. Japanese refreshments will be served.

While playing football one evening last week Mr. D. McElyment unfortunately had his collar bone broken, which will lay him up for a few weeks.

The orange social held under the auspices of the ladies aid of the Methodist church on Friday last evening was a decided success. There was a splendid programme presented, consisting of music, vocal and instrumental readings and recitations. The refreshments were also of first quality and unlimited in quantity.

Messrs. Norman Martin, Gordon Callan and Fred Fiske were in Lindsay on Saturday.

On Tuesday afternoon the ringing of the town bell at five o'clock caused quite a number to turnout expecting to see or hear of a fire. But as there was nothing doing they came to the conclusion that someone had made a little mistake, just for one hour. About a week ago the fire alarm at noon called out quite a crowd and caused some considerable excitement until the nature of the fire was determined. A pile of rubbish burning in a yard at the foot of the church hill, the blaze spread to the dry grass and was soon part of the way up the hill and climbing a tree before being extinguished by the crowd.

Mr. Victor Chambers, of Toronto, spent from Saturday until Easter at his home with his parents, Mr and Mrs. Ed. Chambers.

Mr. C. W. Burgoyne spent a few days in Toronto this week on business.

Mr. Leo. Pearce, of Hastings, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Pearce, on Sunday last.

FRANKLIN

(Special to The Post)

A short time ago the ratepayers of the school section became possessed of an idea that the business of the section was not conducted on an economical basis, and therefore demand the Sec.-Treas. to call a meeting to inquire into the business. This he refused to do, unless they would comply with the Statute by sending him a written request signed by at least four of the ratepayers. This was done and the meeting was called and was held in the school house on Monday last, but strange to say the very individuals who had been so loud in their threats of making the Sec. Treas. replace the money which is at present in cold storage in the Farmers' Bank, strange to say these individuals seemed to be as suddenly lost all power of speech, as the meeting progressed, they did not raise a dissenting voice. The Sec.-Treas. in replying to a query about the surplus, on hand which some thought too large, but in fact was not enough to defray the necessary expenses, advised the ratepayers to come to the annual school meeting and give their advice about these matters and not do the way they did last December, when there was no person present but the Sec.-Treas. He told them there was quite a number here today that had not attended an annual school meeting for few years, and some had not attended one for ten years. A motion was brought in by Mr. Mc. Crorrie and unanimously carried, that A. H. Veale, Sec.-Treas. be not responsible for any money lost in the Farmers' Bank. Mr. James Spear was appointed trustee in Mr. Jas. Gordner's place, who did not care to accept the office any longer. The meeting then adjourned and a number went home sadder and wiser than they went to bed, they had lost a valuable half day's work on the fields and wiser in that they went home with the knowledge that the Board of Trustees were fully capable of attending to financial matters. Mr. W. J. Fallis as a very able manner occupied the chair, while Mr. R. H. Grandy, acted as Secretary for the meeting.

Next Sunday being Quarterly Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Patterson, of the Lifford circuit will occupy the pulpit here.

The fall wheat and clover are rather badly killed out this spring, over fifty per cent of it being of no use.

PAPER ON HOW TO KEEP YOUNG

(Special to The Post)

Manilla, May 1st.—One of the most successful meetings of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Neil McDonald on Wednesday afternoon last. A very large number of ladies were present, among the number being noticed Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Stone, Pres., and Miss Ross, of the Woodville branch. We hope at some future period they will honor this branch again with their presence. The President, Mrs. McPhail, was in the chair, and after the regular business was over the report of the district meeting held in Lindsay was given by Mrs. Thos. Osborne, of the Executive Committee. "Their College Life," the duett sung sweetly by Misses Olive Steele and Pearl Dixon was much enjoyed. This was followed by a very instructive and helpful talk on Home Nursing, and an excellent demonstration on the preparation of a bed for a sick patient by Mrs. Dr. McPhail. Below were given with pleasing effect by Miss Osborne and Miss J. Glendinning after which an excellent paper was given by Mrs. Elleker on "How to Keep Young," which was as follows:

"A woman never grows old who allows herself to think only of pleasant things—who trains her tongue to utter only pleasant words. To keep young you must avoid worry, for nothing leaves its impress upon the face more than worry. Learn self-control. For anger is a rapid wrinkle producer. Also remember that frowns are unbecoming, and that smiles are better. Keep the nerves well under control and remember they are not an interesting subject to anyone. Take life calmly, even or twenty years, until your work is done the chances are that you are too tired to take it. Remember that a monotonous strain produces many wrinkles and makes the eyes heavy. Lie down every day—if possible for three or twenty minutes rest. Get all the beauty sleep you can. Remember that late hours are fatal to good looks and health and don't overtax the strain of working far into the night, and then wondering why your work is not well done and you feel so good-for-nothing the next day. All should take reasonable precaution to keep themselves well, because ill health sets vitality, and each time one is ill a tiny bit of youth is sacrificed. One's reserve is to be used and every illness adds against the preservation of one's good looks. Get plenty of sleep for nothing lines the face like sleeplessness and illness. Those lines across the forehead usually come from mental strain and to avoid them you must have absolute control of your thoughts. Don't give way to your temper. Let your anger set with the sun but not rise with it. Enter into life with a good set and least cities followed. A woman who will not fail to take chance from medicines recommended by her doctor at the most inconvenient time finds it difficult to adopt the two remedies—fresh air and quantities of pure water. Let the fresh air. Fresh air is a necessity if one would keep young. Do not sleep in ill ventilated rooms. Nothing is more common than fresh air. Nature has provided it in abundance for all who will take it. Open the windows and let fresh air constantly coming in to take the place of foul air, which in all cases should be permitted to escape near the top of the room. It is a law of nature that air is always in motion, and because this is true we have only to lower one window a little from the top, and raise them a little from the bottom, and the process of ventilation will be accomplished without care. It is impossible to estimate the amount of misery caused by impure air. Even those that have educated themselves to the fresh air cult, still neglect the equally important habit of drinking plenty of pure water. They drink just enough to satisfy thirst, and any doctor will tell you that a certain quantity of water should be taken daily, a pint and a half is the very least one is supposed to drink. Yet, there are many people who never drink water at all. Drink plenty of water and you will be astonished how much younger and prettier you will look.

Avoid fear in all its varied forms of expression. It is the greatest enemy of the human race, and never allow yourself to become slouchy and careless in appearance. Remember the old adage the woman's hair is her crowning glory. Never look on the dark side; take sunny views of everything—a sunny thought driver away the shadows. Are you unable to be most of your environment, or are you one of the vast army of woman who, realize they are homemakers, and housekeeper, have never a thought beyond what the menu will be for dinner, or the house cleaning that seems to be done next week? True, these things are necessary, and must be done, and should be done in the very best way. But no woman's life should end there. You are not living a real life at all unless you are getting out of everything you possibly can. It is not only the privilege—but the duty of every one of us, no matter what our station in life, to make the most of our environment. Cultivate the spirit of contentment, all discontent, and dissatisfaction bring age forward prematurely to the brow. Keep plenty of sunlight in the home, for it is one of the best known germicides. Modern housewives are beginning to realize the value of manufactured germicides as weapons with which to fight disease and dirt. That is good, but they ought not to fail to realize also the incalculably greater value of those germicides which the great wealth cannot buy nor the most absolute poverty deprive one of—sunshine and fresh air. Take a sunbath occasionally, for there is nothing like sunshine to banish the blues. Keep in the sunlight, for nothing beautiful ever grows in the darkness. And let all your influence be exerted for the purpose of doing all you can for the common good and individual welfare of everyone."

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. R. Handley's on Friday May 19th. The members are urgently requested to be present, as this will be an annual meeting for the election of officers.

Mrs. Asaph Edwards will give a paper on "The Training of Children" and a demonstration in candy making by Little Britain ladies.

OFFER FREE POWER FOR ADVERTISING

(From Wednesday's Post)

Examiner: At the meeting of the city council last night, a proposition was read from the Electric Power Co., Limited, offering to supply for advertising purposes to the city, electric current free of all expenses sufficient to light one 50 Watt Tungsten lamp for each 100 inhabitants over and above 5,000. The company advises that special illuminations on the business streets and of the streets leading to the stations might be the best form of advertising.

The matter was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and the clerk was instructed to write and thank the Electric Power Company for their generous offer.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The best testimony is that of Mr. Alfred Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was needed was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

ADVERTISE IN THE POST.

COUNCIL TO LEASE PORTION OF HENRY-ST TO HOSPITAL BOARD FOR TERM OF YEARS

From Tuesday's Post.

A deputation of property owners living in the vicinity of Henry-street appeared before the Council last evening protesting against the dedication of that thoroughfare to the Board of Governors of the Rose Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Geo. Henley was spokesman, and said he was strongly opposed to the closing of the street, as it would damage his property. If it was closed he would look out the town for damages.

Mr. F. E. Weldon who appeared for the petitioners, also addressed the Council, and said that many years ago, the property owners purchased their property according to the survey of the town plot, which registered at that time. The closing of the street was not fair to the property owners, as the value of the property would depreciate. If the Council closes the street, the property owners must be compensated.

They would be better pleased if the road was properly graveelled and fixed up so as to make a suitable driveway to and from the hospital.

Mr. Thos. Stewart, of the Board of Governors, said that this was a matter about which there should be no trouble. The hospital was a great boon to the town and county and had not cost the people one dollar. The hospital has only made two repairs in the town. One was that the hospital shehould be properly conducted. The second was the request for the dedication of a portion of Henry-st., so that it m ght be beautified and laid out as a park for the nurses to play tennis on He did not think there would be any opposition to the request that this street be dedicated. The Board of Governors wished to have the property in the rear of the nurses' home, private property. Property did not lend itself to a driveway in front of their property, but did not wish to have one in rear. The closing of the street would cause no damage to the property and he would be sorry to see the by-law defeated.

Mr J. Carew said he was not present to injure any man, but if the Council thought it would be better to leave the street as it is present condition than see it beautified, then that settled the matter. He did not think the property in the vicinity would depreciate one iota should the request of the Board of Governors be acceded to.

Mr. Geo. Adams said if Mr. Carew's statements regarding the street in question being a dumping ground were correct, it was a disgrace to the town. The closing of the street would damage the property in the vicinity. All the property owners asked was their rights.

Dr. Vrooman said that the delegation and Council knew that no member had any selfish desire, but wanted to do what was right. He inspected the street, but he could not see how the properties in the vicinity could be affected. He was ready to concede that there might be an element of injury in one or two cases.

Refusing the request of Mr. Jas. Ross, the donor of the hospital, after his generous gift, would be a poor return for his munificence. If the street was leased it would not be irrevocable, as the street could be reopened at any time.

Mr. Bolton said he would suggest that the street be opened up and put in first-class shape. Make a fence and take the ground secured by the agricultural society and beauty it for the use of the nursing staff.

The following communication bearing on the question under discussion was read:

"We humbly, respectively, and not one for the other, object to the closing of Henry-st. (from Janes-st. to Angle-st.) Lindsay, and claim our interests for the closing of the said street and the consequent depreciation in the value of their properties, respectively the amount set opposite our names.

P. Conquergood, $600.
Catharine Henley, $600.
Wesley Varcoe, $600.
Geo. Henley, Jr., $600.
Geo. Adams $600.

When the by-law dedicating the street came up for consideration, it was given its first reading on motion of Messrs. Smale and Horn.

Reeve Vrooman said he would not support the first reading, as it was his intention to move a resolution to lease the street to the Board of Governors. The motion to give the by-law its first reading was lost on division.

Ald. Clark wanted to know if the residents in the vicinity of Henry-st. would be satisfied with a lease.

Reeve Vrooman said he understood that both the property owners and hospital authorities would be satisfied with this arrangement.

A resolution will be introduced leasing the street to the Board of Governors for a term of years.

LINDSAY PEOPLE OFF TO WEST

A number of residents from town and vicinity left this morning and yesterday for western and other points. It is the usual spring exodus to the north west, and according to the number who intend going it looks as be a very flourishing season for the railways. Following are those who have already left: Richard Davidson and Bert Courtney to Prince Albert; J. G. Ryan to Saskatoon; Jas. Webster and Mr. Foster to Saskatoon and Battleford; Jas. Bryson to Calgary; Mr. Geo. Baldwin to Saskatoon; Mr. Wm. Jordan, to Saskatoon; Miss Richardson to Edmonton, Mr. Jas. Hopkins to Portland, Ore., and Mr. J. Mallen, to Regina.

SEEDING IN WEST WELL UNDER WAY

Winnipeg, Man., April, 24.—The Canadian Pacific Railway weekly crop report shows that from 10 to 75 per cent of seeding has been done according to locality. Good progress has been made in all along the main line, and in Southern Manitoba. In the Moose Mountain, Portland and Weyburn sections little more than a good start has been made. Fifteen to twenty per cent has been done in the Medicine Hat district with a higher percentage at Swift Current. In Saskatoon and Battle Creek district 20 to 25 per cent has been done.

In Alberta a fair start has been made in Edmonton district, and the work is more forward as one goes north, estimating from 10 to 15 per cent in the Melcod district. On the Melcod, Lethbridge and Crow's Nest divisions seeding does not go much beyond 5 per cent. Winter wheat throughout Alberta is reported never to have been in better shape. There was very little winter killing, and farmers are very hopeful of a good crop, provided they get plenty of rain during the next six weeks.

Mr. Hepburn Wants Increase

Mr. James L. Hepburn wrote the council last evening, asking for an increase in wages. He is one of the corporation street laborers. His request will be dealt with in committee.

Banish Pimples and Eruptions

In the Spring Most People Need A Tonic Medicine

If you want the best of health, and new strength in the spring, you must build up your blood with a good tonic. Following the long indoor winter months most people feel depressed and easily. This means that the blood is impure, and watery. It is a state of the blood that causes pimples and unsightly eruptions. To this same condition is due the attacks of rheumatism and lumbago, the sharp, stabbing pains of sciatica and neuralgia, poor appetite, frequent headaches and a desire to avoid exertion. You cannot cure these troubles by the use of purgative medicines—you need a tonic. And a good tonic only, and among all tonics there is none can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for their rich, life giving, nerve-restoring powers. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich blood which drives out impurities, stimulates every organ, and brings a feeling of new health and energy to weak, tired out people. Nine tenths of the troubles you are feeling out of sorts give this medicine a trial and see how quickly it will rid you of the cause, revive drooping spirits and fill your veins with new, health giving blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WAKELYS

SEVERAL ALDERMEN KICKED THE TRACES OVER LATE SESSION OF THE COUNCIL

In the British House of Commons the Asquith Government is holding all night sessions in its efforts to put through the Irish vote before the coronation of King George. At Ottawa the Government and Opposition have locked horns on the money bill, and are holding prolonged sessions, which are proving a serious strain on the members.

Here in Lindsay our civic fathers have established a reputation for possessing remarkable staying powers. Ever since January 1st, when the present council assumed the reins of office, the sessions, with one exception, have lasted until after eleven o'clock. There have been rumblings of discontent and dissatisfaction among certain members of the council, and yesterday afternoon a fair amount of valuable time was wasted at the council meetings, and if members adhered more closely to parliamentary rules, the business of the council could be transacted with greater despatch.

Last evening's session was no exception to the general rule. Some of the members, time and again, indulged in discussion that was entirely out of order, and no effort was made to apply the closure.

During the evening, Reeve Vrooman and His Worship Mayor Bain were engaged in a discussion on the Henry-st question. His Worship was out of order, and these were frowned upon and properly heard from different members.

Finally Ald. Horn rose to a point of order and directed His Worship's attention to the fact that the rules governing the deliberation of the council were not being adhered to. His Worship, Mr. Horn said, had assured him that if a business council were conducted, they could wind up their session at 10.30 o'clock, as everything pertaining the hands pointed towards 12 o'clock before adjournment was called.

There were several reforms to put through, however, and when this was accomplished a motion to adjourn was put. Several members, however, had motions to put, and argued for a hearing. Then Ald. McCrea, who far from being well, donned his overcoat and went out into the night. The session continued, and there was another motion to adjourn, followed up by Ald. Horn and McClory vacating their seats and putting on their coats. They were pressed to wait, and they voted against the appointment of Thos. Hogg, as sidewalk, and sewer superintendent. Several members were anxious to present their motions, but the council arose with not a motion to adjourn, and the session closed at 11.05.

FIRM'S PROPOSITION WAS WITHDRAWN

The following communication from Flavelles Limited, was read at last night's council meeting:

Mr. D. Ray,
Town Clerk,

Dear Sir—Re our recent interview with the council relative to the overcharge by the late Town Clerk, and the proposition to meet same, we might, in the meantime, withdraw same, as we understand there is possibly some legal difficulty in the way of the council dealing with same as suggested.

Yours truly,
FLAVELLES, LTD.

Obituary

ZINA HAM.

Mr. C. A. Hooper, of Sutcliffe & Sons, is in Napanee to-day attending the funeral of his uncle, the late Zina Ham. An exchange has the following reference to his demise:

"Another very sudden death occurred Tuesday morning when Mr. Zina Ham, one of the best known residents of the town, died at his home on Dairy Hill. Although he had not been in good health for some time, he seemed to be improving, and on Monday attended the funeral of his old friend, Mr. W. K. Pruyn, after which he spent the evening at his own home and retired at an early hour, but at 3 o'clock his wife was called and asked to have the doctor sent for, who on arrival at the bedside, found all efforts to arouse him unavailing, but he lived but a short time. Mr. Ham is the last one of the old families of the county, and had twelve brothers and sisters, who predeceased him. He reached the age of seventy-five years and seven months, and leaves one son Mr. J. S. Ham, his wife having predeceased him some nineteen years ago. His funeral will be held on Thursday, afternoon at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, of which he was a member."

WOULD RAISE THE STANDARD

A project for raising the University matriculation standard, which has been in the air for some time, took definite shape in report made to the University of Toronto, Senate, by President Falconer. The President's suggestion is that the present senior matriculation should be made the standard for entrance into University. It is about equal to the pass course of the present year matriculation. The adoption of the standard for entrance to the University would have an important effect upon the whole educational system of the province.

A statement issued on behalf of the Senate says that the question will be furthered considerably at the return meeting of the Senate. This statement points out that the plan would make it impossible for students to secure in the collegiate and the preparatory schools more personal attention than they do at the university, that it would be cheaper for them. It also points out that the expense of these advanced students would raise the standard in such schools.

As a result of a conference with representatives of Queen's Western, and McMaster Universities, a new scale of values for matriculation is arranged as follows: English, Latin, and mathematics, each 200; French, German, Greek and experimental sciences, each 100, and history 150.

An important amendment to the matriculation regulations, which will make it easier for those preparing themselves for this examination has been adopted. A student unable, to attend a preparatory school will be allowed to spread his examination over four years, provided that he received 40 per cent, and sixty per cent of the total possible marks.

ADVERTISE IN THE POST

HERDING TRAMPS IN LOCK UP

From Tuesday's Post.

Alderman Horn at last night's meeting of the council, asked what progress had been made by the committee appointed to look into the question of erecting a new lock-up. He had noticed in the press that some ten unfortunates had been put in the present lock-up. This he considered inhuman, and a disgrace to civilization.

Deputy-Reeve Dobson said that the quarters were good enough for the class of people put there.

Mr. Horn in reply stated that the cells were not fit for human beings. The citizens paid to feed these unfortunates with liquor and they should provide them with better quarters.

NELSON ZUEFELDT LAID AT REST

From Tuesday's Post.

This morning at 3 o'clock, the funeral of the late Nelson Zuefeldt took place from the family residence, William-st, to the Roman Catholic cemetery. The college first mass at St. Mary's church, where requiem mass was chanted by Venerable Archdeacon Casey. A large congregation was present at the services. The pallbearers were: Messrs J. McEllivary, T. Bryant, J. Doan, J. Campbell, T. Brady, and R. P. Spratt.

Among the relatives from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Mrs. Roland Hill, Mrs. M. O'Brien, Peterboro, and Mr. P. Hinton, of Grand Rapids, Mich, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. George Zuefeldt, Toronto.

In the death of Mr. Zuefeldt, there passes away a citizen, who was well known and highly respected.

PATRICK DUFFY WANTS DAMAGES

The firm of Hopkins, Weeks & Hopkins notified the Council last night that they had been instructed by Mr. Patrick Duffy to take proceedings against town and C.P.R. for damages for injuries to himself and death to his horse at the King-st. crossing.

Mr. Duffy's claim is on the grounds that the Board of Railway Commissioners ordered gates at this crossing and the town failed to comply with the order. Had the town done its duty no accident would have occured.

Referred to committee.

Engineering Firm's Request

Bowring & Logan, engineers, of Toronto, wrote the council last night, offering their services in the making out of a complete municipal electric lighting and power scheme should such be considered.—Referred to committee.

MR. W. B. FEE'S ACTION AGAINST TOWN HIS SOLICITOR WRITES THE COUNCIL

From Tuesday's Post.

A communication was read from Hopkins, Weeks & Hopkins at last night's Council meeting re the action of Mr. Wm. B. Fee against the town to recover damages for polluting the river with sewers and injuring property. If the action succeeds, read the communication, it means putting the town to the expense of anywhere from fifty to one hundred thousand dollars in arranging for the town's sewerage. Eventually this will have to be done, and if it is put off for ten or fifteen years, it would be considerable saving to town. The firm was satisfied that a satisfactory arrangement could be made with the plaintiff.

The reason the firm wrote was not because they had any doubt about the suit, because if the Council and its legal advisers thought they had a defence, they had no hesitatiy in going ahead with the action, but as both the plaintiff and Mr. Hopkins were heavy taxpayers they had no desire to do this and put the town to this large expense if some kind of a reasonable arrangement is made. Mr. Hopkins said he understood that people thought that if the action succeeded that they would have to deal with the other people down the river. That was not the cause at all, because plaintiff was the only one injured. Some were also under the impression that town secured consent of Provincial Board of Health to put in sewers the way they were. If the Provincial Board of Health report was read, wrote Mr. Hopkins, it would be found that directly opposite was the case.

The case will come up for trial at the next sitting of High Court, May 15th.

The communication closed as follows: "Please understand distinctly that we are not begging or asking any favors for the plaintiff in the action. If you think you have got any defence, by all means go on, but see that you get the advice of somebody that you have got a defence."

The communication was referred to committee.

HOCKEY CHAMPIONS RECEIVED SILVERWARE PLEASING PRESENTATION LAST EVENING

From Tuesday's Post.

Last evening the members of the Boxall & Matthie hockey team, Town Hockey League champions, were presented with the Warder Shield and medals, emblematic of the championship.

The presentation was a most pleasing event, members of the firm under whose name the team played, were present, as well as Mr. Allan Gillies, the donor of the shield.

Mr. James Boxall, who presented the shield to the winners, made a neat speech in which he commended the players for the true, sportsmanlike demeanour which characterized their action during the winter, and also congratulated the boys on their success. He also gave the boys some wholesome advice in which he emphasized the fact that in order to be successful in life one must have a sound mind and a sound body.

Mr. Allan Gillies presented the shield to Mr. Geo. Matthie in a neat address, and Mr. Matthie, in accepting it, congratulated the boys on their great victory.

After the presentation the boys partook of dainty refreshments, generously provided by the firm.

The Boxall & Matthie septette had a most creditable record. They were relegated to the down and out class by many of the fans during the early stages of the hockey season, but by constant and earnest practice, combined with really excellent team play, they forged ahead and closed a brilliant season by winning the championship. They were a team of stars, and an inspiration to other teams, and serves to illustrate the fact that victory cannot be won without consistent practice, and playing the game as it should be played.

DEPUTATION VISITS LINDSAY SCHOOLS

From Tuesday's Post.

This morning a deputation from the Belleville Board of Education visited Lindsay for the purpose of inspecting the new Public schools.

The visitors were taken in hand by Mr. John W. Anderson, Chairman of the management committee of the local School Board, and a visit was first made to the North Ward school, and afterwards to the Central school.

The deputation made careful inspection of the two schools and were surprised at the excellence of the structures. They were especially delighted with the Central School building, and they all, with one accord, decided to recommend the erection of a similar one in Belleville.

One of the visitors this afternoon in speaking to the Post, said that Lindsay was to be congratulated on its new school buildings, and on their character. They were modern in every detail, and were ahead of many seen in much larger centres.

The deputation comprised Messrs. F. H. O'Flynn, C. M. Reeds, W. P. Hudson, G. A. Bennett, H. J. Clarke, J. H. Anderson, S. S. Moore, B. Mallory.

Mr. Jas. A. Ellis, architect, and Mr. Wm. Bundas also accompanied the deputation on their inspection.

CARS DERAILED ON THE G. T. R.

Examiner: At 6 o'clock this morning, an east bound G.T.R. freight with a load of grain, five miles west of Peterboro, encountered a broken rail. This did not affect the engine, but eight or nine of the bindermost cars were thrown off the line.

On account of this, the flyer, and the 8.30 train were forced to travel via Millbrook on the old track.

The auxiliaries are now busy replacing the cars.

C. P. R. CUTTING DOWN LOGIE-ST.

C.P.R. engineer Duncan, at last night's council meeting, asked that body to confirm the cutting down of Logie-st on L.B. & P. Railway. The railway wished to cut down the thoroughfare some two feet, three inches in order that the present line would conform with the new grain roofs. The railway, Mr. Duncan pointed out, was anxious to proceed with the work at once. They would take proper care of the drainage.

A resolution was unanimously passed approving of the proposed undertaking.

WANTS TO SEE CLAIM ADJUSTED

Mr. I. E. E. Weldon, notified the council last evening that the claim of Mr. Bert Woods, for damages to his cutter at the G.T.R. crossing at West-st, should be adjusted with as little delay as possible. He would like to know what the municipality intended doing in the matter. The matter will be dealt with later.

A GREAT REMEDY FOR LITTLE ONES

That is what thousands of mothers say of Baby's Own Tablets. We have received thousands of letters praising them—we have yet to receive a single one condemning them. The Tablets cannot possibly do harm even to the weakest babe. They contain none of the poisonous drugs which make the so-called "soothing" mixtures so dangerous to the welfare of the little ones. They are a medicine, carefully prepared by one of the greatest specialists on childhood ailments and would be hard to spare home where there are babies or small children. Mrs. Fred McCarthy, Pinewood, Ont. writes "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have found them a great remedy for little ones. I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

TOUGH'S CUT LOOSE ON KENT STREET

From Tuesday's Post.

The number of toughs who gather nightly on our main street are becoming so numerous and so rough that something will have to be done very soon to put a stop to the nuisance. Last night seemed worse than usual, however. About 9.30 the dining window in Mr. G. A. Little's bookstore was smashed by some young fellows and then again about 11.30 a window in Mr. F. C. Taylor's restaurant was also broken. As Mr. Taylor remarked, "It seemed as though all the riff-raff and toughs from the whole country centred on Kent-st. last night." It is unfortunate indeed that such things as these should have to be tolerated or that Kent street should be allowed to be made such a Summer's resort as it is. These gents men who have suffered damage, although perhaps not large in itself, are paying taxes for protection and if such a thing is allowed to go on, who knows where it will end. It

WOULD ACT AS TOWN ENGINEER

Mr. George Smith, Ontario Land Surveyor, wrote the council stating that he had been giving some attention recently to the cause of the late flooding of Sylvester Co., and thought he could suggest a remedy. For this purpose he could give part of his time during the summer, as he considered that the services of a permanent town engineer wasn't required.

Under date of April 28th, Mr. Smith wrote Ald. Babcock, stating that he agreed with his suggestion that $300 or $400 should do the town engineering. As he felt like assisting in dealing with some of the problems that the town is up against, he would like to be appointed town engineer with that object.—Referred to Committee.

CRIMEAN VETERAN DEAD AT COBOCONK

(Special to The Post)

Coboconk, May, 2—Mr. William Campbell died at the home of Mr. Jas. Wallace, where he has boarded for some time, on April, 25th, at the ripe age of 79 years.

Mr. Campbell was an ex-soldier of the British army having fought through the Crimean war, for which service he received a pension for several years.

His aged partner predeceased him by four years, and since then he boarded in the village.

His property and his pension kept him in comfortable circumstances, and he could have lived any place, but he chose to stay among old friends. His snowy beard, erect soldierly yearing, and gentlemanly appearance made Mr. Campbell a striking figure. He was a Reformer in politics and a great reader.

Only two of his family, Mrs. Tresnale, of Hamilton, and Steven, of St. Louis, were in attendance at his burial on Friday of last week which was conducted by Rev. A.B. Chaffee.

Slaughter of Song Birds

The new Ontario act provides that airguns can not be purchased by any person under eighteen years of age, and the purchaser in all classes must have a permit from the chief of police. This should do a great deal towards the slaughter of Canadian song birds. The airgun is the weapon most commonly used by mischievous small boys in this cruel pastime. The fact cannot be too widely circulated argues the Ottawa Citizen, that any person who purchases an airgun will either have to show that he has a permit or that the gun was purchased before the act came into force.

WOMAN WAS TOO MODERN

"Next," called Saint Peter.

A tall, comely woman arose from the bench and came forward gracefully. She was dressed rather for style than for comfort. Her clothes ruffled vulgarly and her hair was manifestly different from what God intended it to be.

"Name, please."

"I am the American wife."

"Are you sure?"

"Here is my marriage certificate."

"I mean are you sure that you have been a wife?"

"As to that, I——"

"What do you understand the qualifications of a wife to be?"

"To take charge of the household and——"

"And do as little as possible in it, eh?"

"But you could not expect me to do the heavy work, could you?"

"You expected other women to do the heavy work."

"Servants. They are a different class."

"And you were peevish when they didn't do it just so."

"But——"

"And you were always complaining that things weren't quingridiqt."

"Let me——"

"And when your husband came home nights, he had to hear all your little ailments, spiritual, physical, mental, domestic and social."

"But you don't——"

"Your idea being all the time to divorce yourself——"

"Not divorce——"

"From your usefulness of all kinds, in order that you might engage in most trifling occupations."

"Don't you think a woman should have some pleasure in life?"

"Sitting around the bridge table or at the mailing and eating rich food, until you got fat, and husbanding beauty doctors until you got thin. Wasn't that your highest ideal of pleasure?"

"I went to clubs and to church."

"To show your clothes?"

"I had children."

"But you found it a terrible nuisance to take care of them."

"I could afford to hire nurses and governesses."

"But you couldn't afford to give them any of your valuable time."

"But my husband didn't want me to work myself to death."

"No, of course not. It is no better to work yourself to death than to let yourself to death. But, after all, your husband has nothing to do with it! We'll deal with him separately. You had your own life to live. His being foolish doesn't excuse you."

"The American wife burst into tears as she saw her chance of heaven fading away.

"There, none of that," commanded Saint Peter. "Tears have no effect on us." Then he turned to his clerk. "Clerk, give this woman a gingham apron and set her to work peeling potatoes and other odd jobs. Let me see her again in about six months."—Ellis R. Jones in "Life."

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

Dear Sir, I am very happy to inform you that I was troubled with Nervous Debility for over 3 years. I tried to indulge in bad habits in youth. I became very nervous, could not sleep, was constipated, had headache and others. My eyesight was weak, my heart was weak, had palpitation, was easily startled, had pimples on face, had no ambition, was easily tired, had sunken eyes, dreams, losses, memory gone, was shy in company, the future was hard to look at. I did not know what was before me. I was threatened with paralysis and I took every kind of medicine I could hear of, but I was worse when I came to Detroit. Now I am a new man, have no more nervousness, my heart is strong, I can look the world in the face, my memory has come back, I can look after my business, I am happy, I can sleep well, I am cured. I feel like a new man. I can recommend your treatment to all who are in need of it. Yours very truly, [illegible]

LINDSAY WILL OBSERVE CORONATION DAY COMMITTEE IS ARRANGING PROGRAMME

The Post has been informed that a committee of citizens are making arrangements to hold a celebration on June 22nd, the date of His Majesty King George's coronation.

The committee has already met and has mapped out a programme of events for both afternoon and evening.

The committee intends making the celebration an annual event, and it is to be hoped that the programme will be such as to establish a record and encourage people to come to town another year. The town of Port Hope has held a celebration every Dominion Day for years, and the programme each year attracts thousands to the Lakeshore town.

There is no reason, whatever why Lindsay should not have an annual celebration. Every holiday in the year our citizens leave town for other centres, where celebrations are held, and certainly should consider home. This is lost to the town and the other centres reap the benefit. The town is admirably situated for holding a monster celebration each year, but it must be of such a character as to give general satisfaction.

OPERATIONS ON WILFORD CONTRACT

The work on Mr. Wilford's contract on the Georgian Bay and the Seaboard Railway is already making quite a showing. At the iron bridge for the thousand feet south a temporary track has been constructed to allow the present Burketon line to be shifted and the grade will be reduced between five and six feet. At McArthur's school house considerable grading has been done, the filling having been taken from a point farther south. At Hill Head, the work is showing considerable progress. The first of the week, the force will be concentrated at McArthur's school house, and the grading will be commenced at the main line, near the iron bridge.

FIREBUGS BUSY AT BELLEVILLE

Belleville, Ont., April 25.—Incendiaries have been operating in the city with very destructive results. During several days past a number of fires in various parts of the city, have been started, but up to yesterday morning little damage was done. Then a barn in the rear of the Hastings House, owned by the Murray estate was burned, entailing a loss of $400. At noon a fire was started at the lumber yard of Walton's sash factory, but the damage was slight, about $ per. Fire was discovered outside the Albion hotel stables, but was extinguished without damage.

Two and a half hours later a large brick structure was seen to be in flames, and despite the utmost efforts of the firemen was completely gutted, with all its contents, including a large quantity of hay, straw and oats. The stable of the Hastings House, immediately adjoining, a frame structure, also became a prey to the flames.

The fire was undoubtedly incendiary, as Mr. Hazlin, owner of the Albion hotel, had gone through all the parts of his stable half an hour before the fire broke out. The loss is about $7,000 and he is insured for $3,400 in the Queen City Company.

The loss of the Murray estate is estimated at $1,500. Mr. Wardaugh tenant of the Hastings House, lost about $100 in the contents of his stable.

ELDON FARMER'S BARNS BURNED

Word was received in town today that a Mr. McMillan, residing on lot 14, con. 8, Eldon, lost his barns and contents today by fire.

STRICKEN WITH HEART FAILURE

Toronto Star: Chas. Fairbairn, aged 75, ex-M.P.P. for North Victoria and for the most five years engaged as assistant in the Reading Room of the Ontario Legislature, was found dead on the bed in his room at 67 Grosvenor street, at nine o'clock yesterday. His coat was off, and he is believed to have been stricken with heart failure. The man's failure to appear at breakfast at the usual hour led to the discovery of his death. Dr. Reeves, O. Reilly was summoned, but it was too late for medical aid.

Mr. Fairbairn was at his place of duty all day Tuesday and had apparently been in the best of health of late. He spent a few days at Kentville with members of his family at Lindsay.

VERULAM BOY ON CONTINGENT

The many friends of W. B. Hunter who attended the T. C. I. here a few years ago, will be pleased to learn that he has been one of the chosen who will represent Canada at the Coronation this year. Mr. Hunter is the eldest son of Mr. D. Hunter, of Verulam, and at present is employed by a drug business in Vancouver. He belongs to the Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles at Vancouver, and last year was chosen to shoot at the various rifle matches held at Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, so qualify for a place on the Bisley team to be sent to England this year, at which time he did some excellent shooting. The Vancouver Daily Province says: "Col. Gregory B. Hunter ranks among the best all round soldiers in the West, and is a credit to the force, and especially to his regiment. He has never seen actual service, but has devoted a great deal of time and energy to the service of the Dominion forces, and his selection as a representative of the regiment will be a popular one. He is a Canadian by birth and it can be truly said that he is in every way a representative of the Dominion. We are of the opinion that in a matter of this kind when men are chosen to represent a country, they should be men who can claim that country as their place of birth. Col.-Serjt. Hunter is an expert rifleman and will no doubt pay a visit to the Mecca of all riflemen Bisley."

A WHITBY WOMAN IN DETECTIVE ROLE

Miss Bowler, a young woman from Whitby, played the part of an amateur sleuth yesterday and succeeded in bringing about the arrest of Alexander Wilson, also of Whitby, on a charge of perjury.

Wilson was arrested last night at the Union Station by P. C. Hunt. He was taken from Whitby yesterday by Miss Hunt, who, after several attempts, recently induced the attorney-General's department to lay the charge against him.

The complaint arose out of a joint charge of arson against Miss Bowler and her mother, who were acquitted a few weeks ago of setting fire to the barns near Myrtle belonging to the mother of Wilson.

Upon Wilson's arrival at the depot yesterday Miss Bowler lost sight of the crowd. Later she discovered that he had checked his baggage at the parcel room in the depot and when he returned to claim the baggage, she pointed him out to the constable.

PICKED UP ARM AND WALKED HOME

Brantford, April, 27.—Mrs. John Smith, residing on Alonzo street near the Grand Trunk station, apparently in a demented state, got up at two o'clock this morning, and wandered along the railway tracks, finally lying down beside a rail, with the result that a passing engine took an arm off at the elbow. She then picked up the amputated member and walked home, collapsing in the hallway in front of her house, where she was found shortly afterwards. The woman was removed to the hospital where the arm was dressed, and further amputation will be made this afternoon.

Mrs. Smith, who is a middle-aged woman, is alleged to have attempted suicide a couple of weeks ago by cutting her throat, but was unsuccessful. M

LOCAL DETECTIVE ON THE JOB

In connection with the rounding up of the ballot box thieves, the Post has been informed that a local detective has been working on the job. It was owing to his efforts that the raid was made the other evening, as he had been working on certain clues.

A Post reporter had a conversation with the detective on Saturday and he stated that he expected to round up the whole band of thieves who have been operating in and around Lindsay.

BOBCAYGEON HAD A FIRE SCARE

Bobcaygeon, May. 1.—About 8.30 Friday evening a bush fire came so dangerously near the buildings in the agricultural grounds that it was necessary to call out fire brigade. For some months past there have been busy clearings up the new strip along the park, and on Friday evening one of the members of the agricultural society considered it an opportune time for the disposal of the brush heaps. However, when the torch was applied, the west wind burned the fire along in the dry timber, and threatened to endanger the homes, of those residing nearby. Soon after the alarm was sounded the fire brigade were busy and after strenuous efforts managed to get the fire under control, but not before when the engine started the two streams of hose brought it under control.

WOULD MAKE QUEEN'S NON-DENOMINATIONAL

Kingston, April 27.—At the meeting of the board of trustees of Queen's, held yesterday on motion of Principal Gordon, the following resolution in regard to the removal of the denominational restrictions from the constitution was carried by a vote of seventeen to four. That the board of trustees pursuant to the resolution of the General Assembly, had advised the attorney-generally, but had been unable to attain it; that they had submitted the question of constitutional changes to the graduates and alumni and by an overwhelming majority (1,429 to 124) they had pronounced in favor of the changes; the board of trustees therefore asks the General Assembly to adopt the report of the Assembly's commission presented at its last meeting, and to co-operate in putting the constitutional changes into effect.

LOCAL OPTION UPHELD IN BEAVERTON ATTACK ON BYLAW IN COURT FAILS

Re Sturmer and Beaverton—A motion by Henry Sturmer to quash local option by-law. Judgment: There were 160 votes cast in favor of the by-law and 111 against it so that 164 (167) votes were necessary to give the statutory majority, and it is claimed that the by-law should be quashed if it can be shown that three votes were improperly cast. The judges of the Court of Appeal "concurring in the result" in Ellis v. Renfrew used that expression advisedly, signifying that they agree in dismissing the appeal because the appellant had not attacked a sufficient number of votes and they did not intend to express concurrence in the view that even one vote had been well impeached and that they did not determine this question. This leaves the Scarborough decision binding upon me, and the clerk's vote is allowed. Years and Maclily voters cited McArthur's vote is bad, he having moved permanently from Toronto to Beaverton before the election. Two votes for Arthur Years and Ann Millar had the Toronto address. As to Ann McIlee's vote the deponents are acting improperly when an action they validate their vote by proof and disclose what took place. As to McDonald's vote the clerk acted quite properly in putting the ballot by accident placed in the wrong box, in the right one without opening it or indicating how marked and this does not void the election. There is no foundation for the charge that secrecy was violated on polling subdivision no 2. In the result the attack fails and is dismissed with costs.

I have not to consider the question whether in the event of my finding that there were votes enough improperly cast to possibly effect the result, I should try to ascertain how these votes were cast. This would be an extension of the West Lorne case requiring very careful consideration. The court has power to extend the by-law illegality. Illegality is shown when it appears that the by-law was passed upon the votes of qualified voters but of the qualified voters plus certain persons having no qualification. In order to ascertain whether these affected the number of bad votes is compared with the majority. Must the court then guess or cast its mind into the facts and ascertain how the bad ballots were marked? Voters are protected and not the man who has no right to vote. Secrecy of this question must be dealt with. It does not seem right that the will of the duly qualified electors should be defeated by the action of one who has no right to vote and who voted against the by-law. This may be the result if the court finds itself so impotent as to be compelled in effect to give still greater weight to the votes by deducting it from those cast in favor of the by-law. In this way the bad vote is really counted twice—once in the actual counting of the ballot paper and again on the motion to quash.

AFTER A MOTOR CAR FACTORY

Review: Several gentlemen at present interested in the promotion of an automobile company are in the city securing subscribers for stock in the Elles Motor Car Company and have been successful to quite a degree. There are fair prospects for Petersboro getting the decision as to the manufacture point of the company which is capitalized at $250,000. Considerable stock has been subscribed by Toronto people. The company proposed not ask for any bonuses of the city. The desire is to secure operation at once.

Commissioner Duggan has been introducing the visitors to local people and as stated above, good success has been met with. The amount of stock asked to be subscribed locally is twenty thousand dollars.

WOMAN LOCKED IN DEPARTMENTAL STORE

Buffalo, N.Y., April 27.—A spectacle of a woman descending a ladder from an upper story of a big departmental store provided entertainment for an Main street crowd of several hundred people last night.

Caught in the evening a pandemonium of the Main street squad saw a woman at an upper story window of the store. She was crying hysterically and trying to attract the attention of passers on the street. A long ladder was secured and the officer started to ascend. But the woman waved back and cried, "Tell some down alone," she said. And she did, the crowd cheering as she got safely landed her way down the 55-foot ladder.

"The bobbie shirt is vindicated," remarked the policeman. "It's a great thing for a woman as a ladder."

The woman had been inadvertently locked in when the store closed.

CANADIAN BANKS LOSING BUSINESS

Winnipeg, April 28.—Speaking of the financial side of the movement of American settlers into Canada, Canadian money men will do well to cultivate the acquaintance of new comers. Thousands, actually thousands, of these settlers send back to the United States for their financial wants. As reported in the States the branch banks of Western Canada seem to send their funds to the large financial centres and farmers find trouble in securing the money necessary to expansion. As a result they turn to "American money lenders" back home," and thousands upon thousands of dollars which under ordinary conditions would remain in Canada, are being sent out of the country as interest on loans made to Americans in Canada.

There are many hundreds of thousands of Canada dollars held in Canada and only recently a syndicate of Canadian capitalists offered to loan $250,000 in cash and over half as much in credit to finance one single enterprise in this city.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS FOR HYDRO POWER

MIDLAND, April 27.—A hydro-electric bylaw was voted on in Midland to-day by authority the council to take power from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission and to expend $13 000 in carrying out the present plant and making necessary changes. Altho the vote was light it was practically unanimous. The bylaw was carried by 321 to 13. The meeting called by Mayor Horrell and addressed by Hon. Adam Beck, explained the municipality that the scheme is a good one. Pending votes on a similar bylaw on May 1 and there is no doubt that it will be carried.

It is hoped to have a Hydro power and light in use by July 1 as the Georgian Railway and Power Company plant is now about completed.

LAYING RAILS INTO ORILLIA

Packet: The C.P.R. is laying steel on the line between Coldwater and Orillia. The track laying machine is already past Uthoff. It is advancing at the rate of about a mile a day, and will reach Orillia the town early next week. As soon as the rails are laid, construction trains will begin hauling material from the cutting at Silver Creek into town, to fill in the right-of-way along the water front. It is quite within the range of possibility that the C.P.R. may be running trains into Orilia from Coldwater in July.

In an interview with Mr McNichol, General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, published in the Mail and Empire on Monday, thus does the following reference to this line—Mr. McNichol also announces a steamship service between Montreal and Victoria Harbor, the C.P.R.'s new Georgian Bay Port. The company's proposed new terminal docks will probably begin trips on this route in July next, and upon the completion of the extension of the present service to Owen Sound. The railway line from Victoria Harbor to Montreal has now been completed to within a few miles of Orillia, and grading is in progress for a much greater distance. The present plant for the completion the tracks as far as Bethany just west of Peterboro, during the coming summer. Mr. McNichol is enthusiastic about this route, which he says is the shortest possible line between the great lakes and the salt water; from Victoria Harbor to Montreal being 45 miles less than from Buffalo to New York, the harbor itself is ideal as a port, and the location of the line admits of a track with no grades, and practically no curvature.

RETTA LAUNCHED LAST EVENING

From Friday's Post.

The launch Retta owned by Jas. Bell, of Toronto, was launched last night to the blue depths of the Upper Scugog. So glad was it to be back once again in its native element, that it fairly danced with glee when it touched water. It will go down a horse that had not seen oats for a long time. It looked like a new craft when the coat of paint, and a general overhauling. The only change in the structure of the boat was the raising of the cabin a few inches.

Fight it Out To Bitter End

(Special to the Post)

Ottawa, Ont. April 27.—The Conservatives want to "FIGHT" the epicrisis issue they will be given all the opportunity they desire.

The Government's proposal dets on of the Liberal caucus this morning. It means, by the proposal representative of the Canadian Parliament and the Coronation of King George will be abandoned, and the members kept here in Canada for the Summer. Also Sir Wilfrid Laurier will, if the Opposition makes it necessary, stay away from the Imperial Conference.

The Government will be started next week, and the three sessions each day of the Commons, the Opposition will have all the time they want.

WILL NOT CONSENT TO DELAY.

It is stated, unofficially, that a proposition was made on behalf of the Conservatives, that they would be willing to vote an interim supply bill and adjourn Parliament to adjourn for six weeks until July, when the session could be resumed but that the suggestion was emphatically refused.

The Government takes the position that it has to have passed two or three agreement through without any unnecessary delay, and it will do so.

It is possible two Ministers may be sent to the Imperial Conference in May, and will represent the Dominion at the Coronation. It can be regarded as quite certain that Parliament will not go unless the reciprocity bill is passed.

BY PARTIES DISSOLUTION.

Parliamentarians are of the opinion that what most likely happen, but it appears quite possible that if the Conservatives attempt to delay they will succeed in force a dissolution and an appeal to the electors without the bill agreement having been passed by Parliament.

DISSOLUTION IS EXPECTED.

BROKEN-DOWN NERVES

HOPELESS CONDITION CURED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MORRISBURG, ONT., Aug. 20th, 1910

"I was a complete invalid, three years ago, with Stomach Trouble, Constipation and Broken-down Nerves. I could not sleep at night and my Doctor did me very little good. I was almost helpless until I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" in small doses. I have taken about three dozen boxes in all and, thank God, to-day I am well and strong—able to do my own work—and have a baby fifteen months old, and six children as well.

I could not be without "Fruit-a-tives" in the house, and I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering as I did."

MRS. D. GUINEY.

Nervousness is not a disease itself, but is the result of some of the vital organs becoming diseased. In Mrs. Guiney's case, her nervous condition was caused by a very weak stomach and torpid liver. "Fruit-a-tives" strengthened her stomach—helped digestion—made the liver active—and cured Constipation. Then her nerves became well.

If your nerves are "all unstrung", take "Fruit-a-tives". 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size 25c. at all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa

A SLICK MONEY CHANGING TRICK RECENTLY WORKED IN THIS DISTRICT

The following from the New York Herald describes a trick which has either been played, and, it is said, was lately successfully practiced, in this district:

"If the customer gives me a $10 bill and I take out for a 20 cent package of cigarettes and the customer then calls me for five one for the $5 bill I have handed out, and he then produces back the $5 bill and five ones and gets back his $10 bill, how much am I out and why?"

This is the question 57 different employees of the United Cigar Stores Company were asking themselves for a most affable stranger had been seen with a new trick of the time-fetch order that had caught every man it was tried on.

"Here I've been behind a counter for twenty years, and was certain I knew every trick in the game of giving string, and it got me," said the only one of the victims who would talk. "As I figure it out I am due to pay the company $4.80 out of my salary next week in order to make the cash register figures right. It was worked on me like this: While I was absent-mindedly at work behind the counter one morning, a tall, thin, animalic looking young man makes a quick dash into the store and gives a loud yell for a package of cigarettes which costs him just 20 cents. He shoots a old and crumpled $10 bill across the counter and then buzzes himself out of a cigarette. Of course I've got no change handy, so I quickly and I dropped on the counter a $5 bill, four ones and some change.

"'Can that a $10 bill I gave you?' asked the fimflam expert's expression and when I told him it was he looked puzzled and slipped the four $1 bills and small change into his pocket, and shoved the $5 bill back at me.

"'Give me five ones for that,' he said.

"I placed five ones on the counter, and he shoved the five ones and the $2 bill back at me, and said: 'I guess after all I'd rather have the $10 bill let me have it back, will you?'

"And I let him have it back, pocketed the five ones, rang up the sale, and he shoved a short away before I realized it, and then it hit me like a ease of jumping toothache. I saw it in a minute, but it was a minute too late. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon one of the clerks in the headquarters telephoned me and started to tell me that thru was a fimflammer working our stores, and that he was sending an expert out to explain the thing to all of us, so that we shouldn't be caught, but I cut him off. We learned later that he caught 37 of our clerks and many bartenders on the upper West side."

LOCAL BAPTIST CHURCH EXTENDS CALL TO REV. H. BRYANT, OF MEDICINE HAT

Immediately after the service on Sunday morning in the Baptist Church the members of the Church met to receive the report of the committee appointed to select a pastor. This report had already been submitted to a special meeting of the Church on Wednesday evening last with the result that action thereon could be deferred until Sunday morning.

After the report had been considered it was decided upon a unanimous standing vote to extend a call to the Rev. Hector Bryant, formerly of Medicine Hat, Alta., to become pastor of the Church.

Mr. Bryant is at present meeting his parents at Brockville, Ont., and will receive the call of the Church upon their return. He is married, there will be very little delay in this decision being made known.

The reverend gentleman occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church on two Sundays ago, and is an eloquent and convincing speaker.

C.P.R. IS BUSY ABOUT BETHANY

Bethany, April, 27.—As the C.P.R. has bought the Temperance hotel here, formerly Mr. McKinnon's, they will have a sale of furniture and effects on Monday, May 1. We are afraid travellers to our little town will experience great difficulty in finding accommodation during the coming months.

The C.P.R. contractors are busy south of Bethany, having started grading the new road south of Gatchouth's farm. Three heavy two-sometime scrapers and two horses are busy employed drawing gravel, etc., from the cutting. Mr. J. Taylor, the contractor, complains of the lack of teams. The farmers around here are too engrossed in their spring work to put any teams on.

Citizens should not assist them in any way, because when they realize that they won't receive a "hand-out" every place they go, they will depart for more lucrative fields.

Friday two husky knights of the road "pan-handled" citizens for their lesser change in order that they might eat a lunch. It is not necessary to state that the "lunch" was of the liquid variety, which resulted in adding two more to the number of drunks seen on the streets.

MOTHERS! DO YOU KNOW

That when you put a salve on your child's skin, it passes through the pores and enters the blood, just as surely as if you put it into the child's stomach?

You would not put a coarse mass of animal fat, colored by vegetable or mineral poisons (such as many crude salves are) into your child's blood by way of the stomach? Then why do so by way of the pores?

Take no risk. Use always the pure herbal essences provided in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal oil or fat, and no poisonous mineral coloring matter. Foes start to finish it is purely herbal.

It will heal sores, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns and bruises more quickly than any other known preparation. MR. M. McGEOGH HOME FROM WEST

Mr. Mike McGeough, an old Lindsay boy, now residing in Saskatoon, Sask., is renewing friends in town for a few days.

Mr. McGeough is a train despatcher on the C.P.R., which company he has been connected with since he learned the business with Mr. T. C. Matchett, some eight or nine years ago.

"Mike" goes to Toronto Tuesday night, where he will represent the Train Despatchers and Telegraphers, of Saskatchewan, at the annual business meeting. He is also chairman of the Board of Adjustment, which covers in the Queen City the early part of next week.

SECTIONS HAVE BEEN INCREASED

Peterboro Review: The C.P.R. is endeavoring to counterbalance the raise in wages, which was recently conceded to its employees, by shortening their yardforemen, by allotting a longer section of track to the care of each foreman.

On the main line a foreman now has charge of eight miles of track, and on the branch lines ten miles instead of five and seven, four sections have been struck off, and a couple of miles extra added to each of the others.

Each yard foreman is allowed an extra man on his district.

COPIOUS SHOWERS ON SUNDAY

The farmer knows that his fall wheat is safe, that his seeding is well under way, pasture was the now topic yesterday. The rain of Sunday, greened up the grass; wind was faded Saturday, was verdant yesterday afternoon, the fields that had been burned over, had the black washed from their face, and the green took its place before nightfall. Nature never deliberates over what she is to do in spring if she has hot rain and heat, and all over the fields there was the exhilarating promise, almost fulfilment, of abundance of pasture.

In how many days can the cows be turned out? was the main topic in every farm, and the consensus of answers was in less than a fortnight. The flow of milk throughout the land, and the output of grass butter is governed by the grass of spring.

Ewes and lambs have been out for days seeking a partial feed out of the gray and green mixture in the fields; Sunday afternoon they were in something fresher, greener and sweeter. Horse, old and young are ready for the pasture fields, and some are already there. The chorobred mares and foals can now go out to their paddocks, and the geese and goslings are hastening to the freshened pond. The spring was everywhere like the rain and the green, and the call of the birds.

As for the wild flowers in the woods, they were all out yesterday; blood root, that has the purest and whitest blossom of all, and the most susceptible, was the most in evidence, holding the raindrops like gems in a necklace, the cool trillium had opened to the fall, while her more coy sister, the white preferred to keep within a closed green leaves with a burst of fresh white atop. The hepatica had passed their zenith and began to droop their many hooded blossoms and to hide a new retreat, wherein they came, back for another year, and then another fresh essay.

Joseph Hand Arrested Last Night

From Saturday's Post.

Lindsay and district during the past few years has been the centre of a band of poultry thieves who have plied their vocation in such a clever manner as to cover up their tracks, and evade the clutches of the law. Many instances could be narrated where henneries have been visited, and birds carried off, the thieves covering up their tracks in such a manner as to leave practically no clue.

The police department was severely criticized for its apparent inaction and the perpetrators were never run to earth.

The thieves seemed to have given Lindsay a wide berth for some time, but this spring they again got busy. Complaints were reaching the police that poultry houses had been entered during the past forty night, not only in Lindsay but at places adjacent. A sharp lookout was kept, and this coupled with a little detective work resulted in something sensational last evening.

Acting Chief of Police Short had been doing some thinking during the hour the past few days, and has succeeded, it is believed in unearthing an organized scheme carried out by parties in the town, by which a system of thieving has been carried on to a remarkable extent. The facts cannot be given at present, but it is learned that several parties have been doing quite a business of late robbing poultry houses, and disposing of the birds for shipment for outside points.

Last night, about 10 o'clock, Artichief, John Short, accosted by Mr. Geo. Foster, started out to work on the clues secured. They visited the residence of Mr. Joshua Barnhart on Queen-st, and arrested Joseph Hand, as it is alleged, for some stealing connected with the recent poultry thefts. A search was then instituted for Joshua Barnhart, an alleged accomplice of Hand's, but although the police searched for him they failed to locate him. It is alleged that Barnhart has been selling poultry in large quantities, to Mr. Fredolf, of Lindsay, who ships them to outside markets.

A Post reporter interviewed Mr. Fredolf this morning, and that gentleman stated that both Hand and Barnhart had sold poultry to him. He had bought them on three different occasions, but Barnhart had told him he purchased the fowl from his brother-in-law and father-in-law. They delivered them to him in a livery rig.

Hand came up for trial this morning but was remanded. The police state that this is just the opening of what promises to be a sensational case, which it is believed will go a long way towards unravelling the mysterious poultry thefts pulled off in this district.

Subject of Civic Beautification

The Bobcaygeon Independent is a splendid article on "Civic Beauty," touches upon points which are deserving of consideration on the part of our citizens:

Outdoor sports throughout the province are at present shaking up their lethargic on the subject of Civic Beautifying and certainly it is a subject that is worthy attention. In large towns as the plans assume very elaborate proportions, but there is no place so small that it is not within the power to do such movement. Environment exerts a very great influence upon a people, and those continually living in untidy and unkempt surroundings are unconsciously influenced toward a tendency to disregard all ideas of order. Good surroundings will not necessarily produce a freedom from evil but will certainly exercise a wholesome restraint. Every village has its school where book instructions are given and every village has its individual premises, its buildings, its vacant lots, fences, lanes and streets, from which the children are unconsciously forming character. If those children have before them continual signs of neglect, disorder and wastefulness, it is useless to expect them to grow up orderly, industrious and thrifty members of the community. The natural trait will be towards carelessness, untidiness and a most undesirable condition of citizenship of no use to themselves or to the State. Most people are concerned about their children's connections at school, while few appear to be concerned about what is placed before the view of those children and constantly impressing itself upon their minds. It is of little use to tell a boy to black his boots in the morning, and hang up his hat when he is going out of the door he tumbles on a broken down platform, picks his way through ash heaps, old cans, and passes through a gate hanging by one hinge. It is all very well to have children listen for an hour to pretty stories, at Sunday School, but that hour is not going to counteract the six days' surroundings: broken down sidewalks, streets littered with all kinds of refuse, sod drains broken or rubbish, broken down fences, vacant lots filled with noxious weeds, and ruins, dilapidated buildings, broken windows, and eyesores and ugliness of every description. There are deep potentialities in the town Beautiful and every village and town should take some collected action towards Civic Beauty. And it does not require such a very great effort either. A Committee of half a dozen would in a few weeks put a new face on any village in the country. An hour's work at a few evenings spent by the committee in interviewing certain residents on the streets and suggesting what should be done, would in nine cases out of ten produce the desired result. A little explanation is all that is required and to obtain that co-operation which is needed is the initial power, the dynamic spark to start the motion, and the right kind of committee would furnish that spark. There is no excuse for civic ugliness. The quality of citizenship is reflected in the appearance of the town, and good citizenship in every community, at this particular season, could not occupy themselves in a more desirable manner than in organizing some united effort to produce in their civic surroundings that which appeals to the eye, will have a tendency to develop in the heart and mind, all that is expressed in the words, the True, the Good and the Beautiful.

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

ARE you one of the thousands of Canadian farmers who have used or intend using Canada Cement for the construction of farm buildings? If you contemplate building anything whatever of concrete, make up your mind right now to build it with a view to winning one of the prizes we are offering. Read the rest of this announcement and you will learn how you may try for a share in the $3,600 we are giving away, to encourage the use of cement upon the farm. Throughout Canada the farmers have taken such a keen interest in our campaign that it has inspired us to go further along these educational lines. We have decided, therefore, to offer a series of four $100.00 prizes to each of the nine Provinces, to be awarded as follows:

PRIZE "A"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who will use during 1911 the greatest number of bags of "CANADA" Cement for actual work done on his farm.

PRIZE "B"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who uses "CANADA" Cement on his farm in 1911 for the greatest number of purposes.

PRIZE "C"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who furnishes us with a photograph showing best of any particular kind of work done on his farm during 1911 with "CANADA" Cement.

PRIZE "D"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who furnishes the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of work shown by photograph sent in, was done.

In this contest no farmer should refrain from competing, because of any feeling that he may have little chance against his neighbor who he thinks might use "Quick" cement than he does.

For A, it will be noted that Prizes "C" and "D" have no bearing whatever on quantity of "Quick" used. The man who sends us the best photograph of a small job, such as a bridge or a hitching post, may be a winner for Prize "C" as a man who sends a photograph of a house built of cement—and the same with Prize "D" as to best description.

Canada Cement is handled by dealers in almost every town in Canada. Should there not happen to be a dealer in your locality, let us know and we will try to appoint one.

Contest will close on November 15th, 1911, and all photos and descriptions must be in our office by that date. Awards will be made as soon as possible thereafter. The jury of award will consist of: Prof. Peter Gillespie, Lecturer in Theory of Construction, University of Toronto; W. H. Day, Professor in Physics, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; and Dean S. Macdonald, Editor of "Construction."

Now, you cannot hope to do concrete work to the best advantage unless you have a copy of our free book, entitled, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." This book tells how to construct well-high anything on the farm, from hitching post to silo. Whether you enter the contest or not, you'll find this book most helpful. A post-card asking for the book will bring it to you promptly. Send for your copy today. From your nearest dealer or from us, you can obtain a folder containing full particulars of contest. If you send to us for it, use the coupon provided in this announcement.

GETTING THEIR DEGREE

He journayed to college the pride of papa
The finest lad papa ever saw
And when he came back he was the joy of mamma
For he wore a small cap and shouted "Rah! Rah!"

Now, dad had not letters to go after his name,
But his father's old cheque was good, just the same,
He wanted the hopeful to be in the game,
Where BA. and M.A. are placed in a frame.

By practise on track, on field, and in gym,
The college coach got all there was out of him,
He played hard and had to be played him with vim,
And when he came home you bet he was trim.

He wore a new cap and a brilliant red sweater,
The front was adorned with a monogram; letter,
Whatever you know why he knew it better,
He treated the gay-sear like he was his debtor.

And father dug deep for his summer of rest—
There was nothing too good, not even the best,
And the way he swelled 'round and the way he was dressed,
He spoke of next year and threw out his chest.

He'd pin on his vest of the U get Along,
Scatters and know nearly all the old college songs,
That are sung by up-to-date big college tongues—
Was ready and willing to right the world's wrongs.

When he spoke of his finish 'twas easy to see,
By the middle of June he'd have his A. B.
Then he'd his exams, but he got no degree
And he wrote home to dad: "I got the G. B."

SOME DREAMS OF COLLEGE DAYS

By A Graduate

One day, being in a reminiscent mood, I strolled into the old college halls, where, in days gone by, I had received more or less training in the philosophy of life. The sun streamed through the south windows that so it had done years before and showed up the same cracks in the worn floor and maybe the same dust as when my classmates and I had daily tramped up and down. The place had changed but little, and as I peeped through the door of class-room B, I well remember the lectures on Final Causes while room A spoke loudly of Logic that we spent so much time on, but it was in room E that I passed. It was there we had received our first lesson in Mill and read from a book a few things that life had taught us in a much more realistic school.

The place was deserted so I seated myself in the professorial chair to think. As I sat and mused I saw the room peopled again by the students of former days. They were all just boys and girls again looking out on life with the confidence and the belief that they were sent to change the order of things. But one thing surprised me greatly; it was the silence, almost oppressive, that seemed to fill the room. In any I heard ever toward Neil Smith, the prince of the class, who had never been known to be quiet in the old days, and whispered, "Why are you so quiet?"

"What is there to say?" he question d.

"Why everything," I answered.

"No, nothing," he replied, "I am busy."

I then noticed that he had on the desk before him a number of parcels, and as I watched he dropped one to the floor, and it disappeared; and as it did so new lines appeared on the face that changed it in some way I could not explain. He dropped parcel after parcel and as each one disappeared there was a change in him and generally not for the better.

At last I interrupted him. "Do stop dropping those things," I said, "you are losing all your good looks. You are getting positively ugly."

"Maybe," he replied, "but I have something better than good looks," and he picked up his one remaining parcel and held it close.

"What are those things?" I asked.

"Those," he replied, "are dreams I had when here. You see they are all gone but one."

"What is the one?" I asked.

But he had taken out the bank book in which he was writing and he left me to wonder.

Then I looked around the room and I saw what I had at first thought were books on the desks of the other students were parcels somewhat similar to those Neil had dropped and I was surprised at how few some had George Marstica the plodder, who had taken a scholarship every year, had only two, and one of these he dropped while I watched him. On the other I saw the picture of a large church with a fine organ, a splendid choir, and an immense and wealthy congregation. I recalled that the last I had heard of him was preaching in a small church in the prairie town and was not very popular even there.

"I wonder," I said "I wonder, and as I spoke I noticed a girl friend, who had always sat near me and with whom I believe I was acquainted. She had been very clever and we had often talked of the future, when she would do great things in the world. We had talked of many ways in which we would help humanity, especially our own sex, so I was much surprised to see only one parcel on her desk. I looked closely at it and I saw the picture of a home. It was not grand or very beautiful as regards architecture, but even in the picture I could feel the sweet atmosphere of home.

"So that was really her dream," I said, "and she never told us" but as I spoke the parcel slipped off her desk of itself and disappeared, and she sat there with folded arms looking listlessly around.

"Get another," I said sharply.

She jumped in surprise and asked, "Get what?"

"Get a parcel," I said "you'll be wretched without one."

"Maybe," she replied indifferently, but I saw it was useless to say any more. I sometimes received letters from her and I knew that she occupied an obscure position in which she was not happy, but she was not trying to better herself.

Near her sat the most brilliant student in the year. Everything came easy to him. He had not worked long hours after others were asleep, as many of us had. His went out into the world and drank deeper of the cup of pleasure as he went along and then came back and took from us the honors we had worked so hard to win. It had not seemed fair but while he carried his ability we all liked him for a frank indifference to his success when once it was had. He talked things only as they meant strength and when easy victory was in sight he took interest. In front of him there were dozens of parcels which were slipping off and disappearing, but as one disappeared another took its place. But on his face was written discontent, for success ever eluded him. A hundred times he grasped it only to let it slip away.

"Surely," I said, "he does not always prove a disappointment."

Just then a man that I had never noticed as a student raised his hand to attract my attention. He had several parcels and as I approached he said, "Hold of being plucked and was great, but I rejected when he got through with a few "cuts" in front of him were only two parcels but as I watched, the number increased to five and as I saw a book there had never been in olden days. There was a strength and confidence about him before. He was now a man to be reckoned with in a world of strong men.

Involuntarily I said aloud, "I never expected it."

"No he said quite cheerfully, "and the funny thing is that I did not expect so much."

"It is impossible that life ever gives us people more than they expect?" I asked.

"No, never," said a voice at the elbow, "but it mixes things up a bit."

The old professor was standing beside. I did not know how long he had been there, and wondered if I had kept him long. But when I moved to leave the chair he motioned me to remain were I was.

"Look at that," continued the old gentleman, pointing to a parcel in front of a quiet, modest looking girl. I looked and saw a house in the country surrounded by trees and flowers, which, in the distance could see a horse fed, and all around were birds and bees.

I was surprised for I knew she was the wife of a prominent politician and her life was one constant round of social duties and then I attentively I looked at the parcels in front of her husband, who was also a classmate of mine. On it was the picture of a library, filled from floor to ceiling with books, and in quiet a man read and studied.

"Well, that beats the Dutch," I said.

"I beg your pardon" said the professor.

"That is surprising," I corrected, remembering the old man's dislike to slang.

"Not so surprising as that," he said pointing towards a young man who had promised great things. He was a quiet, studious, religious chap, the first entered college, but his quietness and studiousness were evidently the result of environment. He never finished his college course. He drifted from one job to another and one parcel, and on it was printed in large letters just one word.

The old professor turned door opened with a loud noise, and standing where I saw the old professor who had just so recently before been speaking to me, I was so dazed I rubbed my eyes and looked stupidly at him.

"How to do you do?" he said heartily. "Dreaming of the old days?"

"Yes," I said, looking down at my classmates; but the seats were all empty.

"Home down to Convocation," said the old man, "for 1911 class is the best we ever turned out."

"No doubt," I replied, as I prepared to accompany him. "No one ever graduated in anything but the most promising class."

"You may joke if you like," he said, "but this is an exceptional class. Some men in it will make their mark."

"Do the men you expect to do well always satisfy you?"

"Well, I don't know," he replied, "I don't know, but as long as some of them do what is the difference."

As I looked at the students I wondered how many of them would pass the ordeal, but as the old professor said, "They are the best class yet." Maybe dreams will be above par when they take their place in the life struggle.

DEATH IN SOME HEADACHE POWDERS

Washington, April 27.—Alarmed by the number of deaths in different parts of the United States directly traced to the use of headache powders, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture has started an investigation. Dr. Wiley is of the opinion that many of the headache powders are dangerous, and that something should be done to prohibit their sale except on the prescription of a physician. Many deaths have occurred, he explains, ingredients which are dangerous, particularly to people suffering from weak hearts.

TIRE CO. MAY GO TO GALT

Peterboro Times: As a result of the voting of the Independent Tire and Rubber Co., by-law on Tuesday the Company are negotiating with Galt for a location. The Times is informed that Galt is offering better terms than Peterboro offers. At last night's Board of Trade dinner, Industrial Commissioner Jarges remarked that Peterboro cannot carry an industrial aid by-law without better organization than Peterboro, and with the hands behind that organization. Other cities can carry measures that Peterboro cannot reject at the polls on the three-fifth legislative provision.

Leslie Burk Is Committed

Colborne, Ont., April 26.—The preliminary trial of Leslie Burk, who is charged with arson in connection with the fire in the Express printing office early in the morning of April 17, opened before Magistrate R. Sneyd-Kennedy here this afternoon. County Crown Attorney W. W. Kerr, of Cobourg, conducted the prosecution. Provincial Detective Miller, of Toronto, was also present. Mr. Bell, K.C., appeared on behalf of the prisoner, who was accompanied by his father, Mr. C. W. Burk, of Windsor.

A large number of witnesses were examined and at 5.40 o'clock there were still several others to be heard. The fire was discovered at about two o'clock morning at 10.30 o'clock. Eight of the witnesses testified that they were in close vicinity to the Express office between 11.30 and 12.30 on the night of the fire, and none of them saw a light in the office or any sign of fire or heard any suspicious noises.

The evidence of Dr. Latta and Dr. Sargent went to show that if the prisoner had been struck between the eyes, and knocked insensible by chloroform, there would in all probability have been some evidence of the blow left on his face but his eyes would have been blackened. Although the prisoner claims that the alleged burglar was knocked out he was safe. It was shown the safe was not locked and the combination had apparently not been moved, nor were there any of the contents disturbed.

In summing up the evidence before an adjournment Mr. Webb urged that the prisoner be acquitted, as there was not sufficient evidence to commit him for trial. County Crown Attorney W. W. Kerr designated the prisoner's tale as a rock ahead of the jury and urged that he be committed for trial. The magistrate declined to give a decision without hearing the rest of the witnesses and expressed a desire to examine the ropes with which the prisoner was bound and the court accordingly adjourned.

The affair has caused a great deal of excitement throughout the district, and the courtroom was crowded during the entire hearing.

Government Takes Over the Bridge

The new bascule bridge was informally opened by the Government yesterday in the presence of Superintending Engineer A. Grant, of Peterboro; Mr. S. Clegg, T. V. C. Overseer also of Peterboro, and Mr. Gotsill, representing the Hamilton Bridge Works. There was no formality attached to the event, except the looking over of everything and seeing the bridge worked at short intervals.

Lindsay can now claim the honour of having the final bascule trunnion bridge in Canada.

It is understood the Government intends erecting a similar structure over the Canal at Campbellford.

Four Men Killed By Explosion

Sand Point, Ont., April 27.—As the result of an explosion in the drying house of the Dominion Explosive Co., one and a half miles west of this place, at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon four men were instantly killed, the dead are:

DOMINIC BENNETT, Westport, aged 22.

WILLIAM BROOKS, Sand Point, aged 27.

JOSEPH MILLS, Poplar, North London, England, aged 34.

HORACE McMULLEN, Ottawa, aged 29.

The explosion occurred at 1.20 this afternoon and is said by the foreman of the company to have been due to the ignition of a quantity of gas in the building where it took place. The catastrophe came without warning. William Brooks and Dominic Bennett were inside the building and Joe Mills and Horace McMullen standing on the platform. The bodies of Bennett and Mills were blown into atoms, no trace of them being found to-night. Those of Brooks and McMullen were recovered, that of the latter being almost impossible to identify. Adjacent workmen slowly some of the other employees were injured, though nearby.

Besides the complete destruction of the drying house, the sides of the nitrate room were stayed in, as were the ends of the ice-house and a store room. Where the drying house had been nothing was left but a large hollow in the ground.

Upwards of a score employees of the company were working inside or in the vicinity of the other buildings when the explosion occurred. Although flying splinters from the roof and walls of the drying house flew like hail, none of them were struck, nor were the men inside the nitrate room, who had just dumped the pots of material they were carrying, injured.

Immediately after the shock of the explosion, employees from all parts of the grounds rushed to the site of the drying house and a search for the missing men commenced. The body of McMullen was found where, it is said, it had been hurled against the roof of the other structures, and that of Brooks, less disfigured, was recovered not far away.

There was no fire, in fact nothing was left to ignite, so thoroughly had the explosion done its work. The alarm was sounded until 10 o'clock, when Coroner Armstrong arrived from Arnprior and made an examination of the scene of the explosion and the remains. These were then covered, and left to be viewed by the jury to-morrow morning.

The explosion was apparently similar in origin to that of July 11, last year, when three men were killed. In the drying house where it took place was a little more than half a ton of the explosive, which is known as "Canadian Powder" in one of its primary stages.

It was being heated by hot air which is piped from the boiler room, the temperature maintained being between 90 and 100 degrees. Just how the explosion, or an ignition from it, ignited, will, of course, never be known, as all the men at work in the drying house were killed.

Fatal Shooting Accident at Scugog

Port Perry Star: Last Sunday Gordon Schell, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Schell, of Scugog, went over to visit his chum, the young son, of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Stevenson. The two little fellows went out to the barn to play and before long they found him Mr. Stevenson's gun. It had been left at the barn the day before and used to shoot hare rats. Mr. Stevenson had intended to take it to the house, but forgot. The gun was loaded and somehow while the boys were examining the weapon it went off, the shot entering the smaller boy's head and killing him almost instantly.

Gordon Schell was the only boy and both families feel terribly about the tragic affair.

The accident brings home again with pathetic emphasis the great need for care in matters like this. It is so easy to forget and the price paid is so great that it seems out of all proportion to the fault which is the direct cause of the tragedy.

Everybody sympathizes with the bereaved family and with the family at whose home the tragedy occured.

MARRIED BEFORE HE WAS FOURTEEN

When James Dudley was married in Colborne over twenty years ago he was only 13 years and 9 months old. Four years afterwards he left his wife and little daughter, the latter, who is now married and has a little one.

A couple of years ago Dudley went with a young woman from Woodstock to Toronto. Last Friday and Saturday the youthful bridegroom and his father was in Toronto Police Court, charged with leaving the country to get married while he already had a wife in Canada.

The young woman testified in his behalf. She swore they went to Detroit together, but not for the purpose of getting married. After an auto ride they visited a jeweler's, bought a ring and were wedded. She knew he had "been through a form of marriage" when he was a boy.

To Mr. Corley she admitted that she had falsified when examined in the Morality Department recently.

"I cannot see anything to do but discharge this case," said the Magistrate. Mr. Corley agreed with the remark, adding that it was the worst exhibition of straight perjury that he had ever had before him. He used some other strong terms to which Mr. Robinette objected.

"I Suffered Intense Pains in My Left Side."

Do you realize it is better to be safe than sorry, that it is the best policy to lock the stable door before the horse is stolen?

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart disease for over two years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes' work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade. I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least exertion made weak lying on the most distressing kind of a bed. I had scarcely taken a full bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a decided change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved in every respect. I have taken six bottles I was completely cured."

MRS. C. C. GOKEY, Northfield, Vt.

If you have any of the symptoms Mrs. Gokey mentions, it is your duty to protect yourself.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is what you need. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your money is returned. Ask your druggist. Dr. MILES' MEDICAL CO., Toronto, Ont.

COMMITTEE DEALING WITH POWER BYLAW

From Wednesday's Post.

At last evening's session of the Finance Committee, Mr. Stinson, of the firm of McLaughlin, Pell, Pelton & Stinson, town solicitors, discussed with the committee several matters in connection with the power bylaw to be submitted to the people re the purchase of the local power plant. The amount to be named in the by-law is $230,000 (the purchase price). Another matter considered was the advisability of asking the Council to guarantee the bonds. If this request is acceded to, it will prove of great advantage to the town. The committee will look into the different matters considered.

MR. W. H. ROENICK APPOINTED AGENT

Mr. W. H. Roenick, has been appointed by the Stony Lake Navigation Co., local representative of that company, and the appointment is a good one. The company will again place the fast sailing steel steamer "Stony Lake" on the local waters this season and will cater to the excursion trade of the district.

Blaze Caused Excitement

From Wednesday's Post.

Last evening, a number of people who were standing at the corner of Kent and York-st had their attention drawn to a brilliant reflection on the top floor over the Standard Bank. It was feared a fire was in progress, but on investigating it was ascertained that a gasoline stove had been giving trouble to the parties living on the top floor.

THE LATE REV. FERGUS PATRICK McEVAY, ARCHBISHOP OF THE DIOCESE OF TORONTO

Archbishop McEvay Called By Death
Deceased a Former Resident of Lindsay

Citizens of all denominations in Lindsay and district heard with regret this morning that Archbishop Fergus P. McEvay died at 12.15 this morning at his official residence, Toronto.

The deceased prelate was born in Emily township and received his early education there, and also at the Lindsay Separate School.

In the death of Archbishop McEvay a outstanding figure in the Catholic church in Ontario and particularly in the diocese of Toronto, has been removed. Despite the physical disability under which he labored, his Grace brought to bear upon the diocese that fine tact and excellent executive ability coupled with diplomacy, that will forever make his name revered. The late Archbishop McEvay was a man of wide outlook, and possessed a lovable personality, all-health precluded him from moving among his people as much as he would have desired, but in the instructions that he delivered to his subordinates he demonstrated that his one wish was for the spiritual promotion of his flock. The late archbishop was in no sense a militant, and while endeavoring to promote the welfare of the Catholic church, he ever evinced a desire to live in peace and amity with the various other religious bodies.

Deceased had been suffering for some time with a form of disease that sapped his strength and while on the advice of his physicians he visited various health resorts, his attainments proved of such an insidious character as to leave recovery out of the question. He was a young man as life goes, and filled with the "Joy of Living" for the good that he felt he could have done, but when the "dark horseman" came he was quite prepared to receive him.

Right Rev. Fergus Patrick McEvay was born in Downeville, December 8 1852 and there he received his primary education. Afterwards he attended St. Michael's College and Toronto University, where he completed his classical studies. His course in theology was made at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and in 1872 he was ordained to the priesthood by the late Archbishop Cleary at Trenton. For his great successful work he was the Kingston diocese, under he was transferred to the diocese of Peterboro, and was, on account of the activity he displayed in parochial work, given charge of the missions of Douro, Galway and Fenelon Falls.

When Bishop Dowling succeeded Bishop Jamot of Peterboro in 1887, Father McEvay was appointed Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterboro. The seat of the newly appointed rector found outlet here for it was to him that His Lordship Bishop Dowling, entrusted the remodelling of the cathedral, the purchase of property for the future hospital and the acquiring of houses for parochial and episcopal uses.

Soon after completing these duties Father McEvay was moved to Hamilton, where he filled the office of secretary to the Bishop and rector of the cathedral. There, too, honors from Rome were accorded him, when he was appointed private chamberlin to His Holiness, the late Pope Leo XIII. After that he became domestic prelate to the Pope and then Vicar General of the diocese. During the year 1894 he was administrator to the diocese and in August, 1899 was consecrated Bishop of London, succeeding Bishop O'Connor and he remained there until his elevation to the Archiepiscopic of Toronto into which office he was publicly inducted May 17, 1908.

He was the third Archbishop of Toronto to come from London—during the past fifteen years, the others being Archbishop Walsh and Bishop O'Connor, the latter of whom is still living in retirement at St. Clair Novitiate. All three faced the duties of the office extremely heavy. Archbishop O'Connor was forced two years ago on this account to relinquish the honor, and upon Archbishop McEvay many evidences of the great strain have been apparent.

During his short tenure of office as Archbishop of Toronto, he undertook many diocesian changes, one of the best of these being to redistribute the parishes in the more populous centres and to establish new churches.

The late Archbishop's mother, lives in Toronto together with a brother and sister. He was a nephew, of Mrs. Corkery, of Lindsay.

Firemen Received Cheque

From Wednesday's Post.

This morning the local fire brigade received a cheque for $25.00 from the Baker Lumber Co., in acknowledgement of the valuable services rendered on the occasion of the fire at their mills last Saturday.

TRESPASSERS ON PROPERTY OF C. P. R. WILL BE PROSECUTED IN FUTURE

Mr. J. W. Anderson, C.P.R. station agent, has received a copy of the following circular, issued to all station agents on the line:

Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Office of the Superintendent,
Relor to file 1313
Toronto, May 1, 1911.

Subject: Personal accidents to trespassers—

All Agents.

The number of personal accidents to trespassers on our property is assuming such proportions that we will have to adopt stricter measures to stop it, and the only effective way of doing this is to prosecute before a Magistrate each and every case of trespass.

If the parties are known, and are habitual offenders they should be served with summonses. If tramps they should be arrested.

Last year on Eastern lines out of a total of 125 casualties, 93 occurred 75 per cent, were to trespassers.

Representatives of the local newspapers should be informed as to the course the Company proposes to pursue in this matter, so that same will be given publicity.

H. KING.
Superintendent.

All persons concerned in this matter are requested to heed the above notice. Mr. Anderson's instructions are explicit and in case the company's premises are trespassed upon he has no alternative to doing his duty by prosecuting prosecution of the offenders against the company's orders.

WORK OF TAKING OF THE CENSUS WAS EXPLAINED TO THE COMMISSIONERS

Messrs John O'Reilly, census commissioner Victoria County, and W. Noice of Haliburton County, was in Toronto Monday receiving instructions from the office of taking a census by Mr. J. C. MacPherson special census officer for Ontario. The former was informed by one of these gentlemen that the census would be taken on June 1. The decisive hour or reckoning is twelve o'clock midnight May 31, 1911, so that anyone born before that hour or anyone dying after that hour should be taken.

No advance information is to be given out by any person but the Minister of Agriculture or someone acting under his authority. The census is expected to be taken in the short est time possible consistent with efficiency and accuracy. The enumerators are not confined to any special hours per day during the work. They are paid by a schedule of rates that with diligence should provide a fair day's wage for the work done. No enumerator can farm or sub-let his work to any other person. The work must be completed by himself, and all returns made to the Commissioner of his district to be forwarded to the census officer at Ottawa by the end of next month.

Provision has been made for enumerating up to 3,000,000 persons.

ALL INFORMATION SECRET

All information is collected under an oath of secrecy, and no person need have any doubt in answering all questions on the various schedules that such answers will be used for taxation or any other purpose than compilation into tables for the use of staff at Ottawa. Each clerk has to take and subscribe to an oath of secrecy.

Manufacturers are requested to be explicit in answering questions relating to the kind or class of products, and their respective values.

HYMENEAL

WELDON—MARTIN.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at the residence of Major Martin, Hunslet-st, when Miss Ellen Agnes Martin, the youngest daughter, was united in marriage to Mr. E. Weldon, Oakwood. The bride, who looked charming in her father, was gowned in white embroidered net over silk and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her travelling suit was of navy blue serge with hat to match. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Canon Marsh in the presence of a large number of friends. Among those present were Mrs. W. Godfrey, sr., and Mrs. W. Godfrey, jr., of Peterboro, and Miss O'Bennett, of Toronto.

The young couple leave this evening on their wedding trip for Peterboro, and eastern points.

PATRICK DUFFY SEEKS REDRESS

The claim for damages entered by P. Duffy, of Emily, against the town came up for consideration at last night's council meeting. Mr. Duffy, it will be remembered, had a horse killed at the C.P.R. crossing on King street some months ago and he claims the town as well as the C.P.R. was interested by the Board of Railway Commissioners to place gates at the crossing, hence the action.

Ald. Smale, chairman of the Finance Committee, was instructed to see the town solicitor on the matter.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT PETERBORO

Peterboro was visited by a destructive fire last night about 12.15 when the old Bridge Works, on the river front near the C.P.R. bridge, was destroyed. The building was occupied by the Hoverdy firm, dealers in peas, while a section of it was used as a roller rink. The fire raged fiercely until morning.

CORONATION MAY BE POSTPONED

London, May 8—Lloyds insurance rates against a delay in the coronation was raised today owing to rumors that Queen Mary is in poor health, and that the condition of Alexandra is such that a postponement may be necessary.

COLLECT LICENSE ON ALL SHOWS

From Wednesday's Post.

At last night's meeting of the Police and Light Committee, Chairman Ald. McCrea, said it was quite time the town collected a license on shows appearing here during the season at the Academy of Music. The different companies appearing here, take a great deal of money out of town, and he felt that it should get something. Besides the Academy of Music paid no business tax.

Mr. Horn—Let the shows either pay a license fee or send the aldermen complimentary tickets.

The clerk was instructed to look into the bylaw, and also ascertain what other towns were doing in the matter under discussion.

RUBBER PAVEMENTS

Will the roar of city traffic, and the wearying and nerve-racking din, ever be silenced, remarks the Christian Guardian? Some rubber enthusiasts claim that the solution of the problem lies in rubber pavements, and that these will not by any means, be impossible inside of a few years. At present the price of crude rubber is prohibitive, but it is thought that an increased output will cause the price to drop to a point where rubber pavements will become a commercial possibility. Next month there will be a rubber exhibition in London, England, with King George as Patron and Sir A. Blake as president, and all the rubber-producing areas of the world are expected to be represented. At the last rubber exhibition Sir H. Blake said that a certain prominent manufacturer had assured him that when rubber sold at 50 cents per pound it could be utilized economically for street pavements. But rubber of late has not been heading towards the 50-cents-a-pound mark. Some think, however, that by 1915 the price will be low enough to justify its use for paving the city streets. But some of us think that a good number of other things may happen before that time. For the present, then, the city's multitudinous noises must continue, and we must bear it with what grace we may.

A PATRIOTIC SUGGESTION

Elsewhere in this issue a writer throws out a suggestion which should be acted upon by our Board of Education. It is to the effect that in view of the fact that the Coronation of our beloved King takes place on June 22, Lindsay could not more fittingly observe such an event than to name her two handsome new public schools after His Majesty King George and Her Majesty Queen Mary, or Alexandra, the Queen Mother.

This, to our minds, is an excellent suggestion. They would serve as an enduring monument to perpetuate the career of a monarch whose reign gives promise of being fraught with deeds which mean much to the glorious Empire of which we form so great a part. His Majesty's beloved Queen-wife is too distinctly a part of the history of the greatest empire that has been, and the two educational institutions named in their honor will serve to instill in the hearts and minds of this and the future generation, a feeling of love and loyalty for the throne.

A brass tablet could be placed in a conspicuous position announcing the fact that on Coronation Day, June 22nd, the schools were dedicated to our beloved King and Queen-wife.

DANGERS OF GRASS FIRES

Several fatalities have occurred, and a considerable amount of property destroyed by fires started for the purpose of burning over a very small grass plot, or to burn up a collection of dry leaves and sweepings. That it is a dangerous procedure, no one will deny, and especially when it is attempted by women or children. The former by the construction and material of their costumes, are very liable to have their clothing set on fire by sparks, or the rapid run of fire through grass. Children have been burned by reason of their inability to escape the flames. Only a very light wind is required to create a dangerous blaze. Fires have been started in the woods from a grass fire that has got away from the person who started it. There is hardly anything more dangerous than the grass fire a householder may start in his yard to clear away the dead grass and prepare for a green lawn. If he must do it, he should take precaution to lay the garden hose near by connected with the water service, and ready to aid in stopping the blaze when it starts to run away. A dark day, when no wind is stirring, is the best for such a purpose, but the safest way is not to attempt to burn grass in a thickly populated section. There should be a regulation against it, and the rule enforced.

CHILDHOOD'S OPPORTUNITY

No greater encouragement to thrift has ever been presented by any country than is offered to the people of Canada under the provisions of the Canadian Government Annuities Act, which was unanimously passed by both Houses of Parliament in 1908. While any resident of Canada may purchase, the Act was devised chiefly to enable wage-earners and others with limited incomes to make absolutely safe provision for the closing years of life in a way that would be impossible to make under any other conditions available. For example, a mechanic, whose weekly wage is but a little larger than his weekly expenditure, is by paying a dollar a week, purchasing Annuities for his two boys, aged 5 and 7, the Annuities to become payable at 60. From that time as long as they live, a yearly income of $417.18 and $417.73 respectively be paid them by the Government. If they die before they are 60, the money paid in will be refunded to their heirs together with 3 per cent. compound interest, so that for a total of $2,808 to be paid in annual payments combined of $1,025.53, or greater than the income to be derived from an investment of twenty thousand dollars at five per cent. would be received. The one thing is feasible for a man even with a very limited wage, while the other would be quite impossible for him. Taking advantage of the low rate to be obtained when the children are young is what patents should aim at—the children would carry the payments themselves as soon as they are able.

What a payment of 25 cents or fifty cents a week would purchase for a boy may be ascertained free on application to S. T. Bastedo, Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, to whom letters go free of postage.

THAT DYNAMITE OUTRAGE

Lewis F. Post of the Chicago Public, is a friend of organized labor but he takes a very sensible view of the recent arrest of the dynamiters when he says:

"Arrests of union labor men for conspiracy to the building of a Los Angeles newspaper with dynamite and killing many persons, are reported this week quite sensationally. If these men are guilty, no considerations of mercy not applicable to every criminal can be invoked in their behalf. Such crimes are diabolical under all circumstances in which they are committed with deliberation. They are a menace to Society. They endanger the non-combatant; they put labor organization at a disadvantage which the legitimacy of its purpose can ill afford to bear in its already unequal contest with monopoly and they make the way increasingly difficult for equitable adjustment of industrial relations through political agencies.

A VOICE FROM THE PAST

(Montreal Herald).

When Sir John Macdonald decided to appeal to the country in 1891, Sir John Thompson was probably, his principal adviser. It was Sir John Thompson who made the speech in Toronto by which the campaign was opened, and in which the country was told about the probability of getting a treaty of reciprocity with the United States. Sir John Thompson was an candidate for election in Antigonish, Nova Scotia, and very naturally he issued an address to the electors, the terms of which have been preserved. Part of it is worth quoting to-day, considering the reputation in which Sir John Thompson was held. He wrote:

"The Government of which I am a member is appealing to the country with a policy, which we believe will be heartily endorsed by a great majority of the electors. We have made to the Government of the United States, through the Government of Great Britain, proposals for reciprocity in trade, which, we have good reason to believe, will result in an arrangement by which the markets of the United States will be re-opened for the products which our people desire most to send there. A fair measure of reciprocity is what we desire, and we have no doubt that that can be obtained without undue sacrifice."

And what, might one ask, was the Macdonald-Thompson idea of a "fair measure of reciprocity?" Would they have rejected such an arrangement as Mr. Fielding and Mr. Patterson have been able to effect? Not likely, for it conforms almost exactly to the standard offer, which stood so long on the statute book, but there at their own instance.

What Sir John Thompson wanted was "an arrangement by which the markets of the United States will be re-opened to the products which our people desire most to send there." Isn't that just what we are now getting?

TAFT ON CANADIAN RESOURCES

President Taft's reference in his recent speech, to the desirability of Canada's natural resources being made available to United States demands, was not quoted in its entirety in the report which came through to the Canadian newspapers. This is what he said:

"Another, and a very conclusive reason for closing the contract, is the opportunity it gives us to increase the supply of our natural resources, which, with the wastefulness of children we have wantonly exhausted the timber resources of Canada, which will open themselves to us inevitably under the operation of this agreement, are now apparently inexhaustible. I say apparently inexhaustible for if the same procedure were to be adopted in respect to them that we have followed in respect to our own forests, I presume that they too might be exhausted.

"But fortunately for Canada and for us, we and they have learned much more than we realized, two decades ago with respect to the necessity of proper methods of forestry and of lumber cutting. And I may say that be safe in saying that under proper modern methods, the timber resources open to us in Canada may be inexhaustible, and we may derive ample supplies of timber from Canadian resources to the profit of Canada and of our own people."

The summarized reports as published in the Canadian newspapers, remarks the Winnipeg Free Press, rather tended to support the contention put forth by various critics of the agreement that the United States, having waste-ridden natural resources, now desirous of also destroying the resources of Canada. President Taft, however, assured his hope that Canada would conserve her resources to the ultimate benefit of both countries. It would, undoubtly be fortunate if the United States were to be allowed to draw without limit or restriction upon the timber, mineral, or fishery resources. The result would be rapid and ruinous depletion of our national wealth. The right and the duty of the Government to limit the output from these sources of supply are now recognized. The sensible course is to conserve and protect our resources, selling the yield that is allowed in the widest markets and under conditions which will give the largest financial return.

Young Farm Hand Killed

Cobourg, May, 1.—Roland Lossberry, a young farm hand, whose father resides at Warsaw, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by being thrown from a hand roller, fracturing his skull. The accident occurred almost on the same spot where Max Day, of Cobourg, was killed on a runaway decade years ago, and his remains were taken to the same house and laid in the same room. Lossberry was in the employ of James Behan, in Hamilton township. He had completed his work in the field, but instead of unhitching the team and taking them to the barn, decided unwisely to take the roller down the hill. The team became ungovernable, and he was thrown off the roller. His brother and uncle took the remains to Warsaw today. He had been working for Mr. Behan for six weeks.

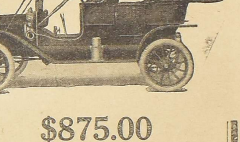
ZAM-BUK CURES PILES

Read What Those Who Have Proved it Have To Say



Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert Sask., writes:—"I must thank you for the benefit I received from Zam-Buk last summer. I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief so I continued it and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say that it has effected a complete cure.

Mr. G. A. Dufresne of 185-187 St. Joseph street, St. Roch, Quebec P.Q. writes:—"I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers piles. I have also found it most effective in curing a sore thumb with which my little son was suffering.

The thumb had begun to swell and fester and had lost the nail. I persevered in the application of Zam-Buk and the sore was entirely healed."

DIP NETS MUST NOT BE USED

Fishery Inspector Bradshaw has received the letter given below, and will have to act accordingly. This means that all dip nets will be prohibited. The letter is as follows:

Toronto, May 2, 1911.

Sir.—One of the Peterboro papers had an article in its issue last week Fishery Inspector Watts gave his views on the FisheryAct, and it ended as follows: "The sturgeon have begun to run, and Inspector Watts states that it is permissable to use dip nets to capture these fish. Permission to use nets will be resended when the game fish make their appearance."

I should like to know what authority they had for having an article like that published, when such is not the case. No one is allowed to use dip nets, or any other kind of nets, except by under authority of a license from this department, and anyone so doing subjects himself to a fine of from $5 to $50 for every fish so taken.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Red Year

STORY OF THE INDIAN MUTINY

BY LOUIS TRACY

(Copyright, 1907, by Louis Tracy.)

(For the measure and the pace never a strong evidence of dandyism, but for some time past, her unfair suspicions have been so constantly exercised on Winifred's behalf that Pulton's conduct was a severe shock.

In the morning she heard that Captain Pulton wished to see her; the left her quarters by a covered way and waited outside the Begum Kothee, with a soldier found Pulton.

He came, bringing with him a native. "This is the man who arrived from Cawnpore last night, Miss Ashton," he said. "He has a letter for you, but he refuses to deliver it to anyone but yourself. I fancy," added the gallant engineer officer with a smile, "that the sender impressed on him the importance of its reaching the right hands."

Winifred caught a glimpse of Frank's handwriting. Her face grew scarlet. For one delightful instant she forgot the harsh thoughts she had harbored against him. Then the scourge of memory tortured her. Pulton's blunder assumption that Malcolm was her fiance must be dispelled and she, for her lover life in vexation at the telltale trail of color that had mantled her cheeks when Ungud discharged his trust and gave her the letter.

"It is from Captain Malcolm," she said coldly. "I suppose he wishes his personal belongings to be safeguarded. I am surprised he did not write to my uncle rather than to me."

Pulton was surprised, but he laughed lightly.

"Every one to his taste," he said; "but from what little I have seen of Malcolm I should wager that strip out of ten letters addressed to the Mayo family would be intended for you, Miss Winifred. By the way, a word in your ear. General Inglis hopes to persuade our friend here to try his luck on a return journey tonight. Perhaps you may have a note to send on your own account. No one else must know. This is a special favor, conferred because Malcolm himself procured Ungud's services, but we can not ask the man to act as general postman. Goodbye."

He hurried away. Winifred, after the manner of women, fingered the unopened letter.

"Rich jesh bal, miss-sahib!" asked Ungud.

"There is no answer—yet. I will give you one later."

The girl's Hindustani went far enough to enable her to frame the really intelligible. Ungud salaamed and left her, probably marvelling at her own mind the lady's frigidity with the fervid litanies given him by the officer-sahib.

Then Winfred went to her own room and opened her own letter, and her woman's heart glowed like fire from its candor. Of course she cried. What girl wouldn't? But she smiled through her tears and read the wise bits over and over again. Not for twenty necklaces and a whole file of Mayo letters passes would she doubt Frank any more.

The reference to Chunna puzzled her, and she was gratifying little herself, for it Frank could be mistaken about her share in Chunna's adventure from Lucknow, why should not she be wrong in her conjecture about the mysterious presence of the necklace?

When her uncle came she kept again, being hysterical with the sheer joy of watching his face while she read Frank's note.

A casual observer finds different expression in a woman's. A man trusts his brain, a woman her heart.

"If there is one thing absolutely clear in this letter it is that Frank knows nothing whatever about the pearls you professed from his turban," said Mr. Mayo, with the frown of a judge who is dealing with a knotty point in equity.

"There are—several things—quite clear in it, uncle," muttered Winifred.

"Ah, hum, yes. But I mean that it is ridiculous to suppose that a man knowingly leave such a valuable article exposed for the chance of changes of barrackroom life in a siege. Whatever motive he may have had in concealing the necklace earlier he would surely have said something about it now, gives some hint as to its value, asked you to take care of his luggage, or something of the sort."

"In my mind it means I always felt sure he were misjudging Frank," said Mary.

Mayne's eyebrows lifted a trifle, but he passed no comment.

"By the way," he said, "where is the necklace?"

"Here," she said, pulling a box out of a cupboard. The string of pearls was coiled up in the middle of a piece of rolled muslin and the badge was pinned to one side of the bundle.

"That is a very unsafe place," said Mayne. "If I were you I would wear it beneath your bodice."

"Would you really?"

"Yes. I can think of no other explanation of the mystery now than that Frank meant to surprise you with it. You may be sure he obtained it honorably, so you will only be adding his wishes by wearing it. At any rate it will be safer in your possession than in that cupboard."

"Perhaps you are right," said she. And smile she clasped the diamond studded brooch in front of her and threat she glanced round the room for a mirror.

Her uncle smiled. He was glad that this little incident had lifted off Winifred's sky. The sufferings and perilous dangers of the siege were bad enough without another being added to by a private grief.

He stooped to pick up the turban and his eye fell on the regimental device of the badge.

"This is not an officer's head-dress," he cried. "And Mahomed Ali belongs to the 2nd Cavalry, whereas this badge was worn by a trooper in the 2nd."

Winifred, who was turning her neck and shoulders this way and that, to get different angles of little snapped admiring herself and run to his side.

"That is the turban Frank wore during our ride from Cawnpore," she whispered inaudibly.

"It may be. But don't you remember that no man on nothing but ice reached Lucknow" until he received a reinforcement of a thousand men and a new battery.

"Nelli, who was holding Cawnpore with three hundred rifles, returned the most amazing reply that ever a suppliate officer addressed to his chief. Nelli's words—I don't believe you have won any real victories," he wrote, in effect. "Your retreat has destroyed the prestige of England. While you are waiting for reinforcements that cannot arrive Lucknow will be lost. You must advance again and hold out until you can evacuate the garrison. Then before attacking Nana Sahib it is much to be done between this and Agra and Delhi."

Nelli's zeal outran his discretion. Havelock told Mayne he could have his opinion of this entire episode. "Nelli was right. He has more courage than I have ever pretended," he said. "Condition strongly in the obstruction which would arise in the public mind, and deters me from placing you under immediate arrest. Nelli would have wavered. Attempt no further dictation."

Yet Nelli's advice rankled and there were some on Havelock's staff who agreed with the outspoken Irishman. Nelli, however, could be bitter in words and sent on a company of the 84th and three guns.

They brought despatches from Sir Patrick Grant, Commander-in-Chief at Calcutta, telling Havelock that the troops sent from Madras and Bombay turned aside to deal with mutineers in Central India.

The gallant Crimean veteran therefore hardened his heart against more for Lucknow and fought another successful battle at Busserutgunge. There could be no question of either the victory or its cost. Another Ungud and his companions brought not another a half battalion.

Ungud said he had met the weary soldiers digging graves for their fallen comrades, and, while he had been forced with conflicting problems, a spy reported to him that Nana Sahib's army, the Nana himself was marching to relieve Cawnpore. He had stood in the road. As a general he had no right to be in Cawnpore, but he had heard that Cawnpore as a base and stud farm, and he was sure that Lucknow might keep the flag flying.

Malcolm was with him when he said this. The headstrong Havelock cold. Sir Henry seemed to his youthful aide-de-camp a volcano that, before, to resemble a volcano coated with ice.

"Major," he said, "the column will retreat at daybreak. Pull will go on other sides to make arrangements. Are you quite recovered from your wound? Are you capable of undertaking somewhat severe exertion, I mean?"

Frank answered modestly that he felt nearly well and never been better in health or strength, though he was forcibly reminded that sort of exertion could be more "severe" than his exploits of yesterday. Havelock, with Malcolm, was the theme of Major Mercury's. Lot 5, con. 19, Emily, for night.

FRIDAY, will proceed to his own stable, Cambridge, to be ready for noon, where he will remain until the following Monday at noon.

Stock Notes

Mr. Robert Eagleson, of Hillview farm, Markham, writes the following letter to The Post:

Dear Sir.—Mr. Thomas Waldon, of the township of Ops, County of Victoria, has purchased from Mr. Robt. Taylor, of Greenbank, that grand imported Clydesdale Stallion, Golden Chattan. I am well acquainted with him, as he has had a stand in my stable six successive years, and thought it would not be out of place to have a few lines put in your valuable paper to let the farmers of the vicinity of Lindsay know something of his greatness as a sire.

I have been horse raising for nearly thirty years, and I always aimed to use the best Clydesdale stallion I could possibly get. I am pleased to say Gallant Chattan filled the bill as I consider him the best all round Clydesdale stallion that travelled this country. He was not only himself a first-prize winner in Toronto, but his stock has won many firsts in Toronto Markham and Lindsay exhibitions. He was the sire of that great horse, Polar Star, that won so many first prizes and championships in the great Northwest in 1910. He was the sire of Milne Brook' two-year-old colt that was sold last winter for upwards of a thousand dollars. He was the sire of a gelding that I had the privilege of seeing sold for three hundred and fifty dollars and weighed over eighteen hundred pounds. He is the sire of a filly, that was sold a few months ago for three hundred and forty dollars, and would not register. There has been many of his colts sold for at eight and ten months old for two hundred dollars each. This is only a few of the many instances I could mention. He has been a great money maker, for his owner, and for the farmers who used him, and I trust he will continue to do same for his owner. The farmers of Lindsay vicinity should give Mr. Waldon a liberal patronage, as they will certainly make no mistake in using this great sire, as his sire is second to none.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE ON SATURDAY AT BAKER LUMBER CO'S YARDS EXCELLENT WORK OF THE FIREMEN

Saturday afternoon the crew on board the steamer Arthur C. noticed an incipient blaze on the roof of the shingle storehouse in the Baker Lumber Co.'s yard. The whistle on the boat gave forth a signal of alarm and "Bill" Anderson, who had also noticed the blaze, hurried to the nearest alarm box and sent in an alarm.

FIRE'S RAPID SPREAD.

In the meantime, what had at first been only a flickering blaze, had now taken hold of the shingle-like rapidly, and in a remarkably short space of time the whole structure was a mass of roaring flames.

When the firemen arrived on the scene, it was apparent at once that a serious situation presented itself. A stiff wind was prevailing and this not only fanned the flames, but carried the sparks and burning embers over into the East Ward.

On either sides of the store house were large piles of choice birch and bassinde lumber, and on the switch was a car loaded with No. 1 cedar to be shipped to R. G. Reesor, of Markham. The

and was entirely consumed. It was impossible to move the car to a place of safety on the switch, as the fire spread to it with such rapidity. Later the G.T.R. shunter came along and moved other cars to a place of safety. Soon the lumber piles became enveloped in flames, the fire jumping from one to the other with a rapidity that made the situation grow more serious every moment. Volunteer workers set to work with a commendable willingness to carry away lumber, ties, etc., and until the heat forced them to desist. Buckets brigades composed of the mill hands and others did excellent service in dampening the lumber piles some distance from the fire zone.

The brigade worked like seasoned veterans, but were handicapped owing to a shortage of hose. Two streams were playing on the flames from the hydrant at the corner of Colborne and St. Paul-sts., and the one in front of Mr. J. W. Anderson's on Caroline-st. Splendid work, in the face of unequal odds, was done by the fire laddies, and in spite of the traffic had plugged - steadily on. The brigade was severely handicapped owing to and also owing to the fact that some of the hose was defective and bursted. How to successfully combat a serious fire, which was spreading on all sides, with only two streams, was a problem for the men, but they fought on nevertheless.

The fire in the meantime had connected with lumber piles skirting the river shore, and in close proximity to some eighteen boat houses along the front. Grave fears were expressed that the boat-houses would succumb to the fiery element, but the firemen confined the flames to a certain area, and after a terrible fight of two and a half hours' duration all fear of the flames spreading had been allayed.

The work of the firemen was not over, however, as what was a few hours before huge piles of lumber and shingles, were now transformed into which a brisk wind might at any time carry to different points and cause untold damage. The firemen readily understood the danger, and although well nigh exhausted from their splendid fight, they continued to fight the flames until three o'clock Sunday morning. Pitts Baker Lumber Co. sent down the brave fire fighters a lunch, which, needless to say was greatly appreciated. The brigade also earlier in the evening enjoyed an impromptu lunch, while "under arms."

HEAT WAS TERRIBLE.

The fire, which was a most spectacular one, was witnessed by hundreds of people who lined the C.P.R. track and the banks on the either side of the river. The heat was something terrific, and was so intense at times that citizens were unable to cross the Cattle work on the C.P.R. line.

During the progress of the fire, it looked at one period as if the flames might spread towards the mill. The firemen accordingly took what little hose they had left and endeavored to run a stream from the corner of Dennison-st. to the fire, but in this they were disappointed. It required fully 1200 feet to cover the distance. However the brigade worked between the fire and the mill, and soon checked any danger of it spreading at this point.

EXCITEMENT IN EAST WARD.

While the fire in the mill yard was in progress the residents in the East ward were living in a state of terror and alarm. The stiff wind prevailing carried the sparks and embers by the thousands, and it was not long before they ignited in the roof of several houses. Mrs. Freemont Crandell's fine residence caught fire on three different occasions, but thanks to the efforts of several volunteers the house was saved from destruction. A stream of garden hose was finally brought into requisition, and a steady stream was played on the roof.

BARN TOOK FIRE.

On one occasion the turret on Mrs. Crandell's stable took fire and was burning rapidly. There was no ladder available to reach the roof, but several plucky young men managed to get on top of the building, and with the aid of several buckets of water quenched the flames.

The residence of Captain Elliott close by was also in danger on several times, but a bucket brigade did good service. The women worked as hard as the men, and deserve great praise for the assistance rendered.

SITUATION WAS SERIOUS.

Seldom has the fire brigade been called upon to contend with such a serious fire. There was always a danger during its progress, of the wind shifting and had the flames and sparks been carried toward the Baker Lumber Co.'s mills, or across the river to the Carew yards, the situation would have been an alarming one and the brigade would have been unable to cope with it.

SCENE OF DESOLATION.

Sunday morning a Post reporter visited the scene of the fire. Huge piles of cinders and charred timbers were to be seen on every side. The rails on the G.T.R. sidings were bent and twisted as a result of the intense heat, while piles of lumber were badly scorched and burned. It will take some time to remove the debris, but it is understood that the Company will start to work at once.

A SUBSTANTIAL LOSS.

As estimate of the amount of lumber consumed, the monitary loss, as well as the insurance, will not be available for a week or two. It is assumed the loss is a heavy one. The lumber consumed was all first-class material.

The Post as well as the citizens, sympathise with the Baker Lumber people in the loss they have sustained. The splendid service which was characterized this Company in the past will, we feel sure, assist itself on its recovery.

CAUSE A MYSTERY.

The cause of the fire is a mystery, although it is thought by some it may have been started by a passing tramp.

Housecleaning seems to be the order of the day during these fine days, although the good man of the house is busy with the problems of getting his garden in shape.

Mrs. Bridgewood has opened up a real estate and mining lands office in our village. May success attend her venture.

We are sorry to lose Mr. James Graham and family from our midst. He served a position with the Gull River Lumber Co. at Kinmount, and moved his family there last Tuesday.

Mr. Frank Beech, and family, of Spokane, Wash., is at present visiting his father and friends in this neighborhood.

Mr. Chas. Wellstood is able to get out on the verandah once more. May the return of warm weather bring him the best of health.

Arbor Day was duly observed by the pupils of the school on Friday afternoon last.

Dr. White took a trip to Toronto last week.

Mr. Rupert Boldt, son of Mr. H. Boldt, is now in the employ of the G.T.R., at Newmarket. He graduated from Mr. Paton's school of telegraphy, Lindsay.

Mr. John Train, our village butcher, accompanied by his daughter, Leta, spent the week end near Deer Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan McKenzie formerly of the Northern Hotel here but now of Whitby called in the village on Saturday, on their way home to Haliburton.

Mr. Henry Boldt had a lively time of it last week, coming to town with a young horse hitched to a buggy. He steadied it on to come to Kinmount, but when about a mile out the colt decided to go home, but first it had to get rid of Mr. Boldt, which it did in very short order, carrying only the shafts, the buggy being left on the road. The colt was caught by Mr. Bert Hopkins and soon he saw Mr. Boldt come slowly along meditating.

There were two funerals on Saturday—one on the arrival of the G. T.R. train from the north. An Italian was out in the bush at Donald hunting woodchucks and accidentally shot himself. He was buried in the Galway Roman Catholic cemetery. The other was a respected citizen from near the Ford settlement. Mr. David Smith, nephew of Mr. Richard Smith, of the village here. He was troubled with rheumatism, and had an attack of pneumonia.

He was 38 years and 11 months old, and was buried in the Kinmount cemetery on Saturday.

WHY SHOULD I BELONG TO W.C.T.U.? SUBJECT OF AN INTERESTING PAPER

The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held Friday afternoon, at the home of Mr. D. Mitchell, with the president, Mrs. A. M. Potter in the chair. Mrs. Wall, of Brandon, read a very interesting paper on "Why we should belong to the W.C.T.U." which was followed by a paper by Mrs. George Hay, bearing on the same subject. The paper was as follows

Why should I belong to the W. C. T. U.? Because every Christian woman is needed in a work having for its object the protection of the home. Because a union other is strength and in union there is power. The most delicate threads when sufficiently multiplied will form the strongest cable. Sutter says: "Forces when acting singly are utterly impotent, but are when acting in combination, resistless in their energies, mighty in their power. This truth has been established by the forces of the W.C.T.U. the largest organization of women in existence. The Women's Christian Temperance Union was born of prayer and has been based upon Christian ideas "Make a chain," saith the Lord, for the land is full of bloody crimes and the city is full of violence." The W.C.T.U. is a woman's chain that is fast encircling the world. Every Union organized is an added link, and every member gives additional strength to the chain. By co-operation many things are possible that single individuals cannot bring about, and by it women are being helped socially and intellectually. This women's chain is for the protection of the home, of society, and of all humanity.

For God and home, and every land is why should I belong to W. C. T. U.? Because you are a woman and to you is intrusted the moulding of the men and women of the future. Christian work must begin in the home, and a woman reigns in the household She must therefore model society. To do this individual effort is not sufficient, so then we organize. Every white ribbon woman must realize that she is, in a measure, her brother's keeper.

Again, because the Christian Temperance work is large preventative work. Years for the drunken son do not mould the future of a man like training him when a child." The method of the W.C.T.U. is to teach an equal standard of purity for both sexes. To instruct the boys, showing them that there is not one code of morals for them and another for their sisters. That the blessing for "the pure in heart," is for both and that all sin is equally sinful in God's sight.

Mothers, above every other class, should belong. The eyes that daily look into yours with such childish love and confidence, may soon be dazzled with the glitter of the saloon. Somebody's son must help to keep up the ranks of the great army of drunkards. Must it be your sweet boy? Christian Temperance Union means contendship. Women who have previously led solitary lives, whose home duties prevent them from mingling in society, can here find the kinship of kindred souls that every woman craves. Hour after hour each week or month, "where friends hold fellowship with friends" will help a woman to bear more patiently the daily friction of daily cares that come, more or less, into the lot of every woman. The little knot of white ribbon is the token of kinship and pledge of sisterly love.

If your talents now lie hidden, roll them away as the napkin of reserve and fastened with a tie of timidity in the W.C.T.U., they will expand and be free from rust, and keep bright by constant use in the service where "we wage our peaceful war." Come and help us to make a chain against the bloody crimes that are in our land, through the curse of strong drink.

"The Master is come and calleth for thee.

I felt at last that the call was for me.

And I mildly answered the darkness through,

"Lord what wilt Thou that I should do?"

This is the question for every woman to ask when she enquires, "Why should I belong to the W.C.T.U.?"

Fire Tragedy in Hastings County

One of the most awful tragedies that ever visited this section took place yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, when two women lost their lives in a conflagration in the fifth concession of Rawdon, lot 2. The names of the victims are Mrs. Patrick Cain and her stepdaughter, Ellen Maloney.

Their home was in the township of Hungerford, but they were visiting cheese factory. The farm is only three miles from Ivanhoe.

Mrs. Cain had been ill in bed of late, and yesterday morning her husband, Patrick Cain, went off to the post office at Marlo to get his mail while the disaster occurred. Ellen Maloney apparently had been waiting on Mrs. Cain, when the fire originated in the kitchen. She was found lying at the foot of the stairs leading from the parlor above

Power Situation At Kingston

Kingston Standard A special meeting of the Light, Heat & Power Commission was held Friday afternoon at which the new tender from the Seymour Power Company was opened. It was discovered that the new tender was not what was wanted The Committee had asked for the new tender on a 300 horse power horse power consumption basis along the lines of the original tender. The company's new tender is the same in detail, as the Hydro-Electric tender, with, apparently, a lower price, the Seymour's being 825 per h.p. on a 28 minute peak, and the Hydro-Electric being $25.51 per h.p. for 2000 h.p.

There is so much detail in both the tenders that it will require some time to fathom them. They will be considered at a special meeting.

The Dominion Government's probable stand regarding the Waddington Power Company, puts a new aspect on the Hydro-Electric tender. The government may prohibit transmission of power at this point, if, as it is claimed, it lowers the water in the river 15 inches. If such proves the case one source of supply will be shut off from the Hydro-Electric, and the commission will be forced to abandon the double supply system, and to rely on the supply from High Falls alone.

The Brightest Day For Every Woman

Comes With Good Health Through The Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Her brightest day for every girl and every woman is the day when she looks well, feels well and is well but with most of the fair sex such days are rare. Instead they suffer from a painful languor have a terrible weakness in the back, headaches and weak everything seem thrived, and a careless aching in the limbs. These and other trials afflict girls and women through the lack of rich red blood nature is calling for. Dr. William's Pink Pills have given the joy of real robust health to thousands of women who are happy today because these pills actually make the rich red blood that makes weak ones well and strong. This statement has been proven over and over again.

Here is a further proof from Mrs. C. J. Brook Brook, Ont., who says After a busy term on second class work followed by a short time of relaxation, and an afternoon and a half months normal course, in Mar 1906 I began teaching school. I had a heavy rural school with a large attendance and consequently a large number of grades thus I found the work a great nervous strain. This added to the overwork of study previous to teaching soon resulted in a run down condition. When vacation came around I did not pay much attention in my condition as I thought the holidays would fully restore me to health. I resumed work again I soon found this was not the case. One morning when I came to breakfast everything could before me and I almost fainted away. The lady with whom I was boarding advised me to take Dr. William's Pink Pills. She always uses them very highly of them, her daughter having used them, with the most beneficial results following a severe attack of anemia or rheumatism. I decided to take her advice and had only taken a few boxes when I began to improve in health and such an appetite as I had. I soon idly gained health my face had an healthy glow and I gained in weight I feel that too much praise cannot be Williams's Pink Pills to others who have used them with equal beneficial results, and I believe the Pills to be a standard remedy for the ills for which you recommend them.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

LINDSAY CITIZEN HAS MADE MONEY GROWS CELERY ON A LARGE SCALE

Peterboro Review Talking with a Lindsay man the other day, he detailed the idea that people had to rush off to the Northwest, to make money by tilling the soil. He holds extremely sensible ideas with regard to a district adjacent to the island, and is optimistic as to the results from care ful farming. He maintains, and right ly too, that the day when Ontario was a wheat raiser has passed, but that her day as a grower of necessaries of life is only commencing. He got down to clear straight business talk, when he told of his efforts, and experience with one line of product.

"Take the matter of celery," said he, "in which I make a specialty. I have mastered the way in which to grow it, and I have the ground for it to grow in. Last year from three-quarters of an acre of ground I grew 27,000 head of first-class celery. It was so good that I could have sold double the quantity if I had it. For this I netted $2.40 per 100 head, delivered at express office at the station. That gives only one end of the business, but it will give a fair idea of the possibilities in that direction. Lots of people in the Northern Ontario towns and Kingston may have thought they were consuming California celery all winter. A deal of it came from my land. It is some trouble to take care of it and have it nice and fresh, but trouble is incidental to all business.

"Fourteen years from to-day I will if I live, have an income of $2,000 to $4,000 per year without doing much work for it. I am discounting the future. On 50 acres of land I am setting out over 1,000 apple trees, with plums and other fruits in proportion, in eight years such varieties as the Wealthy will be in very fair bearing, and in twelve years the Spys, the King of all Canadian apples, will be given a full crop. With careful pruning, keeping off of scale, and attention to what should be done, I will have an orchard that will be a perfect mine. There's nothing to equal it for money-making, but I'm one man, possibly, in a hundred who has patience to wait.

"As the population of our Province and country increases the call to labor for produce, it might just as well be supplied from around here as from anywhere else. We are reaching the point where we will consume nearly all we can raise. Take eggs. A few years there were exported from round here a quarter of a million eggs. For the last two years there has been no export. Why? Home, city and Northwest consumption has taken care of the egg crop. The garden truck consumed in Toronto, for instance, can be raised two hundred miles away just as well as outside the city. For a good thing in produce there is an almost unfillable demand. If the men who are getting off to the west would stay at home, put intelligence and care and work and variety into their farm work they would be largely better off and escape all the discomforts of pioneer life.

Here Are a Few of the New Spring Styles

There are clothing styles for young men, middle-aged men and older men. Between the dashing, distinctive styles for youth and the sedate gentility of clothes for matured men, there is only the difference of "lines"; for the fundamental quality is the same in all. You will note in the pictures certain garments designed for the fastidious younger men, and the quieter style effects for strictly business or social wear, but nowhere will you find the freakishness of poor taste so often exploited as "style." Age-fit is as important as figure-fit. We have the right fit, style and fabric for you.

THIRTY-FIFTH ANNUAL SESSION OF THE WOMEN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

To-day the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church opens its 35th annual meeting in Chatham, Ont., and the report shows the following figures:—

Membership—32,493.

Contributions—$42,409.

The Board of Management report contains this interesting paragraph:

"It has been brought to the notice of the Board that a number of Chinese women are now living in Toronto and a desire was expressed that some mission work might be done among them."

Progress is reported as being made in the work among the Jews in Toronto. The report says:

"A few incidents in the work will indicate some of the results. A missionary visiting in the home found three women. As she reasoned with them out of the Scriptures, two were bitterly opposed, but the third listened quietly for a time, then said: "What the missionary says is true. I was in the synagogue for weeks, one of the ladies from the mission gave me a little book about Jesus which I read through; then God put what this lady said, and I know it's true." Before the missionary left the women who had used bad words about Jesus apologized and all three asked her to come back. A Jew said to another missionary: "Numbers of the Jews in Toronto believe, but they need something like a political meeting to encourage, encourage and help them. Do one where others stand. If all who believe would come out, the courage of their convictions backed up by numbers, would make them take a stand they cannot otherwise do. Here is my sister-in-law, she reads the New Testament every night, (one given to her by the missionary two years before) but she is afraid to confide in her Jewish sisters for fear of persecution. Oh! for a Jewish revival."

Among the Indians in Western Canada good work is being done. John T. Rose, principal of Ahousaht boarding school, says:

"Ten of the larger boys are experts in mensuration and fractions. They have been drawing plans of houses, making out bills of material and estimates of same. The boys cut and framed an irregular cottage roof correctly. One boy built a stair, after considerable practise. The girls are trained in all branches of housework including dressmaking."

In India and China also there are encouraging signs. This is a sample.

"At Chi Fau the interest in the Christianity is so great that the villagers have destroyed one of the temples to use the material in building a little church. Here Dec. 3rd, a class of 30 women was begun, but we were hampered by lack of proper accommodation. We have since secured the promise of a good place and will go again soon."

THE UNIFICATION OF METHODISM

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 8.—Envoys from the three great branches of Methodism met here today to lay a foundation for the unification of the alienated divisions of the church. Plans for the federation of the denomination are shaping into complete form. The three branches represented are the Methodist Protestant, the Methodist Episcopal, and the Methodist Episcopal church South.

A joint commission consists of twenty-seven members, each church being represented by nine commissioners.

SUFFERED GREATLY FROM COLIC

Mrs. Aime Guenette, L'Immaculee, Conception, Que. writes:—My little boy suffered greatly from colic. I gave him castor oil and other medicines without helping him in the least. One day I saw Baby's Own Tablets advertised so I wrote for a box. I found them so good that I always keep them in the house and would use no other medicine for baby." The experience of Mrs. Guenette has been that of a thousand of other mothers. Not only do the Tablets cure colic but they cure constipation, vomiting, indigestion, make teething easy, banish worms, and make baby bright, active and happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN POWER PLANT

The following dispatch from Toronto to the Examiner today, is brief, but all important:

"Reported here today that there has been an important change in the ownership of a power plant in the Midland district. It is stated that the Otonabee Power Company property has been purchased by the Electrical Power Company, Limited, Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P., of Peterboro', is here today, completing the transaction."

This is the property that Hon. Adam Beck, the Chairman of the Hydro Electric Commission in his report, given before the Citizens' Committee here some weeks ago, advised the City of Peterboro to buy as the best possible solution of the power problem.

On inquiry from the Otonabee Power Company this despatch in regard to the sale of their plant to the Electrical Power Company wasn't confirmed.

Hon. Adam Beck is coming to Peterboro on Wednesday night to talk on the power question and if the reported purchase is correct and there seems something in it, his remarks should be of special interest.

DECEASED ONCE VISITED LINDSAY

The following from the Toronto Star refers to a gentleman, who visited Lindsay recently for the purpose of taking observations in this district regarding the possibilities of securing oil.

There passed through Toronto to-day the remains of James Gartlin, who for the past few weeks has been engaged in boring gas wells in the vicinity of Burrin. For a couple of days he was working near Bradford, and his body was found lying beside the Grand Trunk track about a mile from that village. Indications were that no less than five trains had passed over his body. He is being taken to Pitcairn, West Virginia, which was his home.

MONTH IN JAIL THREE IN CENTRAL

From Tuesday's Post.

At the police court this morning, Joseph Hand, who was implicated in the recent poultry thefts, along with Joshua Barnhart came up for sentence. It will be remembered that Hand was tried on two charges, one of unlawfully stealing, on April 24, 18 hens, being birds kept for domestic purposes, and not exceeding the value of $20.00, from one, Wesley Dainard, of Marvers. The other charge was for stealing twenty-five hens on April 27th.

Magistrate Jackson in sentencing the accused, said that he never had a case, in his seven years' experience as police magistrate, in which the evidence was so convincing. The evidence of the accused alone, when on the witness stand, in his own behalf, was sufficient to prove his guilt, said the magistrate, who briefly reviewed the statements made by accused.

His Honor said he would impose the extreme penalty fixed by statute, dealing with the charges as laid, but emphasized the fact that in future cases of a similar nature, would be entered as common theft, when the punishment would be much more severe.

On the first charge, His Honor imposed a fine of ten dollars, and costs, amounting to $19.39. To this was added the price of the fowl, which was placed at $18.75, amounting in all to $38.65. In default of payment, one month in jail.

On the second charge, Hand received a sentence of three months in Central Prison. He was unable to pay the fine imposed.

This should prove a warning to other light fingered gentry, and it is hoped that the punishment meted out, will deter others from stealing poultry, or any other article for that matter.

It is rumored that Joseph Hand was to have been married today or Wednesday to a relative of Joshua Barnhart.

PROMISING CROP OF DANDELIONS

Already specks of gold hidden in grassy hollows signify the nearness of the dandelion (Leontodon Taraxacum) season. It almost seemed as though the little yellow flowers had naturally agreed upon this morning as the time to bloom, for yesterday practically none were seen, and today there are a few, a very few representatives of this most numerous family.

Early Closing

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Rain northwest, where drought continues has been relieved, was the main cause of a sharp decline in wheat here today. Obituary

MRS. W. H. KENNEDY

The numerous Lindsay friends of Mrs. Mary Annie Kennedy, widow of the late Colonel, W. N. Kennedy, will regret to learn that her death took place at New York city on Saturday. The deceased lady, who was 74 years of age, had been in ill health for some time, and desired a change of scenery to spend the winter in California. While there, she recovered considerably, and was on her way back to Winnipeg, and was taken ill again, and died of heart failure, shortly after New York was reached.

Deceased was the daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Chambers, of Peterboro, Ont., and married Colonel William Nassau Kennedy, who in 1876, joined the expedition under Lord Wolseley to quell the rebellion in the west. Later Colonel Kennedy commanded the Canadian Voyageurs in the Gordon Relief Expedition and it was when on his return from Soudan that he died in London, Eng., in 1883. She was a lady of a retiring disposition, but was well known among a very large circle of friends, and deeply respected by them. She is survived by four sons Major Kennedy, of the Royal Engineers, who is at present in London, A.H.N. Kennedy, who is also in London, and Messrs C.W.N., and F.C. Kennedy, who are in Winnipeg, and one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Adamson, of New York.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon, from the residence of her son, Mr. C.W.N. Kennedy, 179 Spence street.—Wn. Free Press.

NEW WALK IN FRONT OF SCHOOL

From Wednesday's Post.

The council's attention has been drawn to the unsatisfactory condition of the walk on Sussex-st. in front of the north ward school, between Francis and Colborne streets. Some of council last evening considered the advisability of building a cinder walk, but Reeve Vrooman, Ald. Smale and McGee, thought it would not be wise to build such a walk there. It was also thought by some that a five foot walk would be satisfactory.

Deputy Reeve Dobson said that when the town built good schools, the walks in front of them ought to be in keeping with the structures.

The council really decided to construct a five foot walk in front of the school in question.

BOAT SERVICE ON ADJACENT WATERS

Orillia Packet: In reply to an enquiry as to whether it was the intention of the new owners of the Geneva to maintain a regular boat service on Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching, Mr. H. Pinchin, Manager of the Peterboro and Lake Simcoe Navigation Co., Limited, writes:

It is our intention to remove the steamer Geneva from Lake Simcoe to Rice Lake, running her from Peterboro and Rice Lake points. It is not our intention this year to have a regular boat on Lake Simcoe, but we will have the steamer Otonabee, the largest of our fleet, in Lake Simcoe waters from the 20th of July until the latter part of August should excursion business warrant. Have already booked excursions into and out of Barrie, and hope to be able to do so out of Orillia. Should the service warrant it, we may put a small tug on a regular boat on Lake Simcoe as well as the Otonabee. There will be no direct connection by boat by our company from Lake Simcoe to the Kawartha lakes, although we expect to run occasional excursions from Peterboro to Lindsay. We have a stranger plying out of Lindsay to Sturgeon Point, Fenelon Falls and Coboconk, and the steamers out of Bobcaygeon to all Stony and Kawartha lake points, two out of Peterboro, one by Stony lake and the other to Rice lake, and by using rail out of Lindsay or Fenelon Falls to Bobcaygeon, connection can be made from our line of steamers down through the canal as at Peterboro and as far south as Jackson's Point. It is the intention of the Company, probably during next season, to have their line of boats so operated as to give direct connection by water from Orillia to Bay of Quinte.

BARTENDERS WERE REFUSED LICENSES

As a result of the licenses of eight Peterboro bartenders was refused by License Inspector Stewart on Saturday, the matter of refusing or renewing bartenders licenses being entirely under his jurisdiction.

These eight bartenders in question were mixed up in a case last December, when the proprietor of the Chemong Hotel was charged with the illegal sale of liquor and subsequently fined $100 by pleading guilty.

The eight bartenders were, to the knowledge of the License Inspector, drinking and causing a disturbance by their disorderly actions, both at the hotel and on their return to the city; not on only occasion alone, but several times.

The licenses could at that time have been cancelled, but the inspector decided to allow them to finish the year.

POWER SITUATION AT MIDLAND

Midland Free Press: The by-law to raise by debentures $13,000 to purchase electric power from the Hydro-Electric Commission, and which was voted on last Thursday and very little opposition. Only fifteen citizens said by their vote that the proposal was not a good thing or a valuable one.

The vote polled, however, was not very large. Out of a total vote of 845 only 284 were recorded, all of those being in favor of the by-law but fifteen. It was not expected that there would be much opposition, and consequently there was not the same interest there otherwise would have been, which accounts for the small vote polled. It only required a majority vote to carry the by-law, and there was no hustling done by those most deeply interested.

On Friday evening the Council held a special meeting and gave the by-law its third reading, and a recommendation made to the Water and Light Commission to proceed at once to make the change in the system. It is therefore expected that the new system will be in operation about the first of June as the Georgian Bay Electric Railway and Power Co. will have their work completed by that date.

The rejuvenation to be given the lighting of Midland should be considerable in view of the fact that the cost of production with the present system is about $50.00 per horse-power compared with the new system at $20.00 per horse power which is the cost of power to be delivered at Midland.

This will mean a saving of $30.00 per horse power, which after it is in proper working order should add the present profits of the town to about half. But that is not the only advantage to be derived. We have been paying the Hydro-Electric Commission for the last two years, instead of 15 as at the present time. This will be appreciated by the business men, as the cost can be turned to a profit the day as is necessary during dull, dark weather. Then another advantage will be for power purposes, which will possibly be the greatest benefit derived in that way. Cheap power is what all manufacturers are looking for, and, in view with the exception of Orillia, Midland will be in as good a position for other power as any town in Ontario.

HYMENEAL

HENDERSON—CRONK.

A very quiet wedding took place at eight o'clock on Tuesday morning, at the residence of Mr. Thos. Henderson, when his daughter, Hester, E. Blanche, was united in marriage to Mr. Clarence E. Cronk. The ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives was performed by Rev. R. Burns, Ph. B., pastor of the Methodist church. The bride was prettily attired in a gown of white lawn trimmed with plenty of Persian silk. A cream straw hat with blue trimmings, completed a dainty costume. Mr. and Mrs. Cronk left on the nine train for Cannington, Midland and Port Rowan, where they will spend a few days, before going on to their new home in Mosgiewan, Sask.

TEACHERS' SALARIES IN PETERBOROUGH

Peterboro Board of Education has decided upon larger salaries for public school staff. Owing to the great demand in the western provinces, and the rural section of the province, the board finds it impossible to maintain present efficiency on the teaching staff on the present salary schedule.

Lady assistant teachers holding professional second class certificates will be paid initial salary of $500 per annum, with two annual increases of $50 each, and thereafter annual increases of $50 until maximum of $700 is reached.

Navigation On Gull River

Minden Echo: A petition is being circulated in town and district and it will be largely signed asking the Government for a sufficient grant to remove the obstructions in the Gull River so as to make it navigable for a small steamer. The petition is being circulated by Mr. Ed. Ward, who is in town for the purpose of securing the signatures of the ratepayers. It is understood that if the Government will do the work the ratepayers will be willing to pay a small bonus towards the work. The Gull River is a very pretty stream and if it could be made navigable would be a great boon to the people living on its banks. It is understood that the Government will be asked to make a grant of $2,000 for the work.

BROKEN-DOWN NERVES

HOPELESS CONDITION CURED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MILTON HAVEN, Ont., Aug. 20th, 1910

"I was a complete invalid, three years ago, with Stomach Trouble, Constipation and Broken-down Nerves. I could not sleep at night and my Stomach did me very little good. I was almost hopeless until I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" in small doses. I have taken about three dozen boxes in all and, Thank God, to-day I am well and strong—able to do my own work—and have a baby fifteen months old, and six children to all.

I would not be without "Fruit-a-tives" in the house, and I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering as I did."

MRS. D. CURNEY.

Nervousness is not a disease in itself, but is the result of some of the vital organs becoming diseased. In Mrs. Curney's case, her nervous condition was caused by a very weak stomach and torpid liver. "Fruit-a-tives" strengthened the stomach—helped digestion—made the liver active—and cured Constipation. Then her nerves became well.

If your nerves are "all unstrung", take "Fruit-a-tives". 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size 25c. At all dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

TRAMP WAS ONLY TAKING A WASH

From Saturday's Post

Friday morning about five o'clock a stranger, presumably a tramp, was noticed by one or two ladies along the river bank, between the new basic trade and Horn's mill. He was taking a wash off his hat and afterwards his coat and lay them on the bank. The ladies immediately came to the conclusion that the stranger was drowning himself, and lost no time in making known their fears to several citizens. No time was lost in reaching the scene, but it turned out that the stranger was only endeavoring to have a wash, and was busily engaged in removing the unpleasant dirt from his face with the assistance of a good sized cake of soap, which he afterwards placed in his coat pocket.

Sylvester Mfg. Co. Running Again

This morning the whistle on the Sylvester Manufacturing Co. blew for the first time in two years, and it was a joyful sound to many who have been idle for years, and who have been anxiously waiting for the time when the factory would be again running with a large staff of men engaged.

In another column will be found an article dealing with the future prospects of this industry, and also placing a proposition before the citizens for their consideration. This evening a meeting of the Board of Health is called for Thursday evening in the council chamber, eight o'clock, when matters relating to the Sylvester Manufacturing Co. will be considered. A full attendance of citizens is requested.

METHODIST CHURCH WILL BAR WOMEN

Women will not be allowed to represent Methodist churches throughout the Dominion at the general conference. This momentous question for Methodism, brought up by the British Columbia conference, was unanimously decided at the annual meeting of the Court of Appeal of the Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. At present there are district meetings, annual and general conference are composed entirely of men. The lay members are appointed by the quarterly official board of the different churches on which women may sit.

The court also confirmed the powers of the quarterly and the trust boards of the individual congregations as to delegating their financial functions to a special finance board; but the business of the quarterly and trust boards must be transacted separately.

OZONE TRIUMPH IN ANN ARBOR

Information has been received in town to the effect that the ozone purification plant in ann Arbor, Michigan, has reached such a high state of efficiency in purifying water as to be beyond criticism.

Almost hourly tests have been made of the water by the experts of Ann Arbor University since Dec. 19th last, and the recent tests made have disclosed the wonderful facts that 99.83 per cent of bacteria and 100 per cent of typhoid germs have been removed from the water. The result is practically similar to the local ozone purification system, and the hourly satisfactory results obtained by the local plant convince our water commissioner

DOMINION PARLIAMENT MAY ADJOURN BUT ONLY FOR A COUPLE OF MONTHS

Ottawa, May 4.—The Liberals will meet in caucus to-morrow to consider the quest of a short adjournment of Parliament at the end of the month until the Premier's return in July from the Imperial Conference and the Coronation. Although a considerable number of the party are in favor of continuing the session without any recess until all the business before Parliament is concluded, it is probable that the decision tomorrow will be in favor of an adjournment during June and part of July, mainly in view of the fact that this will allow the Parliamentary delegation of eighteen, who have been officially invited to attend the coronation ceremonies to get away. Moreover according to advices received here it is regarded as impossible that the American Senate will finally ratify the agreement before July and the adjournment therefore, under the circumstances, would probably not make any very material difference in the final committing operation of the proposed reciprocal trade.

It may be noted also in this connection that there is apparently little hope of the Opposition giving up their right against the agreement so long as there is a faint prospect of its not being ratified at Washington.

Little would therefore be gained by keeping the houses in session meanwhile. During the remainder of the month the Government will endeavour to have most of the business of Parliament for this session exclusive of reciprocity, cleared from the order paper, and any interim supply bill will be put through to carry on the administration for several months. The whole question as to the legislative policy, together with the question of the length of the adjournment, will probably be settled at to-morrow's caucus. May 25 is suggested tonight as the probable date for adjournment and the third week in July as the probable time for reassembling. During the interim members will carry on an active educational campaign in their constituencies in reciprocity issues.

Incidents in Life Of Alex Niven

E. V. Neelands, son of Dr. Neelands of town, accompanied the late Alex Niven, surveyor, who died in Toronto Sunday on the survey of the boundary line between Algoma and Nipissing districts in 1899. On this trip Mr. Neelands met with an adventure on Lake Mattabee, which the party came in which he was travelling with six companions, struck some floating ice about 12 o'clock one night. The boat was swamped and all were thrown into the water. One of the party was drowned; the rest succeeded in reaching the shore in an exhausted condition. The late Mr. McNiven was placed on top of the overturned canoe. They were for three days without food, until they succeeded in finding a Indian camp, where they were takenin and fed, and afterwards conducted to a Hudson Bay fort, where they were cared for and were able to reach home safely.

I can gratefully testify in favor of Father Morrissy's Remedy for Bronchial troubles. It remained for Father Morrissy, with his wonderful medical skill, to combine extracts from these in such a way as to make the most effective cure for all forms of throat and lung troubles.

His prescription, known as "Father Morrissy's No. 10" or "Lung Tonic", is now a recognized specific in Canada for diseases of throat or lungs which causes it. It goes a step further, too, and earns its name of a "Lung Tonic" by strengthening the weakened parts.

JOSEPH HAND ON TRIAL THIS MORNING IN CONNECTION WITH POULTRY THEFTS

From Friday's Post.

At the police court this morning Joseph Hand came up before Police Magistrate Jackson charged with being an accessory with Joshua Barnhard to the theft of a quantity of poultry from one Wesley Dunnard, of Eldon.

Mr. F. Holmes Hopkins appeared for the accused, who pleaded not guilty.

Mr. G. A. McGahey gave evidence showing that Barnhard had hired a livery rig from him on April 21st, 24, and 27th. On one of these dates he said he was going to see his mother-in-law in Omemee, who was ill. Mr. McGahey had found chicken feathers in the buggy when it was being cleaned out.

Mr. John Jordan also gave evidence to the effect that he had seen accused and Barnhard in the buggy on one of the dates in question, about six miles south of town. Witness was on that date at Mr. Hickson's in Manvers.

Mr. Freedhoff, of the East Ward, who had purchased fowl from Barnhardt, gave full details of his dealings with that party. Hand was with him on both occasions. Last Thursday morning 27th, was the last time. First time he asked him if he had the hens in town, and he said no, he (Barnhardt) had them about thirteen miles out, belonging to his father-in-law.

On being cross-examined by Mr. Hopkins, Freedhoff changed his mind, and said it was a week ago to-day, on Friday, about 7 o'clock. Hand did not talking or no bargaining whatever. Witness paid $9.00. Could not say who he paid the money to. A week ago last Tuesday the first delivery of hens was made and $10.25 paid. He could not remember anything that Hand said. Hand's payment of first batch to Barnhardt the next one he did not know to whom.

Wesley Dunnard, of Cavan, whose hen house was robbed of some forty or fifty chickens on April 24th and 27th was the last witness. He had found the tracks of a buggy in his field and had traced the footprints of a man, on April 24th leading from the hen house. On April 27th, the occasion of the second raid, he had found the buggy tracks also, and the marks of the horse's feet led to prove that it was the same animal used on the occasion of the first raid, as he had measured the tracks. He had afterwards seen some fifteen of his hens in Mr. Freedhoff's wagon in the south ward. He knew Barnhardt as he had worked for him last August. He was anxious, at that time, to purchase some of his poultry.

Jos. Hand took the stand on his own behalf and stated that he had been living with Joshua Barnhardt, his people residing some 60 miles away. He admitted going out with Barnhardt after poultry, but denied being implicated in the theft. He was closely cross-examined by Constable Short and contradicted his statements several times.

Police Magistrate Jackson adjourned the case until Tuesday next.

SHAREHOLDERS OF THE FARMERS' BANK MUST PAY THE DOUBLE LIABILITY

"Toronto News: The list of 'double liability' shareholders of the defunct Farmers Bank contains the names of seven hundred persons, mostly Ontario farmers, who, without a few days' notice, will be asked to hand over to the curator, Mr. G. T. Clarkson, an amount, approximating half a million dollars. This means that the gross loss of subscribers for stock in the Travellers Institution will be over half million dollars.

"The number of contributories upon whom the burden of the double liability will fall was given to The News this morning by Mr. Clarkson.

"'Every contributor,' said he, 'will be called upon for one hundred per cent beyond the amount of his subscription.'"

ASK FOR $584,500.

"The deficiency noted in the curator's report on December 19, 1910 following the closing of the bank's doors was $436,011.42. According to the official Government estimate contained in the Chartered Banks Report for November, 1910, a month before the Farmers Bank went under, the amount of stock subscribed was $584,500, and the amount paid up $567,579. The capital authorized was $1,000,000.

"By the application of the double liability clause the subscribers of the Farmers Bank will have to go into their pockets for $584,500. It is understood that the Keeley issue will be counted by the curator in his official report of assets to be presented and as has been done in similar cases may be marked down at a value of '31.'

"If the procedure taken in the liquidation of the defunct concern, the average extra levy upon stock holders will be $831, but the direct liability being on each holder of each equal basis will fall upon a great many with great severity. The majority of the stock was held by farmers in Ontario, who were drawn into the deal by the assurance of high dividends.

PROCESS OF LIQUIDATION.

"The proceedings in such cases are the winding up of the Farmers Bank," said Mr. Clarkson to the News. "Takes the form of that assume legally bound under the double liability clause. That is made known to all concerned, and if any person does not consider himself legally liable he has to bring the proving of liability before a court and stating his case. At the end of such hearings the list is considered complete and the curator proceeds to collect the amounts due."

RIVER OF BEER IN LOCAL OPTION TOWN

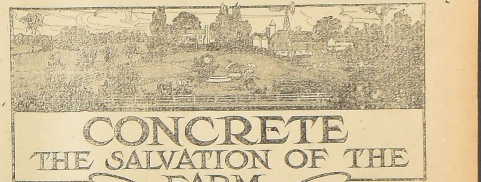
Acton, May 7.—Almost the whole town of Acton turned out yesterday to witness the unusual sight of a river of beer flowing down a street of a "dry" town.

For some time the Dominion Hotel has been under the suspicion, and Provincial License Inspector Aygarst had been watching the premises. A week ago yesterday three officers, searched the premises, raided the hotel and seized twenty cases of lager, one of which was on tap in the bar.

The cases were heard in the Town Hall yesterday, the presiding justices being Mr. H. P. Moore, of Acton and Mr. H. T. Kennedy of Georgetown. The defendants were represented by Mr. J. Haverson K.C. and the prosecution by Mr. T. L. Monahan. Six charges were preferred against William Lawson, the lessee of the hotel for selling and for keeping liquor for sale. Convictions were registered in each case and the fines totalled $520. Lawson, however, was not present. It is reported that he left Acton on the midnight train on Friday en route for Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Part proprietor of the hotel, Albert J. Lawson, was fined $400 on two counts for selling, the fine in each case being $200. His son Norman, was also fined $400 for selling and a similar charge was laid against another son, Andrew Lawson. The fines all told amounted to $1,320.

After the convictions had been registered the conducting liquor was poured out before the Town Hall, the crowd of spectators lined up, some



It is only a few years since concrete was generally accepted as a reliable building material, yet the difference which this convenient and economical form of construction has made to the outlook on the farmer in those few years, has become much to revolutionize things on the farm.

The growing scarcity of lumber and its consequent rise in price, has gradually caused that commodity to assume the general aspect of a luxury. So much lumber is used on the farm for buildings and fencing that the extremely high price has made it almost prohibitive to the average farmer unless he has an extra large amount of money to spend on outlay. Wire fencing partially solved the problem, but real relief did not come until concrete was proven by actual tests to be not only practicable, but to possess many advantages over wood as a building material.

The uses to which concrete can be put are almost without limit, more particularly on the farm. Already the list includes farms of concrete ranging from the large hip-roofed barn down to a nest-egg that deceives the wizened old layer in the brood. Those uses have been extended largely by a series of practical experiments conducted under the auspices of the Canada Cement Company, on farms throughout the country. The concern, which has fathered the concrete building process in Canada, has been a leader in the spreading of knowledge of concrete and its uses. Recently it has distributed 42,000 copies of a book entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." This article shows that this simple material makes it possible for any farmer to do almost every kind of improvement on and around a farm with concrete, and is given free of charge. This generous distribution of literature and the efforts of this firm to show the farmer what he can do with concrete, has earned for them the highest of commendations.

One of their recent plan to introduce concrete to the farmer is a contest arranged by the Canada Cement Company. The idea is to show what the contest is planned are broad enough to enable every farmer to compete with equal chance of success with the most intelligent number of contests. In each Province there are two cash prizes of equal value offered, each prize $100. The first is to be given to the farmer in each Province who will use the greatest number of barrels of "Canada" cement in a given time on his farm; another prize will be given to the farmer in each Province who uses "Canada" Cement on his farm in 1911 for the greatest number of purposes; the third is to be given to the farmer in each Province who furnishes a photograph showing the best of any particular kind of work done on his farm during 1911 with "Canada" Cement. The church will be for the farmer in each Province furnishing the most complete description of how any particular piece of work, shown by any photograph sent in, was done. This contest will be open until November 15th, 1911.

Already much has been accomplished on the farm by the use of concrete. Perhaps the greatest argument in its favor, and one which has developed only since concrete has actually been put into general use, is its health-promoting properties.

If sickness occurs in a city to any great extent, a searching investigation usually follows, conducted by a medical health officer, with the result that it is traced back to its cause and this cause removed.

The farmer must be his own medical health officer. He must look to the causes to be found on his own farm. A great deal is now being done along these lines, and in many places, particularly in the West, it has been found that a number of the causes of sickness can be avoided by the use of concrete.

A common sense view of the situation shows that this simple-handed material is peculiarly well adapted to measures of sanitation and in preventing germs from spreading.

Possibly the place visited more often than any other by the farmer is his well. If it is as situated that a healthful ground streams can leak into the drinking water, there is every possibility of this unhealthy water being communicated to the farmer and his family by the most direct route. Concrete has done much to remedy this. If a well is built of concrete—a solid cylinder set into the ground—it is impossible for such leakage to occur.

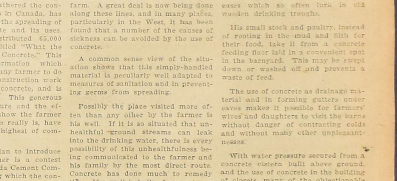
In the same way a concrete dairy provides but slim accommodation for disease germs. These two simple precautions are a long pride in the direction of good health, as water and milk, the latter even more than the former, are the commonest of the germ-distributing agencies and both are used frequently by the farmer and his family.

Not only has the modern farmer studied out a method of guarding against sickness from sources which might, in the case of water and milk, be termed, internal, but he has made a step further and has decided that the farmyard must also be subjected to some changes if health of man and dockers' bills are to be dodged.

The average barnyard—there are many worse, some barnyards are but a stack of hay or straw, a manure pile, a watering trough, and a spongy, oozy mass of mud, dirt, and filth, is between and all around. Most farmers will recognize this type as being familiar, even those whose farms are models in other respects. Until recently it has seemed almost impossible to avoid the objectionable condition in a barnyard. Owing to the stamping of cattle and the foulness and scratching of the smaller animal, the floor of a barnyard has been worked up into its sorry state. Bedding has been used, but it has been compelled to make his way central times a day while doing his chores. Despite his best efforts, a certain amount remains upon his shoes and clothing. If he complains great that are sure to exist in the stagnant water, and does not catch a cold from wetting his feet in it, he always runs the risk of carrying some actual particles into the house with his shoes, where they drop into food and drinking water by the same agency that takes the atmosphere that has to be breathed.

To avoid this altogether would be a difficult matter, but the farmer has found a way in which much can be done to alleviate the barnyard troubles.

Instead of making the barnyard the farmer and his family walk, they should go in barns and around the buildings, walks and drive-ways lined of blocks made of concrete. The stanchions in the stable should be set on a concrete drinking pool. This serves a double purpose of not only providing cleaner water for the horses and cattle, but also does not harbor germs of contagious diseases which so often lurk in old wooden drinking troughs.

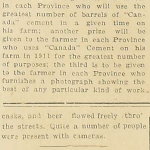


HOGS EATING FROM A CONCRETE FEEDING FLOOR.

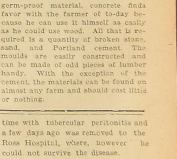
This small stock and poultry, instead of rooting about and half starve for their food, take it from a concrete feeding floor that has been put up in the barnyard. This may be swept down or washed off and prevents a waste of food.

The use of concrete as drainage material and in forming gutters under eave troughs will please the farmer's wives and daughters to view the barns without danger of contracting colds and without much other unpleasantness.

With water pressure secured from a concrete cistern, hot and cold water, and the use of concrete in the building of closets, many of the objectionable features are removed and with proper drainage, cleanliness is done to make such buildings perfectly sanitary.



SHOWING CONCRETE WELL CURB AND PLATFORM.



SOLID CONCRETE CISTERN.

Aside from its advantages as a germ-proof material, concrete finds favor with the farmer of to-day because he can use it himself as easily as the could use wood. All that is required is a quantity of broken stone, sand, and Portland cement. The moulds are easily constructed and can be made of odd pieces of lumber handy. With the exception of the cement, the materials can be found on almost any farm and should cost little or nothing.

The deceased was a brother of Mr. John Trew, of this town. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon from the residence of his mother to Oak Hill cemetery. The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved relatives in their hour of trouble.

S. NICHOLSON.

Yesterday afternoon there passed away one of Lindsay's well-known and respected citizens in the person of Mr. S. Nicholson. The late Mr. Nicholson was born on the Isle of Skye, Scotland, fifty three years ago. Before coming to Lindsay he lived for some time at Glenarm. During the five years that he has lived in town he has won many friends on all sides, and as a fellow employee of Mr. C. McIlbarger he was highly esteemed.

He was a member of the I.O.F., the Sons of Scotland and attended St. Andrew's church. His wife, five boys, two of whom are in the West, and three girls, are left to mourn a most loving father.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION REPORT ON LOCAL POWER COMPANY'S PLANT

Below, will be found the complete report of the Hydro-Electric Commission on the local power plant, A carefully prepared document by one of the ablest men in the employ of the Commission, and one whose opinion is sought by our readers as suggested:

April 10th, 1911.

Hon. Adam Beck,
Chairman, Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Toronto, Ont.

DEAR SIR:

Attached hereto is a detailed report on the plant of the Light, Heat and Power Co. of Lindsay, Ont., also a report, with estimates, dealing with the proposal of the Municipality of Lindsay to purchase the Company's plant.

The Company's generating plant is located at Fenelon Falls, and it and transmission line cost $1,000,000 to Lindsay, where the substation is located.

The distribution of the power sold and the resulting revenue so for different classes of service show that the lighting service, while it produces 65 per cent. of the total revenue uses only 24 per cent of the total output of power, and the industrial load, which is produced only 34 per cent of the total revenue, consumes 76 per cent of the total output of the power. This would indicate that any extension of rates should tend towards a reduction of unit rates for incandescent lighting, the present net rates being 9.3 cents for residential and a special rate of 8 cents for certain classes of commercial lighting.

The kilowatt hours sold under general rates for lighting during 1910, amounted to 1,147,69, and kilowatt hours sold under the special lighting rate amounted to 343,326. The total quantity of power sold for all purposes of lighting was 4,490,000 kilowatt hours, and 3,461,000 kilowatt hours were sold for power.

POWER CONDITIONS

The maximum instantaneous load of the system of the plant at Fenelon Falls during 1910, was approximately 9.0 hp. The average annual load was about 4.5 hp. Generally speaking the load factor about 50 per cent.

These figures were derived from the station records, bearing in mind the fact that no water is used, it was necessary to assume an arbitrary load factor in order to make the estimates, but unless the above figures approximate. They are sufficiently close, however, to demonstrate the necessity of improving the load factor, if the Municipality were to purchase the power under a contract similar to that entered into by the Municipalities in the Niagara District. This can be best done by increasing the individual load and at the same time encouraging consumers to utilize limited lines economically.

DISTRIBUTION AND DATE OF POWER BY MUNICIPALITY

In the event of the Town of Lindsay definitely deciding to acquire control of the local power plant, the attached estimates show the procedure seem to be worth considering: first to purchase outright the low tension distribution system, and contract with the transmission or with the Company for a supply of power delivered at the low tension busbars in the Lindsay substation; second to purchase outright the transmission line and low tension distribution system, and contract with the Commission or the Company for a supply of power delivered at the high tension busbars of Fenelon Falls; third, to purchase outright the entire property of the Lindsay Light, Heat and Power Co., including water rights, generating plant, transmission line and distribution system.

In the first case, the price paid to the Company would include profit on generating and up transforming and transmission. In 2nd case, the price paid to the Company would include profit on generating and up transformation only. This advantage is to a certain extent offset by the fact that the transmission line is used by any seem is a fixed piece of construction, and the depreciation and maintenance charges would be high, so that the second alternative would have an advantage over the first unless the transmission line could be acquired directly on the basis of its present physical work. There is no

POWER CAPACITY

Up to the present time the plant has never suffered from shortage of water, and when the regulation of the upper waters has reached a maximum of efficiency, the dependable flow may be reasonably be assumed to be in the neighborhood of 1000 second feet, of which about 750 second-feet could be used by the Power Company under its lease. Under a head of 20 feet, this would generate 1775 hydraulic horsepower, and as there is about 3.95 miles of storage area tributary to the headworks, the plant would easily carry 2000 h.p. or more on peak load.

The Company has under consideration an addition to the plant which will double its present capacity, and in view of the above, such a step will seem to be justifiable in so far as the hydraulic capacity of the site is concerned.

ESTIMATES

The estimates presented herewith are based on two assumptions: first, that the plant be operated on its present condition and at the present capacity; second, that $70,000 additional be expended at once in improving the plant and doubling its generating capacity. The surplus shown in each case is based on the Company's actual revenue for 1910, and with a normal expansion in business for 1911, the actual surplus could reasonably be expected to exceed the figures given in the estimate.

Outside of interest, sinking fund and depreciation, the annual charges in the attached estimates are based on the Company's 1910 balance sheet, the different items being altered in some instances to suit new conditions.

As regards operating the plant in its present shape, it must be borne in mind that this involves a certain amount of risk as to continuity of service as the plant has no space capacity under peak load conditions. Ordinarily, operation under such a condition could not be recommended, but in this case it happens that the plant owned and operated by the Municipality of Fenelon Falls is situated directly across the river from the plant of the Lindsay Light, Heat & Power Company, and there is a mutual agreement between these two for interchange of power in case of breakdown. For this reason, the Town of Lindsay might with a reasonable amount of risk obtain satisfactory service from this source, if the present condition, leaving out of account, of course, the possibility of a protracted shutdown due to the destruction of serious injury of some portion of the plant. Operating on this basis, the estimate indicates that the resulting annual charges would be $26,620, and the surplus on the last years' revenue would be $10,920.

In Estimate No. 2 the $70,000 additional investment would largely eliminate all danger of serious interruption of service, and at the same time double the capacity of the generating plant. The total annual charges would then be $32,479, and the surplus based on last year's revenue would be $5,060.

Owing to the fact that the Company's present assets will not be available to the town in the event of purchase, it is proposed that a reasonable sum be added to the price, which will be realized from ten years' operation of the plant at the present existing rates. This amount for the first year of ten years' operation would amount to $10,920 under the first estimate, or to $5,060 under the second estimate.

In view of existing conditions it would seem that the town could reasonably undertake to operate the plant on its present condition for a year, and in the meantime the city council would purchase the system on a safe financial basis. The attention of the management of the Company be given to improvement of plant, extension and improvement of service, and to reduction of rates.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) P. W. ROSS,
Chief Engineer, Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

MOTHERS' DAY ON MAY 14TH

"To honor the best mother who ever lived—your own."

That is the reason why, on Sunday May 14, many thousands of people will "wear a flower for mother's sake," a white flower for another's memory, or a bright flower for mother living."

Flower has been observed and celebrated with the similar significance of flowers since early times; there is a record of the celebration of Christmas in the year 180, yet although the mothers of the ancients older than Easter, older than Christmas, and have held reverence for more years than man's history shows, it is only within the past three years that the idea has been propagated of holding a special day to their honor.

Three years ago the first Mother's Day was held in the United States, when flowers were worn by all those who had heard of the suggestion; and when many mothers awoke to find that their sons and daughters should wear red or far and wide, had sent them bouquets to remind them that it was Mother's Day.

The movement grew rapidly and by the following year had spread from the city of Philadelphia, where it originated, to other towns and villages throughout the Union. This year the idea has spread to Canada and there is every indication that on the second Sunday in May which is the date fixed for its celebration, everybody will "wear a flower for Mother's sake."

In some cities Mother's Day has already been proclaimed by the mayor. In the proclamation issued by the Mayor of Lincoln, Nebraska, His Worship says: "I hereby recommend that the Second Sunday in May be set apart as Mother's Day and that on that date every man and boy and every stranger within our gates wear a flower in honor of his mother. And I suggest that the day be made a special occasion for sending flowers to the sick in the hospitals, and to those who are in public and denominational institutions."

In some cities the movement has been fostered by the Y.M.C.A. and in others by the Women's clubs. In other cities it has been taken up and actually supported by the churches. In fact everywhere it has been suggested the idea has been pushed forward with an enthusiasm showing the hold the sacred name of motherhood "the best mother who ever lived—your own." It is an idea that has appealed peculiarly in this district where the mother and son may live miles away, and should be honored especially by those new Canadian citizens who, coming to Canada from other parts of the Empire, have been forced to leave behind them in lands far away, mothers and others whom they have loved dearly and who they may never again see on this earth. To these, the simple flower to be worn on May 14 should bring back tender memories of childhood days; the "white flower for mother's memory, or the bright flower for mothers living" should awaken in them a response which will carry them back from the stress and turmoil of modern life. They should be delighted to send to their mother a letter or a copy of "The Post" telling her what Mother's Day stands for, and then to arrange with a home florist either direct or through one of the local houses, to send her a bouquet of flowers on Sunday, May 14 in order that she shall feel a thrill of pride in thinks that her sons far away are thinking of her. To the three at home in Canada it can be arranged that when she awakes on Sunday morning she will find a bouquet beside her bed, while her sons and daughters will wear the badge denoting their sympathy and love and honor for "the best mother that ever lived—your own."

To those who wear the white flower for mother's memory, the Mother's Day in May is growing to be one of the days to be honored as solemnly as any religious festival. When the members of the family join together, mother is the subject of conversation for life can be seen from an even better perspective than when she is living; her sacrifices and her struggles can be seen better and her love and devotion understood. The unfinished letter by those who are beginning to tread the same paths themselves.

Low Water in Lakes

Minden Echo—We have been informed on good authority that there will be no great rush of water this year, as a result of the melting snow. In fact the lakes are north are not full, and the snow is all gone. There was no frost in the ground, and much of the water we usual have to contend with. The creeks are low, and unless rains make up the deficiency the water will be practically all gone when the drive comes. The lumbermen will have to wait for water. Reports from the Kawartha Lakes are to the effect that there is not much water in the lakes, and unless there is a heavy rain it will be a very poor year for the lumbermen.

Bobraygeon Teache's Resign

At a recent meeting of the Bobraygeon School Board the secretary read the resignations of Mr. Simpson, Mrs. Simpson, Miss McKay, Mr. Young, and one from Mr. Gorgeon. Mr. Simpson is going to Saskatoon, and not being quite sure about his length of absence, the secretary said that Miss Thompson would not say anything definite about remaining, but if she stayed she thought she should receive a higher salary.

MADE BRAVE FIGHT FOR THEIR LIVES ODDS WERE HEAVY AGAINST THEM

Ottawa, May 16.—The annals of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police contain no more tragic tale of heroic endurance culminating in a slow and horrible death than that disclosed in the story of the finding of the frozen bodies of Inspector Fitzgerald and three other members of the force by Corporal Dempster of Dawson last February, whose detained report was received to-day by Controller White. The diary of Inspector Fitzgerald for the ten days preceding his slowly and grimly approaching death and a will of twenty-two words were found on his body. The will was written on a torn piece of paper, with a burned twig. It left all his effects to his mother, and concluded with the words, "God Bless all."

The last few days of desperate endeavour to make Fort McPherson are thus described in Inspector Fitzgerald's diary:

"Wednesday, February 1, 51 below in a.m.—Strong south wind; left camp at 7.30 a.m. Nooned one hour, and camped at 4 p.m. Followed our old trail but found it very heavy. Killed another dog tonight. This makes eight dogs we have killed, and we have eaten most of them.

"Thursday, February 2, 23 below—Fine; very misty in mountain in p.m. Left camp at 7 a.m., nooned one hour and had to carry the mountain in 3.30, as we got caught in the mist. Going heavy in creek, very good on the mountain. Nooned.

"Friday, February 3, 28 below.—Misty in a.m., clear in p.m. Strong north wind. Left camp at 7.45, crossed the mountain by 1.30 p.m., and camped on Trail Creek. Killed another dog tonight. This makes seven of it to this date, as we have killed and eaten the men and dogs are very thin and weak and cannot travel far. We have travelled about 200 miles on dog meat and have still about a hundred miles to go, but I think we will make it all right, but will have only three or four dogs left. Fourteen miles.

"Saturday, February 4, 54 below.—Fine, with strong southeast winds. Left camp at 7.15 a.m. Nooned 1 hour and camped about 4 miles further down Trail Creek. Going very heavy and everybody suffered very much with the cold. Eight miles.

"Sunday, February 5, 48 below—Fine, with strong southeast wind. Left camp at 7.15 a.m. Nooned one hour, and camped at 3 p.m., eight miles down Trail Creek. In afternoon I broke through the ice and had to make fire, found one foot slightly frozen. Killed another dog tonight; have only five dogs more and can only go a few miles a day. Everybody breaking out on body and skin peeling off. Eight miles."

That was the last word written before the final tragedy. A camp kettle was found near the bodies of Taylor and Kinney, and full of moose hide, cut into small pieces, which had been boiled for a stew.

The first sod of the Toronto Eastern ry. if present indications are born out by the facts, to be turned before Dominion Day of this year.

Mr. Rothery, the Manager was here yesterday and has been working in Whitby and surrounding townships recently in the interests of the line. All the preliminary work is now nearly completed the crossing details being the last item to come before the respective councils.

The matter will again be brought before Oshawa Council at an early date, and the general crossing plan already agreed upon by representatives of the passage of the detail plans.—Oshawa Vindicator.

The route is the same line which is supposed to run through Lindsay.

HANNA VETOES ANOTHER LICENSE

Again the Board of Licenses Commissioners of North Ontario have refused to remove from the Provincial Secretary. They would persist in licensing a hotel at Atherley, on the Hanna, except that it means the power making local option a dead letter in Orillia. A few weeks ago Hon. W. J. Hanna, acting as the power conferred upon him by an amendment to the Liquor Licence Act last session, vetoed the license.

Now, at the head of Lake Couchiching, the same commissioners issued a license at Washago, despite strong opposition against such action by the residents there. The board decline to be influenced by this opposition so the minister has vetoed the Washago license that certain interests were not anxious to secure for this summer.

UNDERTAKER TOOK TUBES FROM BODY

Peterboro, May 16.—An unusual case was heard in the police court today, in which an undertaker was charged with unlawfully incisioning with a dead body. A young lad died recently, and the undertaker, at the request of the attending physician, entered the grave after the people had left, cut the body and took two tubes, which had been left in the body by the doctor. He was seen at work by two ladies. The registrars held there was no intention of committing an indictable offence and dismissed the case.

THUMBS BURNED TO THE SWITCH BOARD

Picton, May 16.—Hubert Jewell, aged sixty, was electrocuted at the electric light station this morning twenty-two thousand volts passing through his body, and killing him instantly. He was alone at the time of the accident, but when found his body was ten feet from the switchboard, he evidently having been hurled that distance upon the shock of the voltage. He was closing the switchboard, and by mistake touched two parts of the transmitter, getting the full force of the voltage. The coils of his trousers were found burned to the switchboard.

FARMERS' BANK NEVER EXISTED

Milton, May 16.—The farmers and other investors in the Farmers Bank stood reckoning to the Gloney of Halton, have determined to resist the levy of Curator Clarkson even to the door of the Privy Council of England.

This decision was arrived at by the leading shareholders of the bank, who have met here during the past two days. A general meeting of all concerned in the double liability list has been called for the 23rd to start the ball rolling in the interests of the defence.

Mr. John Irving, secretary of the Farmers Bank Defence Committee, accompanied by Mr. J. W. Elliott, solicitor for the committee, and Mr. Chas Holden, solicitor of Milton, all of whom were personally caught in the Travers mealstream, went to Toronto last week and consulted with Mr. William Laidlaw, their Toronto legal representative.

NEVER LEGALLY EXISTED

The defence of the Halton victims is to contest the legality of the debt made made by the creditors of the Farmers Bank, contending that the Farmers' Bank never legally existed and that the Curator has no legal right to call upon any loser for a single dollar.

The sum of six thousand dollars will be raised in the county to furnish immediate funds for the defence, and according to statements made morning by contributors most directly interested, it will be double the amount waited for by the legal battery if found to be necessary.

NOT ACCORDING TO BANK ACT.

The statement from this morning thru' the town of Milton and surrounding district showed about shows that the case as far as the farmers are concerned will be based on the point that the granting of the Charter to Travers by the Minister of Finance or other responsible officer was not granted according to the Bank Act. It will be represented that due care was not shown by ascertaining the facts before issuing the charter.

INTERESTING WILL CASE DISPOSED OF

At yesterday's session of the High Court before Mr. Justice Teetzel, in the case of Heard vs. Heard was disposed of. The's was an action to set aside a will made by the late Mrs. Joseph Heard, of Pembroke, Ont. It appears that the late Mr. Heard died three wills, one in 1902, 1905, and 1907. Mrs. Heard and family brought action to set aside the 1907 will on the ground that the deceased Joseph Heard was not capable of making a will. The firm of Melaughlin, Peel, Fulton & Stone defended action to establish either 1905 or 1907 will, and the settlement practically carries out the terms of the 1905 will but the settlement made the widow get $200 more than under the 1907 will, and the children, other than W. J. Heard get each $300.00 more. In addition W. J. Heard gets the business and real estate connected with it, and the widow bars her dower in real estate, and the children relinquish their interest in the real estate to W. J. Heard. G. H. Hopkins, K.C., acted for the plaintiff.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE ARRANGING DETAILS OF RE-ORGANIZATION OF SYLVESTER CO.

The Committee of reorganization of the Sylvester Co. are to-day busy arranging the details of the contract between Mr. Sylvester and the Company, on which will be taken over the assets and business of the old concern.

The engineer in charge is arranging costs system and manufacture details to cheapen the cost of production of the drills, cultivators and No 7 plows. The factory is busy getting out collateral orders on the end of its Western order.

The cultivator for the West is like the drill—a very popular tool, and is extensively used and wherever tried is liked. In fact, the Sylvester Western three horse cultivator is the only weed killer of the kind used in the West.

The Committee have practically determined on the future policy of manufacture, confining the entire set to drills, cultivators and plows. This will give a good big tonnage and materially reduce manufacturing cost.

Every development points clearly to the fact that the citizens in helping the town, by retaining this plant here, will be not only indirectly, but directly helping themselves, and thus those identified with the new Company will reap a reward from their connection with the reorganization and its up to every citizen to help in every way and be connected with this meritorious enterprise, even if only to a small extent.

We come all help to the limit of our means. Let's not leave all the work to a few of our friends. We all get the big indirect benefit of the factory here. We must help. Now all together for the big LIFT!

LIFE MEMBER OF ENGINEER CLUB

Mr. J. A. Culverwell, of Port Hope, the "Electric Power King," has been made a life member of the Engineers Club of Toronto, the leading engineering society of Ontario. The Guide Publishing Co. interviewed him on his new home. Mr. Culverwell has made a complete engineering and financial success of his power companies in Central Ontario, both on the Trent and Otonabee rivers, and in which, although not now actively engaged, he has still a very large financial interest in the Electrical merger. Mr. Culverwell is also an original member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers of New York, and recently was made a member of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association of Philadelphia, having delivered an address at Atlantic City on "The Trent Canal and the benefits of water transportation," while there taking a holiday. A prominent legislator has stated that Mr. Culverwell has secured stronger municipal official endorsation for his undertakings than any man in the history of Canada.—Port Hope Guide.

Stockholders Will Contest the Levy

Some of the victims of the Farmers Bank frauds are hedging together for a fight against the demands of the Curator. The lists of those made doubly liable which were sent broadcast recently brought the first intimation of impending disaster to dozens of country hamlets where farmers and widows had been inveigled by J. R. Travers and his allies to place their cash in a hopeless institution.

A BITTER LEGAL FIGHT

Almost simultaneous with the spread of the news received in their last came back word that the enforcement of the double liability is not to be accomplished without a legal fight. In many quarters where equities were made this morning there was heard the bitterest censure for allowing the stock holders to be sacrificed from the day of the bank's organization.

THOUGHT THEY WERE FREE.

Scores who thought themselves free from liability learned with dismay that their names occupy a place on the list. To have paid out the stock within too narrow a period of the suspension was considered insufficient to guard against the Curator's levy. The fact that about twenty-five stockholders had completed their subscriptions and had been credited for their stock while not having paid one dollar for it, did not excuse them from the most severe category of all, numerous, those who must pay $200 for every share they originally asked for.

POSES AS A MILITARY ADVISER

Ottawa, May 16.—Mystery surrounds the dog tribe of Colonel Sam Hughes.

The Colonel has gone to England. When Sam Hughes of Hamilton, last night quoted a statement by the Colonel that he is going as "military adviser to the Imperial Conference" the Minister of Finance declared that the Government had made no such appointment and knew of none.

The House is wondering to-day what really is the Colonel's travelling capacity, and if it is true that he has gone as personal military adviser to Sir Frederick Borden, but nobody knows.

Col. Hughes, in a letter to the Kingston Standard, made the statement that he was going in the capacity of military adviser to the Imperial Conference, but it is believed at the Capitol that he has sailed as a private citizen to the Coronation.

LIGHTNING DISROBED YOUNG FARMER

Shelburne, Ont., May 15.—Mr. W. F. Allen, Lavender, son-in-law of the late Chas. Hardwick, of Shelburne, had a narrow escape from death by lightning. His barn was struck by lightning and the main bolt traversed the barn from one end to the other and went out, an apparent side current going downward to where Allen and another young man were standing near the door.

The young man received a shock from which he soon recovered, but the current went in between Allen's outer clothing and his flesh, cutting his underclothing to shreds and bearing him severely over parts of the body from shoulders to feet. It is expected that he will fully recover.

THEIR DEPARTURE IS REGRETTED

From Wednesday's Post.

Mr. E. A. Edwards, who for the past thirteen years has been manager of Mr. B. J. Gough's dry goods store leaves to-morrow for Belleville. Mr. Edwards has accepted a position as manager of Vermilye's Dry Goods Store, the oldest business house in the city, and one of the largest clothing stores in the district.

Lindsay is losing a good citizen in Mr. Edwards's departure. He was most popular in his relations with the people of town and district and his departure is regretted. Mrs. Edwards was also a warm favorite with a host of friends and was an active member of the Cambridge-st. Methodist church. Their many friends will wish them success in Belleville.

THE FLY SEASON

The fly season is not yet here, but it is close at hand, and a few warm days will see it in motion. Already a few scouts sent out from the main colonly, or straggling ahead on their own responsibility have been detected and promptly put away. That is, we assume that they have, for the householder who urgents such a duty will find out later that he has committed an error. To watch the flies now and kill them in detail as they arrive, is far easier than to wait until they form a cloud buzzing about the doors and windows waiting for an opportunity to assurm in as the door is opened for the passage of human beings or the number to adjust a screen or blind. The fly is as intelligent as any animal that we call domestic, and the skill that it will exercise in evading all attempts to drive it out of doors or to "swat" it within, challenges the ingenuity of common folks. But do look after the pioneers of advance guard, the scouts of the main army of flies is their present duty. Mighty Quiet means comfort; neglect means misery.

NOVEL PUNISHMENT

A police judge in Atchison, Kan., recently hit upon a novel punishment for an old offender who was brought before his court. He asked the prisoner if he knew the vacant lot west of his place. The man replied that he did. "Well," said the judge, "it belongs to the city, and your sentence is that you raise a crop of potatoes on it for the benefit of your family. You will stand parole as long as you look after that potato crop and any redestepping on your part will result in your going to jail."

It will be interesting to know how the experiment turns out. We have known of old offenders who prefer going to jail rather than perform the work necessary to raise a crop of potatoes. If the Atchison man is anything loose on his ideas of any desire to reform, then here is his chance. If not he is confirmed in his evil course, and will take the punishment he deserves and come out of jail worse than he went in. Excentric sentences frequently are a great problem in penology to the benefit of officer and of the community in which he resides. The judge who assumes the responsibility of such punishments are generally enthusiastic students of human nature, and almost invariably often unspoken friends of criminal reform.

VOICES FROM THE PAST

Some one has taken the trouble to hunt up Sir John Thompson's address to the electors of 1891. It contained this paragraph:

"The Government of which I am a member is appealing to the country with a policy, which, we believe will be heartily endorsed by a great majority of the electors. We have made it to the Government of the United States through the representatives of Great Britain, proposals for reciprocity in trade which we have good reason to believe, will result in an arrangement by which the markets of the United States will be re-opened to the products which our people most desire to send there. We feel that measure of reciprocity is what we desire, and we have no doubt that that can be obtained without undue sacrifice."

Geo. E. Foster's address to the electors of Kings county, N.B., contained a similar statement, says the Winnipeg Free Press. Sir John A. Macdonald's letter to the people of Canada expressly pledged the government to secure an interchange of natural products with the United States. Sir Charles Tupper on the platform during that campaign, declared that the Conservatives alone could be relied upon to get such an arrangement with the United States.

Nothing has happened in the intervening twenty years to make this arrangement less advantageous to Canada, or more dangerous to our national and imperial interests.

GOOD PLACE FOR MISSIONARY WORK

Mr. Borden's western itinerary includes a public meeting at Weyburn, Sask. Four years ago Mr. Borden addressed a gathering at Weyburn. One of the incidents of that meeting was thus described by J. G. Turriff, M.P., in his speech on Reciprocity in Parliament last week:

"The year before the elections, in the fall of 1907, the honorable leader of the opposition made a tour thro' the West. He did me the honor of having a meeting in my constituency at Weyburn—the only meeting he held in Southern Saskatchewan—and at that meeting there was a gathering of the elite from east and west, brass bands in attendance, flags flying and everything lovely. In the evening they held a demonstration, and on the principal banner, which was stretched across the skating rink, were the words 'Reciprocity with the United States.' I am not going to try to make a point against the honorable leader of the opposition, because I do not suppose that he knew anything more about that declaration being put up than I did, but it shows that the Conservative party in the West the year before the last election which is exactly three and a half years ago now, were in favor of, and advocated Reciprocity with the United States. One of the speakers at that meeting referred to the banner and pointed out the advantages that would flow from a deal of that kind. So, when we had not only the Liberal party but the Conservative party as well, have been in favor of that proposition, I am stating the absolute facts of the case."

It was at Weyburn, too, that an emphatic demand for reciprocity with the United States was made upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier last July in the memorial presented to him by the Grain Growers' association, which doubtless includes members of both political parties. It is therefore apparent that Mr. Borden has some missionary work to do in the neighborhood of Weyburn. He may have some difficulty in convincing his farmer hearers that they will be cursed if they are given another market in which to sell their products.

BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

The disastrous fire in the Baker Lumber Co.'s yard on Saturday morning has called attention to the alarming condition of affairs insofar as our fire department is concerned, which is a matter for immediate serious consideration of the council.

Those who witnessed the brave efforts of the firemen could not help but notice that they were severely handicapped owing to a shortage of hose.

On several occasions the fire brigade has drawn the councils attention to the fact that a fresh supply of hose was needed, as there was not sufficient to cope with a serious fire, should one occur. This contention was verified on Saturday. Enquiries have been made, and it has been ascertained that there is about 2,000 feet of hose in the hose hall, and some of it is in bad shape.

Why has the council delayed the purchase of additional hose? This is what the citizens would like to know. They are heavily taxed for the maintenance of an up-to-date fire brigade, with proper fire fighting appliances, and naturally expect the council to see that this department is kept up to its proper state of efficiency.

No brigade in Canada could have been better worked than the local firemen on Saturday with only two streams of water, and one of them having very little pressure, owing to defective hose. Supposing that Mrs. Freemont Crandell's house had fallen a prey to the flames, the words 'Reciprocity with the United States,' I am not going to try to make a point against the honorable leader of the opposition, because I do not suppose that he knew anything more about that declaration being put up than I did, but it shows that the Conservative party in the West the year before the last election which is exactly three and a half years ago now, were in favor of, and advocated Reciprocity with the United States. CAN WITHDRAW FROM THE AGREEMENT

So much has been made of the argument that if Canada entered into a reciprocity arrangement with the United States she will not be free, in practice, whatever her nominal rights are, to withdraw from it, if it operates unfortunately, that it is well to bear in mind that President Taft expressly declares that there is no obligation, to adhere to the bargain if it works badly. In his address to the Associated Press, President Taft said:

"I am quite aware that from one point of view or another, a great deal of effort and money has been spent in sending circulars to farmers to explain the Canadian Reciprocity Treaty. If adopted, will do them injury. I do not know that it is possible to allay their fears by argument, pending the consideration of the treaty by the Senate. But there is one way—and that is convincing way—of demonstrating the fallacious and unfounded character of all such fears, and that is to let my opponents organize for an either action to continue the reciprocity arrangement any longer than its desirous, and it will be found by actual practice that there is a permanent irry to the farmers everybody knows that they can sufficiently control legislation, to bring about a return to the old conditions. Some of us who are respondents for the Canadian treaty are willing and anxious to subject to that kind of a test."

The point is that President Taft thus declares for the United States is possessed in equal degree by Canada, quoting the Winnipeg Free Press. If reciprocity operates to our disadvantage, it can be speedily repealed. If the Canadian people really believe what they say as to the evil effects of the agreement, their best tactics are to let it go on, and then sweep the country at the next election on the policy of repealing it. At election will be held on a cabinet platform, as informed the public, within 18 months. Reciprocity certainly will not ruin the country in that space of time.

Here then is a straight road to office for the Conservatives if their estimate of the consequences of reciprocity is well-based. Their present attempt to force an election before reciprocity comes into effect, making it impossible to apply the test of experience to their predictions of disaster, suggests that they have not much confidence in the sincerity of the views they profess. Their conduct shows that they believe they will have a better opportunity for victory if election comes before, in place of after, reciprocity. Why?

CONDITIONS IN NEW ZEALAND

In an interesting interview with the editor of the Toronto Globe, the Hon. Finlay, Minister of Justice of the Government of New Zealand, who, with the Prime Minister, Sir Joseph Ward, was on his way to the Conference of the Colonial Premiers in London, gave some interesting information regarding the solving of the vexed land question in New Zealand.

With only a limited area, and with private estates of 200,000 acres devoted to sheep raising and supporting only a few people, the situation grew up akin to that in Britain.

The Government "reclaimed" much of the land, leased it to small farmers, loaned capital upon it, provided needed facilities, and conveniences and in the end disproved every argument of the opponents by showing wide spread prosperity and trebled land values. One-sixth of all New Zealand is now held by the Crown and will not be sold, but only leased in small holdings at reasonable rentals and retained after sixty-six years.

Absolutely and in every particular our land policy has been justified said Dr. Finlay and he did not refrain the sarcasm of the campaign song of the British radicals, "God made the land for the people."

The policy of the Government of New Zealand, as Dr. Finlay discloses it, is very different from that of Ontario. "The policy of our Government," says Dr. Finlay, "is not to delay Legislation until unrest leaves clamor there, or the pressure of an instructed public vender, crowds on into action. Our plan is to find, if there came a time when the conditions there New Zealand was face to face with a crisis. Thinks could not go on as they had been going, without revolt and reaction. The ideal was received of what kind of place New Zealand ought to be, and it has been the aim of our policy to work steadily and determinedly towards that ideal. . . . We have early sufficient access yield the utmost good to the people, and to secure to each of those people access to all the opportunities which life in New Zealand afforded."

Access to opportunity, as Dr. Finlay understands it, meant access to the land as source of wealth, access to education free and efficient as essential to the right use of opportunity; access to wholesome conditions of labor and just reward; access to justice, such as gives the poorest claimantress as fair a chance before the court as the wealthiest corporation; access to capital at moderate rates of interest and easy terms of payment; access to all conveniences provided by railways, telephones, telegraphs, and other public services, at the minimum cost to the state, and access to insurance against accidents and a pension for old age.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

Local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out it can never be cured by any or all remedies, but they will be destroyed forever; ten cases out of 10 are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness caused by catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Red Year

STORY OF THE INDIAN MUTINY

BY LOUIS TRACY

to seven days, let us go at the best, and meeting bashaisches at every mile, "If you did not talk Urdu like one of us, I would think bold you die here in peace rather than fall in the first village. Still, we may have luck, and you can bandage your hair and your head and swear that those cursed Punjabis catch you your scalp yet. If you must be robbed all over, ankle, guilt you are the color of brown leather. Yet, we shall have to patches of white skin showing where, percaulled your garments are rent."

Malcolm saw the wisdom of the suggestion and fell in with it. While Chumru went to compound walnut juice in the nearest bazaar, he in pursuance of the plan they had concocted together, got a native writer to compile a letter which purported to emanate from Nana Sahib, and was addressed to Bahadur Shah. It was a very convincing document. Malcolm contributed a garbled history of recent events, and one of the Brahmin's seals, which came into Havelock's possession when Cawnpore was occupied, lent veri-similitude to the script.

Then the Englishman covered himself with an old compound that Chumru secured him would darken his skin effectually before morning, though the present effect was more obvious to the nose than to the eye. Chumru donned his resaldar Brahmin's uniform, and Malcolm secured a similar outfit from a native officer on the staff. Well armed and well-mounted the pair crossed the Ganges north of Bithoor, gained the Grand Trunk Road and were far from the British column when they drew rein for their first halt, or more than an hour's duration.

They had adventures galore on the road to Delhi, but Chumru's repertory of oaths, assert the Nazareen, and Malcolm's dignified humour as a messenger of the man who ranked higher in the native world than the Queen-emperor, carried them through without grave risk. True, they had a close shave or two.

Once a suspicious sepoy who knew every native officer in the 5th Cavalry, to which corps Resaldar Ali Khan was supposed to belong, had to be quietly choked to death within earshot of a score of his own comrades who marched in the Nagal capital. On another occasion, a wounded, or Mohammedan pilgrim, was nearly the cause of their undoing. Malcolm was not sufficiently expert in the ritual of the Bakk, and the altercation, ing aroused the devotee's ire, but he was calmed by Chumru's assurance that his excellent friend, Lalg Ahmed, was still suffering from the wound inflicted by the condemned Gisours, and he also pitied the sufferer.

These incidents simply served to enlivea a tedious journey. Its main features were climatic discomfort and possible starvation. Rain storms, hot winds, sweltering intervals of intolerable heat—every one vagaries of nature and might be endured. But the absence of food was a more serious matter. The passage to and fro of rebel detachments had converted the grand Trunk Road into a wilderness. The sepoys paid for nothing and looted Mohammedans and Hindus alike. After two months of constant pillaging the wayfarers yield had little left. For the most part they deserted their lovely gardens such few wretches as had escaped the human locusts who devoured their substance, and either retreated to romote villages or boldly sought a living in some more prosperous province. Indeed, it may be said in all candor that the Mutiny caused far more misery to the great mass of the people than to the foreign invaders against whom it was supposed to be directed. Thus sufferings of the British residents in India were terrible and were the treatment meted out to them was unspeakable vile, but for one English life sacrificed, fifty of the country's red year there were five hundred natives killed by the Sepoy men who professed to defend their interests.

Malcolm and Chumru were given proof in plenty of this fact as they rode along. Generations of local feuds had taught the villagers to construct their rude shanties in such wise that the place of fairly large population formed a strong fort. Where the rents were collected in sufficient numbers to render such a proceeding possible, they armed themselves not only against the British but against all the world.

Many times the travelers were fired at by men who took them for rebels and they often found active hostilities in progress between a party of regular rebels who wanted food and a horde of sturdy villagers who refused to treat with them in any sort of fashion.

Still, they managed to live. In the fields they found ripening grain and an abundance of that small millet or pulse-pea known as gram, which is the staple food of horses in India. Occasionally Malcolm shot a peacock, but shooting birds with a revolver is a difficult sport and wasteful of ammunition. Where barrs were plentiful Chumru seldom failed to snare one during the night. There were feast days. At other times they chewed millet and were thankful for small mercies.

The journey occupied nearly twelve days of their original calculation. Nejdi, good hoss as he was, wanted a week. Chumru's steed, less lithe of trunk down are hour, and it was a close thing between the two as to which got in that wretched village.

All these adventures, all the general exhilaration of the chase, were for the Sepoy Malcolm knew.

They placed matters as far from Jerusalem as they could, and yet be in touch. When they left the camp of treachery and rebellion, it was but a few hours short, calculable only was the hour of hard which certainly would not send across the river into the hospitable Cawnpore.

That was their story if they fell in with company, in reality they meant to leave the dangerous locality with the best speed their horses were capable of. There could be no doubt that Delhi was the stronghold of the mutiny. Even during its early days it was evident the grandiloquent stories they heard it was evident that the British had held the ridge, but were rather be alleged than believers. For the rest, the natives were assured that the foreign rule had passed forever. Their version of the phrase was that "Sepoy fighting took place daily and the Nazareen were being slaughtered in hundreds."

The one statement nullified the other. Malcolm reasoned, correctly as it happened, that the British force was able to hold its own, but not strong enough to take the city; that the Force detached and that the general in command on the ridge was biding his time until re-inforcements arrived. Therefore it Chumru and he could slip the lock fast back of the Jumna, a few miles above Delhi, there should be no difficulty in crossing the stream and reaching the British camp.

For once, a wild-laid scheme did not reveal unforeseen pitfalls. He had the good fortune to fall in with a corpse of irregular horse scouting for a half-detached party of the rebels. It was the gray dawn of the morning of Aug. 8, when the pickets of the Ridge were nearly shot by mistake, but that was a trifling risk of those who wear an enemy's uniform. The Sepoy Malcolm and Chumru's livery was quite discredited in the land which he, in his corporal capacity, had opened up to Europeans.

Moreover, he wore dirt and sunburn stain Malcolm was like an animated nightmare, and it was good to see the incredulous expression on a brother officer's face when he rode up with the cheers cry.

"By Jove, old fellow, I am glad to see you. I am Malcolm of the 3rd Cavalry and I have brought news from General Havelock."

The leader of the scouting party, a stalwart subaltern, was sufficiently thought that it was a piece of impudence on the part of the Sepoy officer to address him so familiarly.

"I happen to be acquainted with Mr. Malcolm—" he begins.

"Was so well as I know him, Saunaraz," said Frank, laughing. He had not counted on his disguise being so complete. But the laugh revealed identity, for there is a more distinctive character in a man's mirth than in any other inflection of the voice.

Saunaraz was startled to an amazed recognition in the approved manner of a Bengal Lancer.

"Either you are Malcolm or I am bewitched," he cried, and he looked at Chumru.

"This gentleman, no doubt, is at least a brigadier," he went on. "But, joking apart, have you really ridden from Allahabad?"

The question showed the lack of information of events farther south obtained in the Punjab. By this time the sepoys had torn down the telegraph posts and cut the wires in all directions. Even between Cawnpore and Calcutta, whenever they crossed a river, the British had stopped sending the telegraph. As one of them said, "Some up of a damaged pole which was about to serve as his gallows:

"Sahib, you are able to hang me now because you are stronger than I, but of us in our sleep."

The Sepoy's view was correct enough. There is no telling what might have happened in Cawnpore, or India if the sepoys had stopped telegraphic communication. Nana Sahib was in Cutta early in May.

Frank, seeing in Saunaraz a summary of affairs in the Northwest Provinces, was anxious to get to the point.

"And now," he said, "how do matters stand in Delhi?"

"You have used the right word," said the other. "Stand! That is just what we are doing. We have had a terrible thunder-bolt and each one is more or less dazed. Cawnpore, in the goodness. Nicholson arrived four days ago. Things will begin to move now."

"Is that the Peshawar Nicholson?" asked Frank, remembering that Holden had spoken of a man of that name, a man who would "horse whip into the cadets" a general who feared to assume responsibility.

"Yes. Haven't you seen him? By gad, he's a wonder. A giant of a fellow, and he is all everybody says he is. big black beard that seems somehow, to be a protection to the men. He turns up at our mess on the first evening he rode into camp, and everybody was drinking and joking as usual and he never said a word. I didn't recognize him at the time, but I noticed that Nicholson had pulled a each man who told a funny story, and, by jove, we were all sitting like mutes at a funeral. I heard he had a big voice that made us jump. 'When some of you gentlemen can spare me a moment I shall be glad to hear what you have been doing the last three weeks.' There was no sneer in his words. We have had fighting enough, Heaven knows, but we felt that by comparison we had been idling at the feeding. Sure as death, he will create a fuss. Indeed, the fuss is starting already. He sent me out here this morning, as he has gone to meet the remnants of Neill's force at Bithoor, and Cawnpore is rumor of a sortie from Lucknow."

Malcolm fresh from association with a man who had lived in a world of rebels and sedition-minded soldier could id the impression that Nicholson had created the reverence military men of all ranks.

"Nicholson sounds like the right man in the right place," he commented. "Tell us what you've seen."

"We have not seen much, Saunaraz, and mostly we have been in the saddle. We have had a few skirmishes with the rebels, but we have had no chance of a real fight. Our cavalry has been out every morning, and we

At a meeting of the Dunsford Parliament it was discovered that only one woman desired the much coveted prize — a husband. The strong farmer's wife has no time to waste on politics if she looks after her home, she has enough to do. Suffragettes are only disturbers of the peace.

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many disease that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the poison that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

"Truth was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have done as much for me as medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and chronic sufferers, many with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

COUNCIL DID NOT FAVOR APPOINTMENT OF BOARD OF FINANCE COMMISSIONERS

From Tuesday's Post.

At last night's meeting of the Finance Committee, Chairman Smale said that in a few months the town would likely have some $275,000 of bonds to sell. At present the municipality was ready to issue straight terms bonds, which meant more and more demands. If straight term bonds were issued we could dispose of them in British and United States markets, whereas instalment bonds could only be sold in this county.

Mr. Smale said that while he and the Mayor were in Toronto they were informed that if the town sold its debentures on straight term it would mean a saving of $1,300 to the town. Then the selling of straight term bonds means the creation of a sinking fund. If the town decides to purchase, the power plant a commission of citizens would have to be selected to handle it just as the Board of Water Commissioners was constituted, and Mr. Smale strongly advocated the appointment of a Commission, composed of two reputable men, who would look after the sinking fund and invest it to the best advantage.

His Worship Mayor Beal said Mr. Smale's proposition meant getting away from responsible government and adopting the autocratic form. The Council was responsible to the people for its actions, and he would not favor the proposition of Ald. Smale's under any consideration.

Reeve McCrae endorsed Mayor Beal's stand and pointed out some of the elements of danger which might arise should such a commission be appointed.

Reeve Vrooman also opposed the proposition in a strong speech. The provincial statutes he pointed out, gave the municipality the opportunity of placing its bonds with the Provincial Treasurer at four per cent and he urged this as the proper course to pursue. He would never consent to the town adopting such a proposition as submitted by Ald. Smale.

After some further discussion, in which Ald. Smale explained exhaustively his proposed scheme, the Council decided to take no action in the matter.

MRS. J. BRYANS PASSED AWAY

From Tuesday's Post.

There passed away yesterday afternoon at her home, Albert-st., Mrs. John Bryans, aged 74 years and 6 months. Three weeks ago Mrs. Bryans was severly burned by hot clothes catching fire and it was thought by attending doctors that she could not possibly recover. However she succeeded bravely in bearing up until yesterday, although she was suffering considerably. She is survived by Mrs. Littlejohn, of Dakota, Mrs. Finley, of Chicago, Mrs Geo Bates of town, Mrs Budgerow, of town, Mr. Albert Bryans, Parry Sound and Mr. W. Bryans of town. The late Mrs. Bryans was born in Hope Township, near Port Hope. PLEASANT POINT.

(Special to The Post)

On Thursday afternoon, this corner was again visited by fire when the home of Mr. Charles Hancock, was burned to the ground. The fire originated from a spark, which ignited a wood pile near the house and fanned by the high wind, soon did its awful work.

Mrs. Hancock was alone at the time, and the short warning, gave her no time to remove any of the contents. She, as it was, when trying to save some things, was badly burned about the face and hands.

There was a small insurance on the house. Mr. and Mrs. Hancock have the sincere sympathy of the people of this corner in their recent trouble.

A very fierce hail storm passed over this region on Thursday evening. The high wind, which accompanied it, caused much damage to fences and trees. Several farmers had windows broken in, by the very large hail stones, which in some instances measured here" inch.

Mr. Wilson Hamilton has set out a hundred apple trees recently, on the south side of the house, and in a few years will have a fine orchard.

Messrs Robert and John Wallace, are preparing the foundations for timber for two new houses at present.

Many of the farmers have finished seeding already, and are busy on their root grounds.

Mr. Mingo O'Leary was entertained on Sunday evening by a few of his old friends and acquaintances. They assembled in boats, buggies and automobiles, and after a chat and a lunch, they served by the visitors. A few songs were rendered in memory of old days, and then the party dispersed.

Mr. Reub. Morgan, and a few of his friends visited the Beach Sunday in his motor boat, Rhoda.

KITCHENER'S HUNTING SPOILS

Lord Kitchener brought home from the Sudan, Uganda, and East Africa, a fine collection of trophies of the tour, which a London correspondent, thinks, will be more valuable than those in a very good specimen of the Natural History Museum, to which Mr. Selous is supporting at the present time in Rowland-road in order to obtain for the Natural History

HAMLET WIPED OUT BY BLAZE

Maynooth, May, 15.—The hamlet known as Lake St. Peter was Saturday afternoon destroyed by fire. The fire started in the woods about 10 a.m., and there was a force gale blowing straight for the village. It was almost impossible to live in the vicinity, owing to the smoke and the heat. The Bathurst Company lost all their plant there. The village Saturday looked like a huge fallow, and anything not burned was either blowing in Lake St. Peter or small to the bottom. There remains only Bangner's boarding-house, the schoolhouse, and one dwelling house. By the almost superhuman efforts of Wm. Netterville, fire ranger, and T. O'Neil the buildings were saved.

At 4 o'clock a relief train came up from Bancroft and picked up the women and children, who were homeless in by fire, and could not get out of danger unaided. It was reported that Wm. Livingston had perished in his house, but he had taken his horses out in the lake and kept them in water to save them from burning.

The fire is still ranging in the woods along the railroad, and if it does not rain much more damage will be done. As it is, there are about thirty people homeless.

The Style Subject

The value of good style in the clothes you select cannot be overestimated. To give clothes that certain touch of correctness which you are desirous of seeing in your garments, is distinctly a question of ability on the part of the maker of the clothes. The quality is largely a matter of honesty. We believe you will get what you pay for, in the matter of fabrics and linings, if you buy from a reliable make; but if you want style combined with quality, it is a question of ability, not honesty. The makers of "20th Century" and "Progress Brand" garments have the ability, hence the style you always find in our clothing. Let us show you the splendid values we are offering at prices

$12.00, $15.00 and $18.00

CENSUS MAY HAVE YOU FINED FOR REFUSING TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

"Civil action can be taken against any person who refuses to answer any question put by an enumerator in taking the census," said Mr. J. O'Reilly, the Census Commissioner for the County of Victoria, this morning, when asked regarding the penalty incurred by refusal to answer all questions of a census-taker.

"According to the statute, every person who wilfully, or without lawful excuse, refuses to give an answer, or who falsely answers a question, is liable to a fine of not more than $50 nor less than $5 for each offence," continued Mr. O'Reilly. The commissioner intimated that this rule applied particularly to manufacturers who might refuse to divulge information about their business.

NO INFORMATION WILL GET OUT.

"All officers engaged in the work of taking the census are sworn to secrecy, so that no one need fear that any information secured will be passed around.

"It will be impossible, even at Ottawa, for anyone to ascertain particulars about any concern for the purpose of comparison. A system of papers is used whereby certain answers are written on a stub, which is detached, thereby rendering identity with any firm impossible. Most of the questions relating to the output of a business, etc., are dealt with in a collective way."

KEEPING CHECK ON THOSE WHO MOVE.

In case of a family moving away after the first of June, which is the deciding date, before they have been reached by an enumerator, the collector of statistics in the place where they move will secure the required information in the regular way. The enumerator who finds that a person or persons have just moved files out a card supplied for the purpose which he forwards to Ottawa. This is used as a check for the set of answers turned in by the second officer.

COMMITTEE COULD NOT DECIDE ON THE SELECTION OF A CHIEF OF POLICE

From Tuesday's Post.

Last night the Police and Light Committee of the town council met to appoint a Chief of Police, but after over an hour's discussion, the members adjourned without doing anything or deciding upon what course of action to pursue in the future.

It will be remembered that at a meeting of the committee last week Chairman McCrea placed about 20 applications on the table, and picked out that of C. Plaunt, Chief of Police of Renfrew, Ont., as one worthy of consideration. The committee instructed the clerk to ask Mr. Plaunt to visit Lindsay, and that gentleman appeared before the committee last night. The officer has had about two years' experience as a policeman, and does all the police work in Renfrew. According to his own statement he was very conversant with the clerical work of the police court.

After he withdrew the committee set to work to try and make a selection from the grist of applicants.

His Worship Mayor Beal, Deputy Reeve Dobson, and Babcock favored the appointment of John Short, but no one moved his appointment. Then the application of Policeman Brannon, of Hamilton, an officer with eight years' experience and a good record, was considered. Mr. Brannon Wm. John Hallis, of Toronto, an officer of ten years' experience was also looked upon as a good man. He is an ex-member of the Mounted Police.

Mr. Thos. Ringland's application was also considered, and after considerable discussion, Ald. McClury and Clark moved that Policeman Brannon, of Hamilton, be appointed Chief of Police.

Aldermen Naylor and Babcock moved the appointment of Thos. Ringland.

Reeve Vrooman moved that Wm. John Hallis be appointed, but it received no seconder.

Police Board's scheme was submitted to the Committee, but only the mover and seconder favored the appointment.

Thos. Ringland's nomination was next voted on and it was supported by His Worship Mayor Beal, and Messrs Babcock, Lewis and Naylor. The vote was a tie and Chairman McCrea declared the motion lost.

A somewhat lengthy discussion ensued as to what course to pursue, but the committee adjourned without coming to any decision.

SYLVESTER REORGANIZATION UNDER WAY STRONG COMMITTEE IS VERY ACTIVE

The Sylvester re-organization is under way. A strong committee of our citizens has been arranged, as already narrated by the Post, and the committee has met, and Mr. McComb the engineer, is preparing the data necessary for the committee's information in order to formulate the re-organization scheme. Mr. Jas. Bond is the Chairman of the committee, and Mr. Allan Gillies, the Secretary, are energetically pursuing the matter so that the citizens of Lindsay may depend that their interests are being well looked after.

The committee meets to-morrow to confer with Mr. McComb and secure the necessary information, and very shortly after that the final plan of re-organization will be arranged.

Now is the time for everybody to take their coats off and give this committee their heartiest co-operation. No man can afford to be classed outside of the ranks of earnest workers to make the Sylvester Mfg. Co. a monumental success, which it can be. We must keep what we have if we expect to get other things, and the way to keep what we have in this instance will be to heartily support this Committee and the plan of reorganization which they adopt.

13 WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

Came Away no Better and then Two Boxes of Zam-Buk Worked Complete Cure

Mr. Fred Mason, the well known upholsterer, and mattress manufacturer, of St. Andrew's N.B., says

"I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain and inconvenience. These parts would itch and burn and smarting, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. I tried various remedies but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal, and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, and at the end of that time came home, and could not get more care. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial, and although I had little hope of its doing me good, I took the advice. Almost as soon as applied Zam-Buk seemed to relieve the pain and irritation. I persevered with the balm and it was soon evident that Zam-Buk would do me good. Each day the pain was reduced, the sore spots began to heal, and by the time I had used a few boxes of Zam-Buk, it was cured.

For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, gorge, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, sore feet, blisters, insect stings, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries, and diseases Zam-Buk is without an equal. Zam-Buk Soap should also be used for washing all wounds, eczema patches and sores. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. per box, and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. per tablet, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Closing Meeting of Caygeon Whisters

The Bobcaygeon Whist Club held its last session recently, after a most successful season of five months. The officers Madame President, Mrs. H. Garlick, was most courteous, kind and energetic in all her endeavors to make the members happy and harmonious, the secretary, Mr. Ignatius Stewart, the soul of honor in all his accounts most scrupulously, and allowed nothing irregular to interfere with his work. Mr. Oxbury, the recorder, kept tally to a fraction.

The prizes were won by Mrs. Clurton and Mr. John Conway—highly appreciating, and welcomed their gift. The Stewarts, (Mr. and Mrs.) came second by a few points (3). Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were both delighted to see others win. They have the name of being the best players and were no way selfish in accepting trophies.

The evening closed with refreshments. Many guests were invited and a dance followed. The ladies of Bobcaygeon are always most generous in contributing to suppers and candies.—Com.

TARVIA ON STREET INSTEAD OF OIL

Peterboro Examiner: Another experiment is being tried to overcome the dust nuisance. The Patterson Mfg. Co., Ltd., of Toronto, shipped five barrels of tarvia to the city to-day, and this afternoon it is being spread over Simcoe street between Water and little Market lane. It proves satisfactory it will likely be extensively used in this city. Manufacturers claim that one coat will last for a whole season, and probably more, also that loads may be drawn over it almost immediately after it has been put on the ground, thereby causing no delay or tying up traffic on the street. There is absolutely no smell of the stuff, and it gives a very clean and neat appearance to the street.

Mr. Rupert Winslow had the misfortune to lose that valuable imperial horse, Pentland, on Tuesday last. Coleburn, of Omemee, Doyell, of Millbrook, and Davis, of Bethany did all in their power, they could effect no relief, the horse dying 24 hours later. A post mortem examination was held and it was found that death was caused by a knot on the bowels. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Winslow in his loss, as he only recently was offered $1200 for the horse. Pentland was a very popular horse in these parts, having travelled through here continuously for the past seven seasons.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Futures Close Higher, Chicago Lower—Live Stock —Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, May 16—Wheat prices sank lower in selling in the last half of the session to-day. The decline was considerable, and it was generally thought that the bear forces, if they chose, could carry the market lower, and that a fall of 10c is bound from present values during a short time. Closing figures were the same as last night's. Quite a few shorts have left corn for off to a stand, yet corn ran lower in sympathy with the other grains. The Liverpool market closed to-day 5d to 7d higher than yesterday, on wheat, and 4d higher on corn. Antwerp closed 1c lower, wheat. India's Bids for Sale. Paris up higher. Berlin closed unchanged.

HALIBURTON MAN GETS A TERM

William Neil, of Haliburton, who was remanded for a week on a charge of stealing a horse from Melville Bowins, of Pontypool, appeared in morning for sentence. Crown Attorney Ward made an impressive address, reading Neilus past record, and learn that Neil has never been in trouble before.

Neil explained to Magistrate White that he came from Haliburton to Peterboro, and, wheeled from there to Pontypool. He left Pontypool early and went into a swamp to rest, and while there drank a bottle of whiskey. Returning to the village, he broke into Bowin's barn and stole the horse.

His Honor informed the prisoner that he had since learned that the charge he had laid against him in Peterboro, and a warrant was then issued for his arrest. After stealing the horse, he rode it to Port Hope, a distance of thirty miles, and he considered this cruelty. He then cut off one of the pickets, and tied it to all the bars for $155. It did not appear to His Honor like the work of a drunken man, but rather a deliberate plan. The maximum punishment is fourteen years in penitentiary, but this being his first offence, he would deal leniently with him. He sentenced the prisoner to 9 months in the Central Prison at hard labor.—Port Hope Guide.

RUSHED UP WRONG ANIMAL

Yesterday, three laborers, natives of Poland, who are employed at the Chemical works at Donald while working on the road in Haliburton County, had an experience which they will remember for some time.

They came along to a little animal on the roadside, belonging to Donald agent, commonly known as a member of the genus Mephitis. The ordinary skunk. One of the lads started in to caress the animal, but the result was that he had to be placed in "cold storage" in a room at Donald, and his food is being handed to him on a pole. The incidents in Kinmount say they can't tell when he is making a move.

PROPOSED HYDRO-ELECTRIC OPERATIONS

Brockville, May 10.—A joint meeting of the town council, the board of trade, and boards of light and power commissions, was held to consider the next step to be taken in the matter of securing hydro-electric power for Brockville. It was decided that the light and power commissioners should send a committee to investigate the situation in eastern Ontario, where hydro-electric power is being used, with a view of collecting data and ascertaining practical results, the same to be reported to the town council before a by-law is submitted to the people.

Information From Hydro-Electric

From Wednesday's Post.

The Post to-day prints additional interesting information from the report of P. W. Sothman, Chief Engineer of the Hydro-Electric Commission on the local power question.

The engineer states that in estimating the present value of existing system as per estimate 1, the total cost of all items was obtained. The annual depreciation charge for each class of plant and equipment was calculated on basis of the information from this was derived the total depreciation to date. This sum, deducted from first cost determine present worth as tabulated in Estimate 1. The power site and water rights have been assumed to have appreciated in value 100 per cent.

This estimate also covers the additional capital invested necessary to double capacity of present generating plant, and to make alterations in the present system as recommended in attached report.

The annual charges in estimate 1 include items covering total annual depreciation on present plant and equipment, as above calculated as above. The remaining items, exclusive of interest and sinking fund, are based on the annual charges actually arising in the case of present plant. The total annual charges so determined are substantially less than the total revenue derived from the last year's business.

In Estimate 2 the value of existing plant is based upon the tentative offer made to the town by Company. To this is added estimated cost of improvements and additions, giving a total capital stock.

The annual charges in Estimate 2 are determined in a similar manner to those in Estimate 1 and which exceed considerably the annual charges in Estimate 1, they are yet considerably less than the revenue derived from last year's business, and it is to be noted that the plant upon which these annual charges arise is in a position to do 50 to 75 per cent more business than present.

AT LAST, A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

"Fruit-a-tives Cured Me" Says Mrs. Baxter.

"I was a helpless cripple from Rheumatism for over two years. All down the right side, the pain was dreadful and I could not move for the agony. I was treated by two physicians without help. I took "Fruit-a-tives" advertised in "The Telegram" and decided to try them. After I had taken one box, I was much better.

When I had taken three boxes, I could use my arm and the pain was almost gone.

After taking five boxes, I was entirely well again. The cure of my case by "Fruit-a-tives" was indeed splendid because all the doctors failed to even relieve me." 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

In hundreds of other cases, "Fruit-a-tives" has given exactly the same satisfactory results as in Mrs. Baxter's case. It is the greatest blood purifying medicine in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" the famous fruit medicine regulates kidneys, liver, bowels and skin, and prevents the accumulation of uric acid, which is the prime cause of Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure every case of Rheumatism, when taken according to directions. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

This follows a reference to the permanent works of the Company, hydraulic equipment, electric equipment (power house), transmission line, substation and arc equipment. The report continues as follows:

"The most objectionable feature in connection with the plant at the present time is the lack of space generator and transformed capacity, as it required practically the full rated capacity of the plant to carry the maximum peak.

"Up to the present time any shortdowns that have occurred have been in the summer during periods of light load, and the Company has been unusually lucky in having been able, up to the present time, to supply continuous power during periods of maximum demand.

"The present arrangement of the generating plant is rather objectionable in that the wheels are so located that they are not properly accessible for inspection and repair. This defect could be improved at reasonable cost by making some alterations in the power-house building.

"Both generators are of the old revolving armature type, and while they are giving good service at the present they would have to be disposed of at a scrap valuation when it is necessary to replace them.

"The transmission line is not by any means a first-class piece of construction. Poles are of the cheap way right-of-way makes necessary the introduction of a large number of angles, and wires would have been largely eliminated had a private right of way or a road allowance been used. Considerable trouble has arised so far from this cause. At Cameron station, the station building and a large barn are erected directly beneath the line. In the event of either of these buildings catching fire, the adjacent poles would undoubtedly be burnt, and the system temporarily paralyzed.

"The substation equipment in Lindsay is located in a building taken over from the Gas Company, and is, of course not very well adapted for use as an electrical sub-station. The building is too small for the work, and while the obtainable clearances are sufficient for the present voltage, rapid changes would have to be made in the construction of the building to adapt it for higher voltage. Apart from the fact that the present transformer capacity, there are no inherent defects in the station which would prevent its adaptation to meet under present conditions, the principal defect being lack of facilities for quick repairs and handling the heavy equipment. Provision is to be made in connection for guarantee reasonably continuous service, the Power Company would require to make the following additions and alterations:

(1) To install another generating unit in the power-station at Fenelon Falls, large enough to supply the load equal to that of each of the units at present installed.

(2) To install another exciting unit, preferably driven by an independent turbine.

(3) To install an extra transformer in the generating station, and one at the substation.

(4) To make such alterations in the power-house as will be necessary to provide an entirely new concrete foundation, and make them easily accessible for inspection and repairs.

(5) To install duplicate transmission lines at Cameron station, so as to avoid the station building and barn, or to remove the said buildings from beneath the wires.

"The dam at Fenelon Falls is in poor repair, but is controlled by the Trent Valley Canal Office, and I consider that this dam is to be replaced in the near future and will probably be raised.

"The Power Company holds a perpetual lease from the Department of Railways and Canals by virtue of which they are entitled to the use of all water, for power purposes, over and above that required for uses of navigation.

"When the Power Company took over this lease from the original lessees one-quarter of the surplus water had been assigned to Lindsay, and the privileges on the other side of the river. The Power Company is therefore, by virtue of this agreement, entitled to only three-quarters of the total quantity of surplus water.

LINDSAY LADY ON MANAGEMENT BOARD

Chatham, May 10.—A definite proposal towards the amalgamation of the Women's Home Missionary Society and the W.F.M.S. was formally adopted by the latter at this morning's session of the annual convention. Prior to the session the Board of Management, after thorough discussion, drafted three resolutions, which, that the name of the new organization be the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society, second, that to solve the difficulty of allocation of estimates the General Assembly be asked to divide the area into a single dom ict, thus curtailing the liberty of choice now being enjoyed by the home division workers, third, that the various branches be transferred to the fields chosen by the Missionary Board, no longer making their own choice.

These resolutions were unanimously adopted by the convention with the deliberation, and it is on these ground would the W.F.M.S. unite.

On the Board of Management for 1921 appears the names of Mrs. J. M. McLennan, Lindsay.

PREACHED THE GOSPEL OF THRIFT DR. SAMSON AND OLD ANNUITIES

From Thursday's Post.

A fair audience assembled in the Council Chamber last evening to hear Dr. Samson, of Windsor, deliver an address on "Old Age Annuities."

Reeve Vroman occupied the chair and in a brief address introduced the speaker. Dr. Samson is an earnest speaker and tells his story so eloquently that his hearers are at once convinced that he preaches a wonderful gospel of self help and thrift. The doctor said in part:

"All that is necessary for you to do in order to make provision against want and destitution in old age, instead of the above annuities, will be to deposit from time to time in the nearest Post Office Savings Bank or Money Order office, any amount that you may set aside for that purpose, which amounts will be placed to your credit, with compound interest attached at four per cent per annum.

The Government will look after your payments. It has advantages for investment which a private individual cannot enjoy. It will act as your banker. No better guarantee should be desired than the Government is worthy of your fullest confidence that the knowledge that the entire wealth and credit of Canada is behind the proposition.

The Government has done more, than merely to place the facilities within your reach for making this provision. It has provided by statute that you cannot be deprived of your annuity in any manner, by any person, or by any process of law. It cannot be seized for debt of any kind. It is inalienable. You may spend foolishly and in an improvident way if you like, but it will not depart from you. It will come to you every three months so long as you live.

You may provide for an annuity of $50 or $600 a year, but no less and no more.

You may contract for an annuity at any age between the ages of 5 and 85, and, except for invalidity or disablement, no annuity shall be payable before the age of 55; and no matter how much, your benefit will be relatively the same. It should be remembered however, that the purpose of the annuity is to provide an income at a time when one is unable to work and that if it is desired until the age of 60 only the income to be derived will be much larger that if it began at 55.

You may pay in only 25 cents a week, or may pay in ten, fifteen or twenty or more dollars at a time.

You may pay by weekly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly premiums, if you prefer that plan, the cost being no greater where the annual sum is split up into several payments than if paid in one sum in advance.

You may start with a large sum, and continue by periodical payments, in which case the periodical payment would be smaller than if no lump sum were paid, and you may deposit lump sums at any time which will give a corresponding increase to your annuity.

You may start with a lump sum, as the equivalent of arrears, and complete the contract by periodical payments. This is a man of 60 or any other age wishing an annuity at say 60, may by a single payment pay the equivalent of the premiums between his then age and say, age 70, and complete the contract as if he had begun at age 70.

You may, after making periodical payments for a longer or shorter period, complete the contract by a single payment, in order that you may have no further payments to make.

You may provide by single or periodical payments for annuities for yourself, your wife and your children, and you may contract that the payments made shall be returned to you or your legal representatives should the annuitant die before the annuity is payable.

You may, when the annuity is due provide that a portion of it (not exceeding one-half) shall be payable to your wife so long as she lives.

You may provide by a single payment for a last survivor annuity for yourself and wife not to extend beyond which annuity will be paid so long as either of you lives; and any two or more persons may join in making the same payment, but a man and wife may each purchase an annuity of $600

You may complete your payments at a certain age, and allow these to accumulate that you may secure an increased annuity at a subsequent age.

You may purchase an immediate annuity, payable in quarterly instalments, and receive the first instalment three months after the purchase money has been paid.

Your annuity may when it becomes payable, be guaranteed for a number of years, and should you die before the guarantee period expired, the annuity would be paid as you had directed for the unexpired portion of the term, but should you survive the guaranteed period it would be continued to yourself so long as you lived, without additional charge.

If your payments, with accumulated interest, should not, in the aggregate be sufficient to earn an annuity of $50 all payments made, with compound interest at three per cent per annum will be returned to you or to your heirs.

These are a few of the benefits that are to be derived, and they are at the disposal of every man, woman or child domiciled in Canada.

At the conclusion of the address the speaker was the recipient of a vote of thanks and also answered several questions regarding the scheme.

PLEURO-PNEUMONIA AND BRONCHITIS

Brought Mrs. Baker to Death's Door. Father Morrissey's No. 10 Saved Her.

Of the many hundreds of cures wrought by Father Morrissey's No. 10 (Lung Tonic) few are more remarkable than the saving of the life of Mrs. John S. Baker, of 194 Bathurst-Road (North End), St. John, N.B. She wrote on Oct. 16, 1909:

"I wish to express my gratitude that I am living to-day, saved from the grave by Father Morrissey's No. 10 (Lung Tonic). this time last year I had pleuro-pneumonia and bronchitis, and had been going up to die, and had my lungs tapped in the City Hospital, and never expected to walk again. I was continually getting worse every day. I came home from hospital, and everyone was watching to see me die. I tried everything but there seemed to be no cure for me.

"I began taking Father Morrissey's No. 10, and the second day I could live without pain. I used 12 bottles of No. 10, and I was run down eight inches in girth and for six months was just a shadow and I began to use it, and now I am in good health, and surprised most of my neighbors by gaining so quickly. I feel it my duty to publish it everywhere I can, as with all I can say I cannot recommend it too highly—it was a life saver to me, and I am very thankful to recommend it, as it is worth all it is and."

Father Morrissey's No. 10 is very different from the many preparations that simply relieve a cough. No. 10 removes the cause of the cough, restores the membranes of throat and lungs to a healthy condition, and tones up the whole system, giving strength to resist future attacks.

WILL TOWN OWN THE GAS MAINS

A citizen in conversation with the Post on Friday on the power question wanted to know why the gas mains on the streets of the town would be incinded with the local power plant if the town had decided to purchase the same. There are some two miles o gas mains on the streets of the town. Each main on either side of Kent-st and a three inch main on the east side.

It was pointed out by the gentleman referred to that experts were occasionally visiting this district with a view to boring for oil and Lindsay might, at any time have a proposition from syndicate offering to supply the citizens with gas. In that case, it was held, that the mains at present laid, could be put to good use in case a proposition of this nature was favorably considered.

In talking with another citizen on this question the statement was made that the mains would be of no value. Furthermore, it was contended that the pipes were not laid deep enough.

HON. ADAM BECK AT PETERBORO

Peterboro, May 10.—Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, arrived in the city today, on the invitation of the City Council to confer on the power question. He was met by the City Council committee, and escorted to the Government steamer, the Bessie Butler, and with the City Council and prominent citizens, was taken down the river. Leaving the steamer, the party were taken over the lock, and then motored to Lake field, where Mr. Beck addressed a meeting of the village council and citizens, referring to the power possibilities on the river and the relations of the commission to the distribution of developed power. He said the commission would make further examination and report on the river power, and also upon Burleigh Falls power, which he understood Peterboro might secure. In case the city did not develop this power companies are willing to do so, and purchase power to the commission, who would distribute to the municipalities on the usual conditions, and also to farmers within commercial reach of the transmission line.

HOUSE BURNED IN EMILY TOWNSHIP

(Special to the Post.)

Omemee, May 13.—On Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the home of Mr. John T. Switzer, of the 6th. line, of Emily was burned to the ground, and almost everything in the house was destroyed. The cause is thought to be a spark falling upon the roof of the house, and owing to the extreme dryness of the weather, the fire gained rapid headway before help could be summoned. The property was insured for twelve hundred dollars, which partially covers the loss. Fortunate for the family, there is an old vacant house on the premises into which they will move for the present.

NEWCASTLE MAN HAS DISAPPEARED

Newcastle, May 14.—Reginald Coulson, eldest son of Mr. Jos. Coulson, manager of the Bell Telephone agency here, aged 23 years and unmarried, disappeared yesterday morning before daylight under mysterious circumstances. Having closed his office about 10 o'clock Friday evening he passed into his dwelling in the rear of the office, and after sitting down with his father in the dining-room for a few minutes, complained of feeling tired and retired saying he was going to bed. The father retired as usual, but becoming restless about midnight he arose, and going downstairs was surprised to find the back door wide open, an unusual occurrence. About the same time he saw through a window a buggy drive by southward. Reginald's non-appearance at breakfast was explained by his cousin, who came out for a morning walk, nor were there any fears aroused until the morning had addressed and his collar and the other parts of his dress were found in his room. Inquiries were made in every direction but with no response up to the present.

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

Tell Us How You Did It

You may win a prize by doing so

SUPPOSE your friend Bob Wilson, on the next concession, drops in at your front gate on the way back from market and asked about that silo or barn foundation you built, you know, either would it be worth a good deal to you to know, either would? And, as a matter of fact, you'd be much obliged to bring him as he would in listening—isn't that right?

First you would take him over to view the silo or barn foundation. Then you would start to describe it—its dimensions—the kind of aggregate used—the proportions of cement used—number of men employed—number of hours' working time required—method of mixing—kind of forms used—method of reinforcing, if any—and finally, what the job cost. So that by the time you finished, neighbor Wilson would have a pretty accurate idea of how to go about building the particular piece of work which you described.

You couldn't you do the same for us, with this difference—that you stand a good chance of getting well paid for your time?

In Price "D" of our contest, open to the farmers of Canada, we offer $100.00 to the farmer in each Province who will furnish us with the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of concrete work always photographs sent in was done. The size of the work described makes no difference. The only important requirement is that the work must be done in 1911 and "CANADA" Cement used.

In writing your description, don't be too particular about grammar or spelling or punctuation. Leave that to literary folks. Just it is as you would tell it to your neighbor. What we want are the facts, plainly and clearly stated.

Sounds simple, doesn't it? And it is simple. And surely it is worth while, when you think of the reward in view.

Now sit right down, take your pen or pencil—fill out the attached coupon—or a post-card if it's handier—and write for the circular which fully describes the conditions of this, the first contest of the kind ever held in Canada.

Every dealer who handles "CANADA" Cement will also be given a supply of these circulars—and you can get one from the dealer in your town, if that seems more convenient than writing for it.

Contest will close on November 15th, 1911—all photos and descriptions must be sent in by that date, to be eligible for one of these prizes. Awards will be made as soon as possible thereafter. The decisions will be made by a disinterested committee, the following gentlemen having consented to act for us, as the jury of award: Prof. Peter Gillespie, Lecturer in Theory of Construction, University of Toronto; Prof. W. H. Day, Professor of Physics, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; and Ivan S. Macdonald, Editor of "Construction."

Having decided to compete for one of the prizes, your first step should be to get all the information you can on the subject of Concrete Construction on the Farm. Fortunately, most of the pointers that anyone can possibly need, are contained in our wonderfully complete book, entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." A large number of farmers have already sent for and obtained copies of this free book. Have you got your copy yet? If not, you'd better send for one to-day. Whether you are a contestant for one of our prizes or not, you fully ought to have this book in your library. For it contains a wealth of information and hints that are invaluable to the farmer.

Please send full particulars and book.

STEPS TAKEN TO RE-ORGANIZE SYLVESTER MANUFACTURING CO.

From Friday's Post.

Last evening the Board of Trade Chamber was crowded to the doors, the occasion being the meeting called by the Board of Trade for the purpose of considering the proposition to be submitted regarding the organization of the Sylvester Mfg. Co. on the suggestion of the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. F. W. Sutcliffe, the meeting was turned into a citizen's meeting, and His Worship Mayor Beal was asked to preside.

The chairman of the meeting was the excellent address of Mr. McComb, the systematizer who went into the affairs of the company, and who presented a statement of the conditions as he had found them after which proved a revelation to the large majority of those present who were not aware that Lindsay had in their midst an industry with such splendid possibilities and so well equipped for successfully handling increased business which will assuredly come its way if it is placed on a good, sound basis.

The result of this meeting was the determination of the citizens to do what they could to assist in reorganizing the concern, and a good strong committee was selected to cooperate with the gentleman directly interested in the proposition.

MR. FIELDING.

Mr. Fielding was the first speaker. He said all knew the object of the meeting. It was for the purpose of considering the future prospects of the Sylvester Manufacturing Co. The speaker, after referring briefly to some of the difficulties encountered by those interested in the reorganization of the concern, stated that in his opinion the proposition to be submitted at the meeting was the best yet considered. The assets of the Company were good, as was also the future, if the concern was placed on a good basis. There was no difficulty, inherent in the business itself.

A long list of large loans were made by the Company for the refinancing of their business through Toronto parties, and the season's manufacture was begun, but unfortunately the parties who undertook this work was shortly afterwards taken ill and was unable to carry out his original plan, and about four weeks ago when it was seen that the syndicate formed in January would be unable to place the Company on a sound financial basis, work was practically suspended, a manufacturing systematizer was employed to go over the affairs of the Company and devise a plan for re-organization.

A MANUFACTURING SYSTEMATIZER.

Mr. McCombs, the manufacturing systematizer, who looked into the affairs of the Company, made a rattling address which inspired the meeting with confidence and enthusiasm.

Mr. McComb said that in April he was asked to come down and examine into the physical and financial condition of the Sylvester Mfg. Co. On coming he was surprised to learn of the condition of affairs, calling in all his experience in his official capacity with manufacturing concerns, there was no Company which occupied so unique a position as did the Sylvester Co., in liquid assets it had three dollars in assets for every dollar in liabilities.

The Sylvester Co., it was found out was unable to raise money, but strange so say it was in a better financial condition than many other industries that were borrowing more money than was sufficient to put the local Company in good standing.

Before advising Mr. Sylvester as to his future course, Mr. McComb said he found it necessary to go carefully into the affairs of the Company in all its details.

Afterwards Mr. McComb informed the Board of Trade that it was absolutely necessary to put the proposition, as was formulated, before the people.

Mr. McComb said he was not in Lindsay as a promoter, or for individual or selfish motives. He was here as a systematizing engineer, and in the interests of a plan for the organization of the Company on a strong basis in order to place it made a most thorough examination of the affairs of the Company, covering a period of four weeks, so he came before the meeting with a full realization that it was necessary for the citizens to take the initial step towards reorganization if they wished the industry to remain here.

Mr. McCombs next took up the appraisement of the Sylvester Co. and submitted a most convincing statement for the consideration of the meeting.

The determination was made on the net basis and every questionable item in assets was eliminated and all contingent liabilities included with the discounts, so that the figures to be used as a basis for the reorganization are most conservative in the showing made.

The bank credit and debit are treated separately, and the pledged collateral amounts to $31,455.00 to secure $24,249.00 borrowed, and these are not included in the assets below.

The plant and machinery valued by experts is $83,350.00, subject to lien of town of Lindsay, now $8500.

The liquid or commercial accountancy is as follows:

Assets—
Inventory raw and finished goods, goods in process	$ 56790.00
Books, accounts and bills re.
ceivable	31920.00
Cash in process of collection	11000.00
Total	$ 99710.00
Liabilities—
All liabilities, accounts and bills payable	$ 23294.00
Surplus	$ 76416.00

It is astonishing that the Company has in live liquid assets so large a surplus. In fact, these assets are over three times the liabilities. This makes a most promising basis for the proposed local reorganization.

The situation, said Mr. McComb was astounding, and there was no reason why the Company should not be rolling in money.

Mr. McComb next referred to the Sylvester Mfg. Co.'s dealings with the banks, explaining that phase of his situation to the satisfaction of his audience. They were going to organize an insolvent concern, as the local Company was perfectly solvent. Every person who had been approached in connection with the proposition was very astounded at the conditions presented unity in that direction. He learned that there was nothing wrong with the old manufacturer—it was as good as any in the country. He had interviewed the Canadian manager of the great John Deere Mfg. Co., Mr. Hutchinson, who informed him that the Sylvester drill was their only competitor in the great west. Furthermore, in a letter he had been privy lered to use from this great Company, with its millions of capital, the statement had been made that there was no better drill made in Canada than the Sylvester article. Where, then, was the trouble? said Mr. McComb. In 1911 when the International Harvester Co. entered the field, things were running smoothly in the implement trade. Credits were running on an equal basis when the implement trust was formed. The plan formulated by the trust was to give cash if, and it must be said they were not cutting prices, as to-day prices for agricultural implements were from from 20 to seven per cent higher in the west than they were three years ago. But while the trusts did not cut prices they were able, with their enormous capital to give any amount of credit, and small companies were accordingly squeezed out.

Steps Taken To Re-organize

"The Sylvester Mfg. Co. was a solvent concern, said Mr. McCombe, but it was impossible to meet the competitive conditions owing to the long credits given. The remedy is to cut off a certain amount on the price of drills in this country and reduce the cost of manufacturing by systematizing the plant.

Two propositions were therefore presented to the Company. One contemplated the sale of the plant to a syndicate, who are acquiring a number of the smaller implement plants in the east in connection with the selling agency in the west. This plan, by reason of certain conditions existing in the western implement business to-day, would have probably meant the ultimate removal of the plant from Lindsay and its combination with other plants at some central points where mixed carloads would be shipped. This would have would have removed a pay roll which for many years has been from 20 to 50 thousand dollars.

Second proposition contemplates the practical reorganization of the Company in the Town of Lindsay, enlisting the support of the citizens of the town to the extent of the local organization, and the putting of a management directly identified with our town, following which the identification of outside interests with the Company in the shape of a large cash order for goods, sufficient to enable it to meet the demand of its capacity, and the development of an export trade in Argentine and other foreign countries who use the same type of implements that are used in the prairie provinces.

Mr. Sylvester and Mr. McComb could sell the plant to the merger and get a reasonable amount of cash, and he advised him to take advantage of the proposition.

The International Harvesting Co., had written that it would be glad to secure an interest in the drill plant of the Company, with a view to purchasing and manufacturing elsewhere. Mr. McCombe's advice to Mr. Sylvester was to sell, but that gentleman said "No." He had started the industry in Lindsay, and wanted to set it on its feet again, and would do everything in his power to keep it here.

Mr. McCombe next suggested to Mr. Hutchison, of the John Deere Co., the advisability of getting a local board of directors and board of management to handle the company. That gentleman informed him that he was prepared to take over the Sylvester drill with the Van Brunt drill and sill tooth. Builder would come in on the co-operation and go on the board and make an investment. Mr. Van Brunt also said that whatever the John Deere Company advised him to do in connection with the proposition he would willingly do.

Mr. McCombe was therefore advised to go back east and reorganize as the interests referred to would come in and sell the stock. The question now before the citizens was did they want to keep the pay rolls in their town? The town had a factory which had been giving $30,000 to $50,000 a year in pay rolls. The concern was there to manufacture these goods, and the citizens who had the interests of the town at heart could not afford to see it go away. If the plant was sold, the town could not get another to take its place so easy as it could hold what it has got.

Mr. McComb here referred to the great possibilities of the western market, and the other great foreign markets of the east. The history of the great Noxon Company, of Ingersoll, which had its initial troubles, was also instanced. That concern was now shipping its goods to Argentine, Germany, Russia, and other countries, and the same great possibilities were before the Sylvester Co.

The citizens, Mr. McComb said, had the solution of the problem at hand, in the shape of a market for the Company's goods. It was got to be a Lindsay enterprise before outside money is secured.

AN INVENTOR'S SON.

Mr. G. Stevenson, son of the inventor of the great fire drill, was the next speaker. He stated that in 1890 he had gone to the West to farm for a year, and had journeyed some years before. He saw the necessity of making a drill which would meet the requirements of the country. At the time they were able to get two crops out of seven, and in ploughing the ground a stubble was left, which was used as a fertilizer. His father afterwards invented a double disc seeder, and worked it into the field with success. After perfecting the drill he went to the U.S., and a concern took it up, and paid him the largest royalty ever paid on any Agricultural Implement. The demand was so great that the Monitor Co. bought the patent for $100,000. The demand has increased in sale every year. There is no comparison and it stands without a peer. The Moline Plough Co. have increased the sale of this machine over 300 per cent. They have made over one hundred thousand of these discs in the past year.

The Sylvester Mfg. Co., hold the patent for this drill in Canada. The possibilities of the great west from an agricultural standpoint were great and the citizens of Lindsay had it in their hands to make this industry what it really ought to be—one of the greatest in the country.

MR. JOHN McCOMB.

Mr. John McComb, representing interested interests in Toronto, of which did business with the Sylvester Co., made a most convincing address. He gave a detailed account of the history of the great Westinghouse firm, and followed up by pointing out the policy inaugurated by the city of Pittsburg of assisting and building its great industries in the face of allurring temptations from other centres. In referring to the Sylvester Co. McComb said it would be a shame to sacrifice the industry simply because it needed help. The future possibilities of the Company could not be measured. The proposition before the citizens was an easy one. It meant simply the recognition of the interests that had liquidated a short time ago. Mr. McComb said he was surprised at the amount of business on the books. All the elements in the business tended to make it prosperous.

HIS HOSHIPP MAYOR BEAL.

His Worship Mayor Beal said he was not ready to express himself on the proposition as he was not aware that he would be called upon to preside. No doubt what the speakers had said was all right, said Mr. Beal, but it was up to the citizens to say what they would do in the matter.

UNITED ACTION NECESSARY.

Mr. G. H. Wilson said he was in sympathy with the proposition to reorganize the Company. It would mean much to our town, and the citizens should unite on the question. Many had put their money in other enterprises that did not pan out well but Mr. Wilson said he felt they had a dead sure thing in the Sylvester Co. proposition, if the company was properly re-organized. He was willing to his share in helping it along.

MR. THOS. STEWART.

Mr. Thos Stewart said that in other centres publicity officers had been appointed to keep the world informed as to the advantage of those particular places with a view to attracting industries. There had been a great deal of discussion in Lindsay regarding the securing of industries for the town but the citizens might go on for years without doing something to get industries. Lindsay was a good town, but it was not the only one in Ontario. The question was simply one of action.

OTHERS FAVOR IT.

Messrs. D. Cinnamon and T. E. Weldon also addressed the meeting favoring the proposition.

MR. J. D. FLAVELLE.

Mr. J. D Flavelle said he did not come to the meeting with the intention of asking Brooklin people to come to Lindsay for investments. If the citizens of the town took hold of the proposition, which he considered an excellent one, and lead, he might follow. Some time ago, and Mr. Flavelle, owing to certain circumstances he had made his mind to abstain from taking further interest in local concerns, but he believed he was a good deal more influential than other things (applause). If he be saw the scheme was feasible and the citizens were determined to take it up he would follow. It was absolutely necessary to get local capital in order to get outside capital to come. The citizens of the past had appealed to the Board of Trade and Council, asking them to try and induce industries to locate here, but that was a big effort that was matter to get the citizens to assist a local concern. Mr. Flavelle again said that he would not take the initiative in the matter, but would follow the action of the citizens.

MUST STAND TOGETHER.

Mr. R. Kylie said the weak point with the citizens was in their failure to help themselves. They had a tendency to look to outside for outsiders. Mr. Kylie felt that Mr. Sylvester had never been given credit for his efforts on behalf of the town. He was a local citizen and had worked hard in an effort to build up his industry. The citizens owed a duty to that town and to those who were at a few men of good financial standing among them, it was the duty of all to stand shoulder to shoulder in any effort that was made to carry into effect what he considered was a first-class proposition.

STRONG COMMITTEE NAMED.

The following committee was then selected to confer with Mr. McComb re-incorporation of the Company with a view to carrying out the proposition to reorganize the Sylvester Co. Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, Allan Gilbert, Thos. Stewart, R. Kylie, F. W. Scuffles, J. Bonall, John Carew, D. Cinnamon.

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles, had a inflammation of the female organs and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I did not do. A friend advised Lydia E. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. Frank Essery, Lindsay, Ontario.

SIR WILFRID OFF FOR ENGLAND

Quebec, May 12.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, accompanied by his private secretary, Mr. J. C. Lemaire, arrived this morning from Ottawa and registered at the Chateau Frontenac. He received many visitors, among them the new Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Francois Langelier and Hon. Justice Carroll.

The Prime Minister looks healthy and nimble, and does not seem at all tired by the sessional work. When your correspondent asked Sir Wilfrid if he had something to say to the Canadian people before leaving Canada for such an important mission, he smiled and said "I would like very much to oblige you in that way but this is a thing I have never done. I am sorry, but I cannot make any statement to newspapers. This is a principle that I have always kept and that I will always keep."

Sir Wilfrid looked like he was feeling very well, and that he was anxious to get back to Canada as soon as possible. Mr. Wilfrid Laurier, nephew of the Prime Minister, is with him.

Sir Frederic Borden and Hon. Mr. Brodeur, arrived also to-day. Colonel Sam Hughes, M.P., Lindsay, Ont., registered also at the Chateau. All leave this afternoon at three o'clock on board the S.S. Virginia.

LABRADOR MISSION NEEDLEWORK GUILD

The Lindsay branch of this guild has been very busy during the winter, making up quilts and all kinds of warm clothing for women and children. It is expected a large sale for the Labrador mission will be held off before the end of this month.

Any person wishing to assist in this important work can do so by contributing clothing for men, women and children; second-hand clothing in good repair will be much appreciated as well as anything that can be made books, groceries or medicinal supplies.

Fr. Grenfell in acknowledging his four barrels of supplies sent from Lindsay last year, said:

"I am very grateful to your society for the splendid work they are doing for this mission. It really makes me want to be very careful about giving my clothes and spending money, when I think how much a small association like that of Lindsay is doing to help us. We do make use of all the clothes. Our hospital land about St. Anthony's is at this minute being cleared of some of the thousands of stocks and boulders by work we are getting through this same clothing. The men are idle owing to a poor fishery, and anxious to get clothing in exchange for their work. The system is doubly good, as we get work we could not otherwise afford, and they sell their labor, for which there is not another market. We get lots of other kinds of work as well, and a great deal of fresh food—salmon, cod, etc., for the hospitals in the same way. The interest and support of Lindsay is magnificent, but we need it all, and are trying our best to use it to the fullest extent of our ability."

The annual membership fee for the Labrador Grenfell Association is $2 which includes the magazines published quarterly, or fifty cents for the magazine alone. Contributions for the mission in money or supplies, may be sent to Mrs. Robert Ross before the 20th of this month.

Dr. Grenfell is to be in Toronto early in June to receive an honorary degree from the university and if at all possible will come to Lindsay to deliver a lecture.

LIVELY RUNAWAY LAST EVENING

From Friday's Post.

Last evening, while Mr. Thos. Dever, of Ops township, was driving along Kent-st., near the Public Library, he had an unpleasant experience by runaway horses. As Mr. Martin rounded the corner of Victoria Avenue and Kent-st. just as Mr. Dever approached the crossing. The car was going at a slow rate, and immediately touted its horse when rounding the corner, Mr Dever's horse took fright and bolted, throwing him out on the road. The animal ran as far as Russell-st. where it was caught. Mr. Dever received a slight shaking up and his buggy was also damaged. The occupants of the auto gave what assistance they could to Mr. Dever.

REV. H. BRYANT AT BAPTIST CHURCH CONGREGATION WELCOMED NEW PASTOR

The Rev Herbert Bryant the new Baptist Pastor began his public work here on Sunday preaching at both services.

His subject in the morning was the 13th verse of chapter 4, Matthew. He said unto them, "Follow Me And I will make you fishers of men."

The preacher remarked that Christ called men to himself with a view to service. This was the primary purpose of redemption. Jesus and the Apostles always kept this great fact to the forefront but service would be unfruitful if not linked with the Power of God. He made a strong appeal to the members for a high plane of Christain living when their work to be fruitful would be successful.

In the Evening Mr. Bryant preached an earnest gospel sermon from the story of the prodigal son.

The choir sang in the morning the Anthem, "What are these?" the tenor solo by Mr. Geo. Hood. Mrs. Bryant did not accompany Mr. Bryant to Lindsay owing to the illness of her mother who resides at Sandringham, Stoveant Co., but it is expected that Mrs. Bryant will soon be here when they will take up up their residence at the parsonage which has been made ready for them.

Mr. Bryant is at present the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Matchews.

WHAT THE WEATHER WILL BE LIKE DURING THE MERRY MONTH OF JUNE

A regular storm period covers the first six days of June. The Mercury and Venus periods also begin and end intensely disturbance at this period.

The crisis of these storms will fall on and touching the 4, and 5. A low barometric high temperature and humidity may be put down as forecasted for severe storms at this period. Rising barometers are a chance to fair and much cooler weather will pass eastward over the country from the 6 to 8th.

A reactionary storm period will bring decided storm conditions on and touching the 9th 10th and 11th. At this period we enter into the June period of disturbances. This fact by overlaid by the chart shown in the diagram, but the solstice period extends from the 4th to the end of June. The full moon on the 14th falls at the central day of the annual magnetic and electrical crisis. Within three day of sunset on the 14th, a maximum of magnetic and electrical storms will visit many wide extremes of the earth affected by phenomenal "earth currents;" much volcanic unrest and vigorous seismic shakes.

A regular storm period extends from the 18th to the 19th, being at the crisis of the Mercury period and under full influence of the solstice and Venus periods. Daily thunder storms with an excess of electricity, wind rain and hail may be expected. Torrid days will be followed for, and produce locality may be in their paths—why not?—Change to very much cooler will follow about the 20th to the 21st.

A reactionary storm period will make itself severely felt on the 20th, 21st and 22nd. This period is the exact center of the summer solstice, and great electrical manifestations will occur in this period and on all this part of the month we may look for an excess of lightning all around the heavens in early evenings and three nights. As we have often said this solstice lightning is very grand and terrifying, but for the most part it is perfectly harmless. If some electric bolts of an on-coming thunderstorm are frightful with dancer, but the majority of them are harmless all over the clouds. Ranked around the horizon these solstice evenings is as harmless as the moonlight, beautiful to behold and full of life and life-giving but for the most part it is perfectly harmless. If some electric bolts of an on-coming thunderstorm are frightful with dancer, but the majority of them are harmless all over the clouds. Ranked around the horizon these solstice evenings is as harmless as the moonlight, beautiful to behold and full of life and life-giving to the vegetable kingdom as well as to animal life.

A regular storm period is central on the 26th, the new moon falling on the same day. This period is the place and greatest north declination. In every probability this will prove one of the most disturbed period of disturbance during this month. The barometer should be consulted with care as we enter this period, and if it may be very low reading—a result to be expected—storms of violent character should be looked for. Storms that occur during the last half of June will be erratic in character—will move in different directions and sometimes, after doubling back over their tracks after they have supposed passed off to the east. Its history is there will be too much rain in June, for the best agricultural interests, except in New England Southern and Western southern and southwestern sections. A marked seleme period is central on the 26th covering the 23 to 28th.

Damage by Storm At Linden Valley

(Special to The Post.)

Linden Valley, May 24—Last Friday evening Mr. Nelson Weldon had a tree struck by lightning right by the house, damaging their phone and shattering several windows in their residence.

On Saturday night about twelve, Mr. Wm. Shiggett's barn was struck by lightning and a serious fire commenced. With the assistance of their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Shiggett finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not before one cow was killed and two horses disfigured. The sympathy of the community is extended to the unfortunate family.

Drowned Herself In Rain Barrel

Picton, May 22—Breaking from her nurse at one o'clock this morning and racing down the stairs and out of the house, Mrs. David Starks, aged 63, at Cherry Valley drowned herself in a rain barrel. For the past few weeks she had been ill, and it is believed her mind became temporarily unbalanced. She assumed a threatening attitude all Sunday but went quietly to bed. While her nurse was dosing she bolted from the bedroom. The nurse ran after her, but lost track of her in the darkness. Neighbors were aroused and every soon after the body was found. She had thrown herself into the rain barrel where there was scarcely a foot of water. Suffocation more than drowning, caused death. The unfortunate woman was the wife of a wealthy farmer who had but recently retired.

WAS DRIVEN OUT OF LINDSAY

Peterboro Review—Are you the man who was driven out of Lindsay? queried his worship Magistrate Ponton of John William Williams in the prisoner's box this morning to answer a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place.

"Yes your Honor, I am the man and I was a little intoxicated" said John.

"I have the sad news sorry bad" he wailed, "and a wife and two children in Lindsay. Please let me off this time and I will get right out of town"

"Have you got a ticket? asked His Worship.

"No your Honor, but I have the money to get one" was the reply.

"Well if you fail to leave immediately it will be a long time before you have another chance" was the Magistrate's comment as Williams vacated his seat in the prisoner's box.

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE CEMETERY

Several improvements are going on or made already to the Riverside cemetery by the directors.

A wall will likely be dug on the grounds adjoining the cemetery between the gate and the river, so fresh drinkable water may be obtained at a depth of 4 feet. Previous to now, water could not be obtained except at the spring, at a point on the opposite side of the river, or at a hydrant.

A new central gateway with dividing roadways is being arranged, but a decision regarding it will be obtained first, so that the proper effect may be obtained.

The old gate posts will be removed and an addition made to the present wooden tool house to the north room. The vault will be given a coat of whitewash, and the doorway lettered.

These are a few of the contemplated improvements for the cemetery besides the proposed erection of a house in the vicinity for the caretaker.

READ PAPER ON PARTY POLITICS

Last night's meeting of the Cambridge-st. Epworth League was opened with Dr. Nesbitt in the chair.

After hymn and prayer, a scripture reading was taken by Miss Armstrong and a missionary read an interesting article on Parsi Life based on the scripture reading.

A short paper rendered by Mrs. Dr. Nesbitt and the meeting was closed with a benediction from the pastor.

THEY DEST O..D EACH OTHER

(Montreal Herald)

It should be noted that if people who go to Washington to oppose reciprocity were to come to Ottawa instead, and if those who come to Ottawa to oppose reciprocity were to go to Washington, there would be nothing but arguments in favor of reciprocity in both places. Practically every argument cuts the other way when you get it across the line.

HE STANDS A CHANCE

(Montreal Gazette.)

In a suffragette wedding at Brighton, England, the bride and groom exchanged rings, and declared they united themselves on grounds of perfect equality as comrades and helpmates, whatever the circumstances of life might bring them. If the lady keeps her pledge thus given, there should be one home in England where at least will amount to something in his own house.

SCOTS WERE THERE ANYWAY

(Victoria B.C., Colonist)

The Duke of Connaught says that Scotsmen have played an important part in the history of Canada. After his Royal Highness has served a term in the vice-royalty he will wonder how he came to see things in that light. He will then realize that what he ought to have said was that Canada had played an important part in the history of some Scotsmen.

SIGNIFICANT WORDS

(Woodstock Sentinel)

Cardinal Gibbons, in his address at the Baltimore peace conference, declared that if "England and America were to enter into an alliance of permanent arbitration with each other such a bond of friendship and amity would be blessing, not only to those two great powers, but to all the nations of the civilized world." These are very significant words to come from a man in the position occupied by Cardinal Gibbons.

PRINCE EDWARD GOES TO OXFORD

Some of the Rules and Regulations Our Future King Will Have to Obey

As it has been officially decided that the Prince of Wales is to go "up" to Oxford for a couple of years, it will doubtless be interesting to know what the young Prince will have to go through during his college career. In the first place, before he can matriculate he will have to pass an examination in Latin and Greek. In this he will have no difficulty, because it is really no harder than the examination he passed a few years ago before entering Dartmouth. The only difference is that in "Smalls" the student has to "translate" Greek whether he likes it or not.

This is immediately followed by another examination known as "matriculation," which is set by the college—not by the University—and is in most cases easier to pass than that "Smalls."

His preliminary examinations passed, the young Prince and His Royal Highness will enter into the social life of Oxford with their schoolfriendliness that was so marked a characteristic of his grandfather.

The young prince will doubtless find some of the regulations a little irksome. For instance, he will have to be fully dressed and ready to "hold" chapel at eight o'clock—it not every morning, at least four days a week.

Chapel lasts about twenty minutes, from eight-forty-five till ten to half breakfast. This may seem rather a long time for chapel, but it must not be forgotten that Varsity breakfast is as important a meal as dinner, and consequently takes fully as long. Of course, as much for the sake of sociability as anything else, it is for this reason breakfast is frequently spoken of as "chapel."

From ten till one, with perhaps an hour's interval, the Prince will have to be ready for lectures, for which he will have to "audit" twice as many as Canadian students, that is a little short of "ten the ordinary lectures, and a half-hour's tutorial."

The afternoon he will have to himself, and if he wishes to devote himself seriously to athletics, will be assisted by the various secretaries of the different athletic clubs he belongs to.

If, as is not improbable, he wishes to take up rowing, he will be duly "tubbed."

"Tubbing" consists of sitting in a short, heavy boat which holds two behind and one in front. The latter has nere do their best to row under the direction of their cox, who keeps up a running fire of comment on their shortcomings, and a vocabulary of the language of coaches is not of the choicest.

For dinner the Prince will again don his gown. Dinner is served in hall, and is a comfortable affair, the tables that are divided according to the number of years that students have "kept." Thus all those in their first year, called "freshers," sit at one long table, those in the second year in another, and so on, the dons, or professors of the college, sit on a raised dais.

At nine o'clock "Tom Tower"—that is to say, the bell of Tom Tower—rings, which can be heard all over Oxford, tolls for about ten minutes, at the end of which the first-year freshers will be required to be in his own college. The college gates are closed at that time, and he will have to pay a fine of 10 cents if he "cooks in" before the closing-time and eleven o'clock.

Between eleven and twelve the fine is a quarter. To be later than twelve is a very serious offence. The similar fine for this is five dollars.

After dinnerthe Prince will have to wear his cap and gown, and if he fails to do this he will run the risk of being "pronged," which is Oxonian for being fined. Students are closed at this

The Red Year

STORY OF THE INDIAN MUTINY

BY LOUIS TRACY

no obstacle to the men of the rank and file. A British private would sit and smoke in solemn and friendly silence with a hook-nosed Afghan, and the two would like cheerfully after an hour passed in that fashion with nothing in common between them save the memory of some deadly thrust averted by one or by both, one day in the battle below Hindu Rao's house, or a draught of water tendered when one or other lay gasping and almost done to death in a struggle for the village of Subzee Mundee.

The British soldier, who has fought and bled in so many lands, showed his remarkable adaptability to circumstances by the way in which he made himself at home on the reverse slope of the Ridge. A compact town had sprung up there with its orderly lines of huts and tents, its long rows of piled sword bayonets, commissariat bullocks and elephants, its churches, hospitals, playgrounds, race-course and cemetery. [illegible] Malcolm took in the general scheme of things while he walked along the Ridge towards the most advanced picket at Hindu Rao's House. On the left front lay Delhi, beautiful as a dream in the brilliant sunshine. The intervening valley was broken by deep rivers with water-courses, strewn with rocks, covered with ruins, gardens, tombs, temples, tombs, and houses, and smothered in an overgrowth of trees, shrubs and long grasses. Roads were few, but tortuous paths ran everywhere and it was easy to see how the rebels could steal out undetected during the night and creep close up to the pickets before they were revealed their whereabouts by a burst of musketry. Happily they never learn to reserve their fire. Every man would blaze away at the first alarm, and then, of course, in these days of muzzle-loaders, the most resolute British troops could get no close quarters without serious loss. Still the men who held the Ridge had many casualties, and until Nicholson came the rebel artillery was infinitely more powerful than the British. Behind his movable column, however, he carried a strong siege train. When that arrived the gunners could make their presence felt. Thus far not one of the enemy's guns had been disturbed.

Frank had cogent proof of their strength in this arm before he reached Hindu Rao's house. The Guides, picturesque in their loose, gray-colored shirts and big turbans, had spread their cavalry squadrons over the Ridge on some errand. They moved at a sharp canter, but the Delhi gunners had got the range and were ready, and half a dozen eighteen-pound balls crashed into the trees and rocks almost in the exact line of advance. A couple of guns on the British right took up the challenge, and one went to work after the Guides were swallowed up in the green depths of the valley.

At last Malcolm stood in the shelter-trench of the picket and gazed at the city which was his job of the morrow. Beyond the high, red-brick walls he saw the graceful dome and minarets of the Jumma Musjid, while to the left towered the towering battlements of the King's palace. To the left again, and nearer, was the small dome of St James's Church with its lead roof reddled black by the green deposit of the day, with the bullets fired by the rebels at the effigy of Christ the ball and cross which surmounted it. For the rest the eyes wandered over a noble array of mosques, temples, tombs, fine houses or relics of the court and residences of the princes and nobles who dwelt in the imperial city.

The far-flung pleasances behind the walls had a curiously peaceful aspect, even in the midst of shells and shot, the guns, curling upwards like tiny clouds in the hot, still air, and the rifles until a heavy shot hurled overhead or struck a neighbouring house as we all ready ruined walls of the big house near the picket.

The Glet were on picket that day, and one of the men, speaking with a strong Gloucestershire accent, asked Malcolm:

"Well, our, they say we'll be a-loot 'in' there soon."

"I hope so," was the reply, but the phrase set him a-thinking.

Within that alabaster palace most probably was a woman to whom he owed his life. In another palace, nearly a hundred miles away, was another woman for whom he would willingly risk that life if only he could save her from a fate worse than death, and that girl was gleaming over in anticipation.

What a mad jumble of opposites was this useless and horrible war! In any land any other land but women be kept out of it and let men settle their quarrels with the stern arbitrament of sword and gun!

Then he recalled Chumru's words about the Princess Roshinara, and the fancy seized him that if he were destined to enter Delhi with the besiegers he would hastily retire to the service she had rendered Winifred and Mayne and himself at Bithoor.

That is the way man proposes and that is why the gods smile when they dispose of man's affairs.

CHAPTER XV.

At the King's Court

Without guns to breach the walls, even the heroic Nicholson was powerless against a strongly fortified city.

The Siege train was folling slowly across the Punjab, but the setting in of the monsoon rendered the transit of heavy cannon a laborious task.

On the 24th of August an officer rode in from the train with Delhi, twenty-five miles to the north, to report that the train was encamped for the night.

"That sort of escort accompanies it?" asked Nicholson, when the news reached him.

"Almost exclusively native and few in number at that," he was told.

"Is your force a native spy from Delhi came to the camp.

"Without a doubt," was the reply.

"Then, sir, I am mustering for a big fight, I think. They are prepared for guns, fitters, and ammunition camels, and the store goes that they seem to fight the Feringhis at Jumna Bridge."

The place named was a large village, ten miles northwest of our right, and Nicholson guessed instantly that the rebels had planned to meet the coup of cutting off the siege train. With him, to hear was to act. He formed a column of two thousand men and a battery of six rifled guns and left the camp at dawn on the 25th. If speed were much could accomplish it, he meant and only to frustrate the enemy's design but to inflict a serious defeat on them.

Malcolm went with him and never had he taken part in a harder day's work. The road was a bullock track a swamp of mud and the larger swamp of the ploughed land and jungle. Horses and men floundered through it as best they might. The guns often said almost to the hub, many a time the infantry had to lay elephants and bullocks to haul them out.

In seven hours the column only marched nine miles, and there was no disheartening news that the spy's information was true. The rebels had indeed, sent out a strong force, but they were at Nejdli when the news reached the right [illegible] Nicholson's column was in the village and met with a slight resistance, but, and swung off in the new direction. At four o'clock in the afternoon they found the enemy army drawn up behind a canal, which was in part protected by another canal, and the centre and left posted in fortified villages. Evidently, too, a strong force had occupied a square building surrounding a quadrangle set apart for the huge herds of camels and merchandise was regarded as a stronghold. Here were placed six guns and the walls were loopholed for musketry.

In a word, had the mutineers been equal in general and morale to the British troops, the resultant attack must have ended in a disastrous rout.

But Nicholson was a leader who took the measure of his opponents at a glance, all he did not shirk a battle because it was risky.

The Glet made a flank march, forded the branch canal under fire and were ordered to dismount, and then rode up to them, a commanding figure on a magnificent charger, and cried:

"Now, Glet," he said, "I want you to drive that rebel out of the village. I know what Sir Colin Campbell told you at Chillianwallah, and you have heard that he said the same thing at Alma and Inkerman. Look at your rifle until you see the whites of their eyes, and then, I tell you, boys, you will make short work of it." Come on!"

Let us follow his advice here!

Swinging his horse around, he rode straight at metal and battery. Grapshot and musketry were there to meet him at many a brave fellow, but Nicholson was unscathed. The Glet halted at their feet with a yell, rushed after him, and did not halt until they had cleared a sunun twenty yards of the enemy. A volley and the bayonet did the rest. They captured the gun, bayoneted several, and pelted the flying rebels with bullets and musketry. The British jabs had a stiff fight before they drove them out of the village of Nujefgarh on the left, but the battle was won, practically, the Glet had every tenet of military tactics, when they, Glet, had passed to Colonel General.

Utterly exhausted, the soldiers slept on the sodden ground. That night, holding a council of war, Nicholson was commented on the skill shown in the Glet attack.

"I asked a wounded Havildar who it was that led the column, and he told me the commander was a new arrival, a subaltar of the 8th Irregular Cavalry, named Malcolm Khan," he said.

Malcolm started. Akbah Khan was the young sowar whom he had so cleverly spared at Cawnpore when Wilcified and here, after a year, he was accepting from Bithoor.

"Well, I'm blest, sir," he could not help saying. "He was not a subaltar, sir, but a sowar, and he was sent on a small escort that accompanied me with Aerla to the camp. He is a smart soldier, and not at all of the rebel type."

Nicholson looked at him fixedly. He seemed to be considering some point suggested by Malcolm's words.

"I met this boy are obtaining commands in India for a year or two, sir," he said, at last, his brief comment, and he did not add that he had seen that was revolving in his mind until, three days later, he had reason to recall and bless his disguise again, rise to the occasion, and overcome the rebel with a batch of mutineers on the way to Delhi. Then he said one word, only, note the disposition for the defeated, and proceeded to the task of making party during one of the many skirmishes on the way.

"You will be rendering a national service by your deed," said Nicholson, casting into Malcolm's countenance a look that magnetic power that bent all men to his will. "Do it, and I will promise you a reward."

"Sir, I am not able to carry it through, and five hours of your energetic life, sir, I am sure, will be wasted on native reports. Will you do it?"

Then Malcolm hesitated, choking back the protest on his lips. He could not trust himself to say more. He refused even to allow his thoughts to dwell on such a repellant subject. A spy! What soldier like to be a spy? It stifles ambition. It robs war of its chivalry. It may call for a display of the utmost bravery—that calm courage of a long or a lonely vigil, and, he pleaded, forgotten, which is the finest of all courage, but it can never lift oneself to a high-spirited youth.

Nicholson was a keen judge of character in the field; it was hard to be chosen for such a doubtful enterprise.

"Sir, I am sure you know I am be social Chumru's aid in the matter of disguise."

"What is covered, rubbish?" asked the Brigadier. "Do you think that the people of India that we must see fight and die?"

"Sir, I am not a coward, I hope," said Malcolm, with a flush on his face.

"Perhaps I shall not be long dead," he added, with a sigh. "I will remark here in charge of my baggage and or certain papers which I have given you.

"Why am I cast aside, sahib?"

"Nay, lad, not so. This a matter that I must deal with myself, and not of my own with, Chumru, I obey the general sahib's order."

"Jan Nikkoh-sahib-sahib Bahadur!"

"Yes, I would refuse any other that have done, for time process."

Chumru went off. He returned in half an hour, to find his master waiting a letter addressed to "Miss Winifred Mayne, to be forwarded, if possible, with the Lucknow Relief Force."

"There were others to relatives in England, and Frank (his brother) is a small pocket.

"I do not come back within a week—" he began.

"Nay, sahib, give not instructions to me in the matter. I go with you."

"If I go alone?"

"Humph! it is the order of Jan Nikkoh-sahib Bahadur. He says I will be useful, and he hath promised me another night."

The Mohammedan's statement was true enough. He had waylaid Nicholson and obtained permission to accompany his master. Like a faithful dog he was not to be shaken off, and, in spite of hearts, Malcolm was glad of the fact.

Their preparations were made with the utmost secrecy. The same man who sold Bahadur Shah's guns to the British were also the professed spies of the rebels. They were utterly unreliable, yet their calculating in Delhi might bring instant disaster to Malcolm and his native friends.

Nejdli was in good condition again after the strenuous exertions undergone and he was mounted on the road to Lucknow. Malcolm was in two minds about the wisdom of the step. The chance that his life might depend on a reliable mount, perhaps, even, bore of the gambler's belief in luck, swayed him to provide a second, and, instead of Chumru rode a spare charger which Malcolm had purchased at the price of a dead officer's effects. Fully equipped in their character as rebel horsemen officers, the two, the Moslem, crossed the Jumna, reached the Meerut road unchallenged and urged their horses' heads toward the bridge of boats and debouched beneath the walls of the King's palace.

Provided in every sense strangers on the road they meant to enter the city by daylight, and, by a fortunate conjuncture of money on Malcolm's part and the desire of Chumru's peculiar inventiveness in maintaining a flow of the language, they counted on keeping their new companions at bay while they made the tour of the city, were curiously to strangers would be quite natural, and Malcolm hoped they would be able to slip quietly into the some expedition planned for the night of the next morning.

Of course, having undertaken an undertaking, they intended to carry it through. If he did not learn the disposition of the enemy's forces, the general dispositions of the forces and the state of feeling among the different sections of the mutinous rebel garrison, he must perforce remain in Delhi and pay the price in loss of life. At present he could only hope that he would be lent to the task ability.

Fortune favored the adventurers at first. They encountered a score of rebels who had not the courtesies to address from the Gwalior contingent. Among these strangers Malcolm was quickly a hero. He beguiled them with tales of derring-do in Oudh and or Paint?

The far-sighted fellow thinks of it in big type. He realizes the importance and economy of painting his buildings when they need it so that they'll be protected from the wear and tear of the weather and not rot and go to pieces in a few years. We want to talk paint to you—we want to talk Sherwin-Williams Paint to you because it's so good. It's made of pure lead, pure zinc, pure linseed oil, all ground together by special machinery. Come and see us and let us give you information that will save money on your property.

OVER CROWDING IN POST OFFICE

The Post is in receipt of the following communication, from one of Lindsay's leading citizens. It contains an excellent suggestion which is deserving of the serious consideration of the Post Office authorities.

The Editor of The Post.

Dear Sir:—

Will you permit a suggestion looking towards relief from overcrowding in our local Post Office, and the additional comfort and convenience of the citizens?

In many towns the office is open to box-holders from 6.30 a.m. to 9.30. p. m. or 10 p.m. This entails no extra work upon the employees, except, possibly the caretaker, and has the following advantages:—

1—Boxholders leaving town by 7.10 train East, 7.40 C.P.R., or 8 Flyer for Toronto, could get the latest mail before leaving town and workmen could get their mail on the way to the day's duties.

2—Citizens of the town who have to attend meetings in the evening usually lasting to 9.30 could still procure the evening mail before ten o'clock.

3—The many advantages accruing to box-holders would be so evident that a great many more would secure a box and the crowd at the wicket would be greatly lessened.

4—The knowledge that the mail could be had earlier in the evening and later at night would do more to lessen the disgusting crush which renders present conditions so objectionable than any change the Post Office can make in the available space of the present building.

Trusting that a trial will be given the idea, which was worked so well in the neighbouring towns.

I am,

Yours Truly
A BOX HOLDER.

YOUNG HOODLUMS ON WILLIAM-ST.

Last evening, a number of young hoodlums, ranging from 14 to 16 years of age made themselves most obnoxious to the proprietor and the staff of the Chinese Laundry on William-st. They pelted the staff on the premises, and threw fire crackers in the door, and among the laundered pieces on the shelves. Not being satisfied with thus awaking the Celestials, they next proceeded to plaster the front with mud.

It is a great pity that the young hoodlums were not arrested, and an example made of them. The Chinese tenants are a peaceable law abiding element of our population, and are deserving of better treatment. A fire might easily have been started in the parcels on the shelves through the recklessness of the young vandals.

Those who need trusses can never exercise too much care in finding the truss that is best adapted to their case or in seeing to it that it is properly fitted.

We make each form of scientific certainty by carrying the most improved trusses of all styles and by ever knowledge as to the modes of fitting them.

We believe we can demonstrate the superiority of our ware to any truss wearer and we are anxious to secure their patronage; it means security and satisfaction and it costs nothing extra.

Ladies Injured Near Oakwood

Linden Valley, May22nd.—On Saturday evening, Stella and Tillie Hancock and their two cousins from Woodville, while leaving Oakwood for home, were dumped out of their rig caused by a dead pile being on the side of the road, and it being a very dark night their horse went over it dumping them all out of the rig. The girls managed to hang on to their horse, and called for help and several were there in a few seconds with a lantern. They got the rig fixed up in a few seconds and the girls were on their way for home again. By falling out of the rig Stella strained her back badly but the others just had a few bruises. It is the wish of this vicinity, that the Oakwood folks would hang a lantern upon those sand piles so as to avoid any more accidents.

DISTRICT MEETING CLOSED ITS LABORS

The afternoon session of the Lindsay District of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference was opened at 1.30 p.m., on Wednesday. After the schedules had been gone over Mr. Howard, of Cambray, was elected secretary, and Mr. H. Burns, statistical secretary. Epworth League and Sunday schools were discussed from all sides. Rev. H. W. Foley Sunday school secretary reported that arrangements had been completed whereby the Epworth Leagues and Sunday schools were going to support a missionary, Rev E. Hibbard B.A., in China.

There was a very substantial increase in the membership in the Lindsay district and the missionary givings also showed a most gratifying increase.

A motion was passed conveying the thanks of the district meeting to the Methodists of this section to Mr. J. C. Eaton, of Toronto for the generous gift of a parsonage at Omemee, which is the finest and most complete on the district.

A district missionary committee was appointed composed of the pastors of the Queen and Cambridge St. Methodist churches, and Messrs. Siggitt, of Valentia, and McFarlane of Preston Falls.

The matter of church union came up for consideration. The general tone denoting that those present were in favor of federation rather than church union, as more feasible at present, and the matter was laid on the table.

The Rev. Mr. White, of Minden was appointed Superintendent of Missions for the Lindsay District.

NEW OPERA HOUSE OF UNIQUE PLAN

The Great Theatre Mr. Hammerstein is Erecting at the Grand End of Kingsway, London

Mr. Hammerstein, of New York, hopes to give the first performance at his new opera house, at the west end of Kingsway on November 1, and from the progress already made by the builders it is safe to assume that this hope will be realized. The house is planned in the simplest way, the exits being as obvious and as easily accessible as possible. The whole house could be cleared within three minutes. The auditorium will be constructed entirely of fire-resisting materials, the roof asphalt on concrete, and the circles constructed of concrete and steel. The proscenium opening will be provided with a safety curtain constructed of steel framing and asbestos, which, in case of fire, will be lowered and automatically flooded with water, while on the stage itself a lantern will be arranged which will open automatically, thus passing a draught to carry away the heat and smoke in case of fire from the stage portion of the house. The stage will be specially constructed by Mr. Hammerstein to obtain the spectacular effects which it is his intention to offer London audiences on a more elaborately large scale. The auditorium will be unusually comfortable, with even a slight line perfect, no columns to obstruct the view. The ground floor, below street level, will be entirely devoted to stalls and boxes, and above the stalls, suspended from the circle, will be a complete circular tier of boxes, each with its own retiring room. Six further tiers of boxes arranged each side of the auditorium, making a total of 43 boxes, including a private box for the King. Above the box tier will be the circle, and lower and upper galleries, the total capacity of these being about 2,700.

There will be no large promenades, the back of the circle and the gallery being screened off with the utmost care and prevent the audience being disturbed by promenaders.

Major Wister Tells of the Surrender of Poundmaker to General Middleton

Writing about "The Surrender of Poundmaker," Major C. F. Winter, in The Canadian Magazine for March, says: But though they made a brave show in coming in, they were much disconcerted at the reception accorded them, for General Middleton at once demanded their rifles, in proof of submission and surrender before he would accord them a hearing. In a few words the General told them he demanded unconditional surrender. He had disarmed Riel and taken him prisoner, and he had men and guns enough to crush both "Poundmaker" and "Big Bear," with all their people, if they still wanted fight. If they surrendered he would promise them nothing, but would represent their condition and views to the Government. He was a soldier sent there to put down the rebellion and he was going to do it, whether they surrendered or not, and if it took all summer. The men who murdered the Government Indian Agents and Farm Instructors at the beginning of the outbreak must be given up at once before any safe conduct would be ensured the remainder. There was a little hesitation among the younger braves for a few moments, sharp glances were directed right and left, and wistful eyes cast backward to the slopes on the opposite side of the Battle River, as though mentally gauging the ability to get away in the teeth of a run for it. The comparative large number of volunteers, however, must have shown them what small prospect there was for successful opposition, and reluctantly those responsible may be estimated from the fact that some seven or eight had their rifles as they gave them up, a remarkable show of feeling for an Indian. Of the Plains, they handed over their arms to the detail sent to receive them. Mostly all of these rifles were "Winchesters" of a cheaper model, handier and much superior for the kind of fighting they have been engaged than the single loading Snider-Enfield with which our Canadian troops were armed. Nearly all were decorated with antelope or brass-headed tacks upon stock, and bore indications of some one or more shot by which the owner believed he had placed an enemy hors de combat. Others indicated large game that had fallen to the aim of the owner.

Just One Cure For Anaemia

It is Through the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

There is just one cure for anaemia, more rich, red blood. Anaemia is simply a bloodless run down condition. Then the body becomes weak from over work' worry or illness as examination of the blood will show it to be weak and watery. The common systems are paleness of lips gum and cheeks shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart after the slightest exertion, dull eyes and a loss of appetite. Anaemia itself is a dangerous trouble and may pass into consumption. It can only be cured by making the blood rich and red therefore the only way to cure the anaemia is to supply nourishment to every part of the system.

It is a proved fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands upon thousands of cases of anaemia.

They are really intended to make new rich red blood and have been proved in the most scientific manner with the finest ingredients for the blood, medical science. These Pills do not cure all. They are intended to cure only those diseases that have their origin in the watery blood and starved weakened nerves and the cures of their success in doing this is their remarkable and growing popularity in every part of the world.

Mrs. R. Colton Golden B.C. writes —As a matter of duty I wish to say a word in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for what they have done for my daughters one 16 and the other 18 years of age. Both were pale and blood less and suffered from many symptoms of anaemia. They would be tired easily, suffered from frequent headaches, were easily discouraged and often fretful. I saw in our home paper the story of a young girl who had similarly suffered and was cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought three boxes of Pink Pills and my daughters started to take them. Before they were done they began to feel better and I put a half dozen boxes in the hands of the time they were used. They were enjoying the best of health, with rosy cheeks and bloom in the same girls at all. I also pave the Pills to my little boy, who had rheumatism and they pulls Mr. Hammerstein.

FIFTY AEROPLANES

The French Government Will Train One Hundred Airmen and Establish Flying Schools

With regard to Mr. Haldane's recent statement that the aeroplane for army purposes is still in the experimental stage, it is worthy of note that the French government intends to arm aeroplane in its present form as soon as possible, and to organize a regiment of some fifty machines. The training of about 100 airmen, and the establishment of flying schools at Lepora at Versailles, Rhejms, Chalons-sur-Marne, and Vincennes. On November 30 last, the French Army possessed thirty-two aeroplanes of the Bleriot, Henri Farman, Maurice Farman, Blanchard, Wright, Antoinette and Sommer types. Since then numerous purchases have been made, including six aeroplanes of the Henri Farman and Maurice Farman patterns, for a dozen Nieuport racing monoplanes, some Hanriot machines, and one Koechlin. Although no official figures are available of France's actual strength in the air it is certain that there are not fewer than 100 Army airmen, either accomplished pilots or in training, while there are now half a dozen aeroplanes learning to fly at the Government's expense. The French Government is reported to continue the experiments along these lines, and there is every reason to believe that the use of the aeroplane in its present form in modern warfare will doubtless be thoroughly aroused if they attend the next French grand army manoeuvres. Meanwhile, the French Government has contructor's price of 10,000 this year, and has received offers from other European armies, with the exception of the Italian, are reached by French aeroplane constructors in Paris.

WORSMEN'S GRUESOME FIND

Human Bones Believed to be Indian's, Found in Chimney

A gruesome find was made by workmen engaged in making renovations at the old Albion Hotel, Kingston. An old chimney the workmen found a quantity of what are believed to be human bones.

In connection with the finding of the bones a strange story is told. Old residents say that many years ago the building now used as the Albion Hotel was the military headquarters, and there was an Indian who had some trouble with the soldiers, suddenly disappeared and was never heard from again. It is said that the Indian had some to believe that the Indian met with foul play and that these are his bones.

CANADA MUST BE READY

English General Sounds Tocsin and Welcomes Canadian Navy

In an address to the Empire Club of Toronto, Major-General Sir Ian Hamilton, of Ealing, London, England, said it was absolutely necessary for Canada to have command of the Great Lakes.

Canada was destined to be a great naval power, he said, and he was glad that a nucleus of a Canadian navy had been laid. He spoke particularly of the Rush-Bagot Treaty, and said that if the United States violated any of the terms of the treaty, Canada was entitled to take the same action. So far as Canada was concerned, it could not sustain its territorial supremacy so long as the power to do so was given the opportunity of placing vessels on the Great Lakes. By nature, Canada seemed destined to be a naval power, but this it could only become by remaining with Great Britain and Australia, united empire. Some people talked of Canada becoming an independent nation, but such she was today. Canada was a member of the Empire she would soon lose the individuality she enjoyed when she became an important part of some other country. It also would have to become the formation of a Canadian navy, and the Canadian navy arrive off Canada's shores within a week of the declaration of war, it would be impossible for them to steam up the Great Lakes and protect Canada. It therefore was necessary that Canada should have a navy of her own to assist in the preservation of the Unity of the Empire.

The great lessons learned from the war of 1812 were the necessity of supremacy on the Great Lakes and the necessity for large cities to look to the defence of their borders. In order to be prepared for an active defence, General Hamilton favored a system of compulsory military training in Canada. Since 1812 many important changes had been made, and Canada was in a better position to-day to withstand the attacks of foreign armies, provided that they could be mobilized quickly. But it must be remembered that in 1812 every man was employed to have a military training. Everyone between the ages of 16 and 60 was required to have his arms and be qualified for service. He had found that the most cordial relations between Canada and the United States existed, and he hoped but Canada should be ready at all times to defend her shores.

The housewives of Berlin are in an unfortunate plight, and their deplorable state is due to a German law recently passed, which has created a scarcity of domestics, directly aimed at Germany's industrial prosperity, which has been a great demand for cheap labor in all branches of commerce and manufacturing.

JUMPERS AT FALL FAIRS

Mr. J. Lockie Wilren Has a New Scheme to Increase the Attendance

Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, superintendent of agricultural societies, intends to stimulate the interest in Fall fairs by having the farmers of the country enter their horses in jumping competitions, for which handsome prizes will be given. At present the only extra attraction at Fall fairs are the trotting and pacing. Mr. Wilson says that if jumping competitions were added they would soon enter their horses and some good sport would follow. It also would lead to the extensive breeding of high-class jumpers.

Pistol, River And Suspenders

Bellevile, Ont., May 11—The notice of Mr. Justice Cartwright in Carr-Carr cursed considerable excitement in this city yesterday afternoon. At the police station, latter, Carr made a determined effort to hang himself in the cell, using his suspenders which broke and the sound of his fall attracted the attention of the officer in charge at the station. The Style Subject

The value of good style in the clothes you select cannot be overestimated. To give clothes that certain touch of correctness which you are desirous of seeing in your garments, is distinctly a question of ability on the part of the maker of the clothes. The quality is largely a matter of honesty. We believe you will get what you pay for, in the matter of fabrics and linings, if you buy clothes of a reliable make; but if you want style combined with quality, it is a question of ability, not honesty. The makers of "20th Century" and "Progress Brand" garments have the ability, hence the style you always find in our clothing. Let us show you the splendid values we are offering at prices

HONOR THE HEROES

Colonel Merritt Would Have Monuments Commemorating 1812

Colonel W. Hamilton Merritt, for years commanding officer of the Governor-General's Body Guards in Toronto, is impressed with the example the United States capital holds out to Canadian cities in the manner of honoring national heroes. The city is decorated with beautiful works of sculpture at almost every turn, and many of these commemorate men distinguished in the military and naval history of the country. Colonel Merritt has summarized these as follows: Revolutionary War heroes, 4; War of 1812-15, 2; Mexican War, 1; Civil War, 13. "Why," he asks, "cannot Canada honor our heroes of 1812 by the erection of monuments to celebrate the centennial? And why are we afraid to call them victories? The United States is not so timidly afraid of others' feelings. Besides, it is due to our own self respect."

FIVE CENTENARIANS

A Wonderful Old Lady Who Had 170 Living Descendants—Remarkable Longevity

At Leicester Workhouse infirmary the death has occurred of Mrs. Elizabeth Jarrom, in her 101st year. Was the old lady celebrated her 100th birthday on March 13th last, there were great rejoicings in the workhouse—a brass band came and a big birthday cake, which Mrs. Jarrom took great interest in cutting. She had a family of eleven children, of whom six survive, the eldest being a son of 72 years and the youngest 52. Her descendants include 48 grandchildren, 108 great-grandchildren, and eight great-great-grandchildren, making a total of 170. Mrs. Jarrom enjoyed a clay pipe regularly, and was the proud possessor of a handsome silver tobacco-box, presented to her by the Ellis on the occasion of her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Kate Sykes Waters, who lived at Hillsdale, Buckinghamshire, died at the age of 103 and her wife aged 80, is dead and buried. Her age she claimed to be 102 and thread a needle without the aid of glasses.

Mrs. Gunsestine Edwards, Queens-borough, passed away in her 101st year. She was the mother of eleven children, of whom only a daughter, aged 72, survives. Of her other persons survivors, Except for being rather hard of hearing, Edwards retains the full possession of her faculties.

Few women live to the approach of old age if it cause to all as gently and kindly to the house, Mrs. Ann Jones of Burghfeld, Hampshire, whose number of years is variously stated by her to be 103 and 105 in the various dates, and in the evening, when tired of reading—she wears no spectacles—she plays bagpipe or some other game till ten o'clock, when she goes to bed.

Mrs. Ann Speed, who celebrated her 101st birthday at the village of Hellington, near Lincoln, received letters of congratulation from all quarters of the globe. Almost every Friday morning Mrs. Speed carries her basket of eggs to market at Lincoln. She attends to her poultry her 11, and still bakes her own bread.

WINNIPEG C.N.R. STATION

The Fine Structure Will Be Opened In July

The new station at Winnipeg which has been constructed by the Canadian Northern Railway at a cost of $1,000,000 for joint terminal occupation with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and other railways desiring these facilities is almost completed. The building is on the site of old Port Garry and is 400 feet long and 100 feet wide. The new structure has been a year and a half under construction, and the cost has greatly exceeded the estimate. The main building is 250 to 140 feet in area, and it is surmounted by a dome 100 feet in its greatest diameter, and 150 feet above the street level. In connection with it are eight elevated tracks with platforms of cement, each 1,050 feet long, and capable of accommodating two trains of eleven coaches each. The approaches are to be covered by a glass roof, so that no person can cross the tracks

CANADIAN TREE VALUES

Innumerable Wood Lots that Could be Made a Source of Mixed Trunk Supply

Within ten years the price of Canadian forest productions have in some cases doubled, and in some cases quadrupled, and for those uses to which cement cannot be adapted and timber is necessary, the values are likely to go even higher. In ten years pine has trebled in price, elm quadrupled, and cedar more than doubled. Such timbers as walnut and hickory are becoming almost unknown.

The Ontario Legislature has given some considerable attention to the forestry problem, and a very interesting bill was passed at its recent session. It states that: The municipal council of a county may pass by-laws:—

(a) For acquiring by purchase, lease or otherwise such lands designated in the by-laws as the council may deem suitable for reforestation purposes.

(b) For planting land so acquired and for preving and protecting the timber thereon;

(c) For the management of such lands and the sale or other disposal of the timber grown thereon.

(d) For the issuing of debentures from time to time for the purpose of providing for the purchase of such lands to an amount not exceeding $25,000 in any one year.

No by-law shall be finally passed under this Act until the same shall have been approved in writing by the Minister of Agriculture.

There are thousands of stony or sandy hillsides and thousands of rocky knolls now valueless that could be turned to profitable account by the growing of timber. There are innumerable waste lots that could be made a source of mixed timber supply. There are marshy locations in which cedar, elm and spruce could be well and profitably grown, and all such would these reserves form a source of future timber supply, but they would be a great aid in the regulation of our water supply systems.—Canadian Engineer.

AN ALPINE DRAMA

Little Girl Lost her Life in Trying to Save a Chamois

A pathetic little Alpine drama is reported from the village of Fertes, in the Canton of Grisons, where a nine-year-old girl, named Greuter, lost her life to save that of her little chamois. At Christmas the Greuter family received a present of a baby chamois, and the animal was brought up and cared for by their only daughter. Two days ago the chamois escaped, and was followed by the young girl across the valley.

As the girl did not return, her parents and some friends organized a search. They first found the dead body of the chamois at the bottom of a precipice, and half-way down, the mangled body of the girl. She had evidently seen her pet fall over the precipice and tried to climb down after it.

BIG RADIUM DEAL

Practically the Whole Output of the Trenwith Mines in Cornwall, England

One of the biggest deals on record in radium has just been carried out between the British Radium Corporation and a number of leading German societies. The arrangement provides for practically the whole output of the Trenwith Mines in Cornwall, the annual cost being put at $500,000 annually. Germany will thus establish practically a corner in British radium, and the success of several huge schemes of putting radium within popular reach the world over depended upon an assured unlimited supply. Among the plans proposed by the German societies is one providing for the introduction of radium into medicine cabinets and compounds, which are guaranteed to cure maladies like rheumatism, gout, sciatica, diabetes, heart weakness, etc. Then a "radium eyeholder" is also promised. This is a machine which it placed in the centre of any room would diffuse radium rays which have the same effect on the clothed occupants of the room as if they had taken a journey to the radium mines of Joachimsthal in Bohemia. The mud which is the refuse of the pitchblende after radium has been extracted, is also to be treated and sold for rheumatism, gout, diabetes, salts, another invention, have universal application, for example, a piece the size of a pin's head placed on a piece of light switches, zephyrs, etc, will instantaneously dissolve their decations, while the same principle is also to be applied to style companies, thus dispensing with artificial light. When these several plans have matured, an extensive campaign is to be prosecuted with the United States for the sale of radium cosmetics. The result of these several plans may mean the resumption of radium, which will eventually be as easily obtainable as pills.

FARM HELP SCARCE

This Will Be a Great Year for Unskilled Labor

There are farmers in Toronto from as far distant as two hundred miles trying to get hands from among the immigrants who are daily reaching the city. One of these, who has been in the city over a week, said: "It is almost impossible to get a farm hand. The Dominion officials are simply besieged with applications from farmers, so many as seventy-five calling upon them daily. An Ontario farmer of thirty years' standing, when asked about the labor supply said: "There doesn't seem to be a farm hand in Ontario. Thirty years ago, when we had our wolf and find our own men we had less difficulty than today, when the Government sends us help made in one night to sent from us without cost to us." Mr. H. Burgoyne, who supplies large numbers of men to the railroad construction companies, said: "I have already instructions to get seven hundred men for construction work in Ontario alone for the C.P.R. now like to Peterboro' and the C.N.R. through Trenton to Ottawa. It will be a record year for unskilled labor, and Ontario will need a lot more help before the year is out."

Bee bureaus are busy as bee-hives, fresh settlers pouring in all day, waiting for a few hours, then being engaged, and departing for their various jobs.

STRINGENT AUTO LAW

Manitoba's New Code Regulating the Running of Motor Cars

The amendments proposed in the automobile law of Manitoba are fairly drastic. In place of the present license fee of $5 the future license will be based upon horse-power, the $5 remaining for all vehicles of twenty-five horse-power or less; between 25 and 35 h.p. the fee is raised at $10; from 35 to 50 h.p. $15; and 50 h.p. and above $25. To secure a chauffeur's license the applicant must be twenty-one years of age and satisfactorily prove that he has passed a satisfactory examination. In case of accident full responsibility is cast upon the owner although he may not be the driver. Stringent provisions deal with joy riders and tampering with autos without the consent of owner. No engine is to be left in motion while standing on the highway. Chains and mufflers are only to be used on tires when there is snow or the pavements are slippery. Drivers must slow down when meeting street cars loaded with passengers, and must also slow down to six miles per hour at cross roads in the country.

THE WRONG SORT

Rurringl rorringl rorringl went one of the bells in the back kitchen. Jumping up, the waiter noted that the alarm came from the room occupied by Farmer Gibbs, who had come to town to see the sights.

"Is it a fire or murder?" he cried, hurrying into the farmer's room.

"Neither," replied the sufferer in ot; this little 'un out o' the wall!"

WOLVES IN FRANCE

There are still wolves in France. A bonus of $19 per head is paid by the State for an adult wolf, and $2.50 for those weighing less than 12 lbs. Where it can be proved that the wolf has killed a human being the slayer receives a special bonus of $20. Last year the number of wolves killed was sixty-eight.

OUR POLICE DEPARTMENT

The Police and Light Committee of the council should not delay in putting the police force on a proper basis. The force should be manned with men capable of performing their duties with good judgment, firmness and untrammelled by any undesirable influence that would tend to interfere with their usefulness. The Post is informed that last evening a leading Kent st. merchant in town had a narrow escape from being conveyed to the lock up by the night constable in his over enthusiasm and lack of good judgment. The gentleman in that position is no doubt doing what he conscientiously believes to be his duty, and this town cannot afford to have an inexperienced man doubt the good work, to say nothing of the risks being taken in not having proper police protection.

The council has delayed this important matter too long and the citizens are naturally anxious to know the reason of the delay.

PLEASED WITH REINDEER

Dr. Grenfell is Well Satisfied with Experiments

Reports from Dr. Grenfell show that the introduction of the reindeer into Labrador has proved highly successful, says Rod and Gun. The milk is richer than cows' or goats' milk and makes excellent cream, cheese, etc. The flesh is said to be much finer than ordinary deer, the wool rich for makes warm garments and the dressed leather is valuable. The original herd of 300 is said to have increased to over 1800. They are faster than the deer, can draw heavier loads and live off the country where deer would starve. Dr. Grenfell has asked the Canadian Government to adopt whole breeding of reindeer, and transfer the herd from North West Mounted Police and post sledges from dogs to reindeer equipment.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, May 25.—There was no improvement in the demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and the local trade was quiet. Prices were weaker and the tone of the market generally. Oats were weaker, and the tone of the market was easier, because of the slow demand and the easier markets in the west. A fair volume of business continues to be done in spring wheat flour for local and country account, and the undertone to the market is firmer. There was some inquiry for winter wheat flour, and a few sales of Ontario patents were just $5 per sack lower than millers were disposed to accept.

Union Stock Yards.

MONTREAL, May 22.—At the Montreal Stock Yards there were offered for sale to-day 1500 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 30 were 1250 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 800 hogs and 100 calves. There was a slight rise on the market this morning consisting of 40 of the 1500 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 800 and 100 calves.

The rise in the market was the stronger on the lambs, the market for which had prices since this day week show an advance of 1c. Lambs sold for as high as an extreme head which has prevailed during the past week. The receipts of cattle and sheep were fairly heavy, but the demand was sufficient to keep the market from any decline in prices of lambs, which makes a net drop of 1c per pound in the past two weeks, which means that exporters will soon be obliged to pay higher prices for lambs, owing to the fact that the port, instead of making some, as it should, a net gain, has made a net loss of 1c per pound, or 2c per head, to the last pound, but the last weather and the very cold weather, which was felt in the market.

The buying of buyers on the local market during the week was rather light, but owing to the very warm weather and the light receipts of cattle, the demand for cattle was only fair, and the trade in cattle was slow, and prices for the best choice steers sold at 6c; good at 5c to 5½c; fair at 4½c to 5c; and common at 3½c to 4½c per lb. for 900 pounds and upwards, and 4c for a few extra heavy, choice lever grades sold down as low as 3c to 3½c. Cows of good quality sold at 4½c to 5c, and inferior ones at 3½c to 4c per lb. for 900 lbs.

Owing to the weather the demand for the keener demand from butchers for sheep and lambs, and the demand was fair, but not market, and prices, as compared with the week previous, were lower, and sheep sold at 5c per pound. The trade was quiet, and there was a fair demand for lambs at 6½c to 6½c per lb. per 90 pounds, weighed off cars.

The trade in small meats was quiet, and the offerings were limited. The demand was fair, and the trade was quiet, prices ruling steady. Spring chickens sold at 40c to 45c each. Old sheep sold at 4c to 5c, and spring lambs at 5c to 8c each. Calves brought from 3c to 8 each, as to size and quality.

Obituary

MRS. THOMAS HARDY.

Bowmanville Statesman—On May 4, Mrs. Thomas Hardy passed from this life to her heavenly home, at the age of 77 years. Her maiden name was Mary Blackburn and she was born on the town-line between Clarke and Darlington near Providence on May 23rd, 1834. She was twice married, first to David Davidson, who died south of Enfield. To them were born two sons and four daughters, two of whom died when children, one daughter, Mrs. James Rezson, (Minnie), died thirteen years ago. Of this family there remains Mrs. Geo. Allin of Toronto, Mrs. H. Walker, of Lindsay and John Davidson, Maxford. Her second husband was Thomas Hardy, who predeceased her twenty-one years. To them were three sons and two daughters, who remain to mourn the loss of a loving and affectionate mother—Thomas and Alfred at Whitby, Mrs. Joe Knight, Taunton, Miss Mattie at home, Arthur M., of this Town, and one stepson James Hardy, near Lindsay. Her sister, Mrs. W. B. Allin, of this town, died six days previous to her sister. Since the death of her husband Mrs. Hardy has lived with her children. While on a visit to her daughter near Taunton, she took congestion of the lungs and on her death bed told her children of the beautiful place she had seen, of Jesus and her loved ones waiting her coming. She was a firm Christian and a life long member of the Methodist church. The funeral took place Tuesday, service being conducted by a former pastor, Rev. E. E. Howard, Cambourne, assisted by Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, at the house and Rev. J. Garbutt at the grave. The pall bearers were Messrs. Edwin Reynolds, Thomas Stainton, S. Northcott, R. Taylor, Thomas Allin, and John Lake. Among the relatives from a distance were Mrs. H. Walker and Mr. James Hardy, of Lindsay, Mr. Fred Hardy and Mrs. R. Dobson, Oakwood; Miss Bessie Hardy Cavanagh.

Not much she suffered Heaven knows
But now she's free from all her woes
She's passed through Jordan's swelling tide,
Fear, Death and Sin shall ne'er
And Lindsay's safe with Christ above.

Farewell, dear loved one, but not for ever,
We shall meet you on the shore,
Where there is no pain and sorrow,
And sad partings are no more.

MR. E. A. EDWARDS CANED LAST EVENING BY STAFF OF B. J. GOUGH'S STORE

From Thursday's Post.

Last evening the staff of Mr. B. J. Gough's clothing store were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gough at their residence, Melbourne st. After ten advantage was taken of the presence of Mr. E. A. Edwards, late manager of the store, to bid both he and his amiable wife farewell on the eve of their departure for Belleville. Mr. Edwards was the recipient of the following address, read by Miss M. Cain, as well as a handsome gold headed cane, suitably engraved, a presentation being made by Mr Gough. The address was as follows:

"Dear Mr. Edwards:

We, the members of Mr. B. J. Gough's staff, have assembled here tonight to bid you farewell before your departure for the city of Belleville.

"Since our associations with you we have learned to admire and respect you for the manifold good qualities which you possess as well as the courtesy and kindness which you at all times displayed, and to prize your relations with us, but with all they with whom, in a business capacity, you came in contact.

"It is, we feel, no small tribute to yourself when it is realized that your genuine good nature and affability were most pronounced at a time when pressure of business, as a rule, puts a man's forbearance and patience to its true test.

"It is said that the good that men do lives after them. We trust that the memory of our pleasant and happy associations with you will be ever green, and we will look back upon our relations with you with unfeigned pleasure. We regret your departure, and congratulate the firm with whom you will be connected on securing one who is endowed with rare business qualifications. In asking you to accept this token, we couple with it the prayer that both yourself and amiable wife will have a friend of Goodwill to follow you."

C. P. R. GRAIN LINE REACHES ORILLIA

Orillia Packet: As predicted in last week's issue, the C.P.R. rails reached Orillia on Friday afternoon last. The machine stopped operations just at the limits of the town, near Mr. A. R. D. Paine's, on Thursday evening. On Friday afternoon the last rail layers was transferred as far as Conciliating Brack Park, and on Saturday the steel was laid along the esplanade. The advent of the railway was signalized on Saturday afternoon by the ringing of the town bell at 4.30 and by the blowing of the factory whistles, whose strings were fired down for fifteen minutes, at the request of the Mayor. The commotion thus created attracted the attention of the whole town, and people flocked to the lake front in hundreds to see the machine at work. It is a pretty sight. The rate at which the rails are laid is astounding. The ties and rails are on flat cars. The rails are fed along one side of the train, and the ties along the other. There are separate gangs for each and men for every operation. A rail is given every two or three minutes, and the train moves on along it. The spiking gang follows immediately after the train. Perfect organization thus makes possible the laying of a mile or more of completed track in a day. Some of the old residents were heard comparing this method of laying rails with that in vogue when the Northern and Midland lines were laid down in forty years ago. The machine is now as far as the cutting at the Hermitage, and will probably be in the narrows by the end of the week. The ballast gang is nearing Conciliating Brack Park.

CATTLE RANCH IN SOMERVILLE

Bobcaygeon Independent—Mr. Brodie was in town on Wednesday on his way home from his Somerville ranch where he has 1,000 head of cattle. Although he has a considerable number of thorough cattle on his ranch, The Independent thinks the cattle trade is variable. Sometimes there is money to be made in buying sheep and cattle and then again they are imported from the States to better advantage. Last fall Mr. Brodie went to Winnipeg and bought six carloads of stock cattle for feeding through the winter and at present cattle can be taken to Winnipeg and sold to advantage. It requires a man of first class ability to be successful as a cattle raiser on a large scale, and Mr. Brodie is one of the leading men in the district in this particular line.

COMMONS DISCUSSED GRANTHAM DIVORCE

Ottawa, May 15.—The unusual spectacle of a divorce bill being discussed on the floor of Parliament was witnessed, when the Bill for the relief of Gertrude Mary Grantham came before the committee of the whole for consideration. The Bill was favorably reported by the Senate, but the commons private bill committee hesitated on the ground that the evidence was entirely of a hearsay character.

The petitioner is a daughter of Sir William Mackenzie, Toronto, and Sir Alan Aylesworth said he was not satisfied that the private bills committee should have hesitated in reporting the Bill. The evidence was strictly hearsay and consisted of the testimony of the wife, the detectives, doctor and Sir William Mackenzie to the effect that Grantham had confessed to misconduct. The minister of justice pointed out that while there was no collusion between the wife and husband suspected, it was possible that the defendant might have boasted of his affairs with other women in order that the wife could sue for divorce.

Mr. Barker, of Hamilton, took an entirely different view, as did Mr. E. M. Macdonald, of Pictou, who urged that the house should be careful not in acting aside the judgment of the email divorce committee, and the senate itself, which has passed this bill. Mr. Lancaster supported Mr. Aylesworth on the ground that to grant divorce on such evidence would be a bad example to young married couples. He also regretted that divorces were getting to be such a favorite fashion.

Mr. Pedet argued that the evidence in the case was such as was always accepted and the bill passed on yeas and nays.

CHEMICAL WORKS CLOSED DOWN

The Company met the men on Saturday, but for what reason the Lime it will be closed is not certain, rather it is known whether the shut down is due to the request for higher wages or not.

TEN NEW MODEL SCHOOLS PROPOSED

It was announced yesterday afternoon by the education department, that to meet the difficulty caused by the scarcity of teachers, ten additional model schools would be opened. Their location will be announced in a few days.

It is probatically decided that the department is in any respect responsible for the scarcity of school teachers, which is attributed to the contributions and increasing demands from the west.

COTTAGE BURNED AT SANDY POINT

Mr. Claxton's cottage at Sandy Point was destroyed by fire about midday on Wednesday the fire is supposed, having run through the dead timber at back of point being the cause. It was furnished ready for occupation. The cottage was erected by Mr. Claxton 11 years ago, and was the first summer cottage built on what were then called the Black Lakes. The stores and boat house were not destroyed. It is an interesting land mark removed and has associations with many memories of pleasant summers.

BEWARE OF THE TENT CATERPILLAR

During the winter we often find on the small twigs of the apple an incrusted ball of very dark brown, wax-like material. If we examine this carefully we find it to consist of a large number of eggs soldered together, from which the caterpillars hatch, sometimes before the leaves have started, which at once spin a little web or tent in the nearest fork. Here they live in company, moving out from time to time to feed on the surrounding leaves, and increasing the size of their habitation as they grow. The "tents" form prominent and unsightly objects in neglected orchards, and are sometimes unpleasantly conspicuous in others that purport to be well kept. When full grown the caterpillars abandon the nest, crawl to some convenient shelter in the vicinity, and spin a yellow cocoon, from which, become covered with a fine yellow powder.

The moths are of a reddish or colour, more or less brown tinged, and the fore wings have two oblique, pale stripes. The males are considerably smaller than the females, and are either darker in color, tending to have the wing between the lines paler, while in the females we have, on the whole, an opposite tendency.

In the winter the egg masses are usually seen after a little pruning, and they can generally be reached and cut down without trouble. Early in the spring the nests are prominent objects and may be destroyed with the entire colony. Where they are out of reach simply spraying the branches with water will destroy them in a few days or two. In orchards in which systematic spraying is done for other pests the insects rarely get a foothold.

FORMER RESIDENTS WERE REMEMBERED

The following from the London Advertiser will be read with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Morris were formerly highly esteemed residents of Lindsay, Mr. Morris being at one time Organist of the Cambridge street Methodist Church.

"After the regular practice Friday evening the choir of Dundas Centre Methodist Church, numbering about 55, assembled in the primary room, where the ladies had dainty tables spread.

"It took some time for the pastor of the Church, Dr. Manning, to reach Mr. J. Parnell Morris, organist and choirmaster, and his wife into the room, without arousing their suspicions, but this was finally accomplished and they soon found in the choir room and sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

"The surprise was complete and Mr. Skinner expressed to Mr. Morris the choir's appreciation of his kindness to them and of the eight years of pleasant associations that have marked Mr. Morris' term as choirmaster and organist, Miss Winnett then presented to Mr. and Mrs. Morris, on behalf of the choir, a beautiful parlor chair, Mr. Skinner expressing the hope that they might long be spared to enjoy the same. Mr. Morris, to whom this was all a genuine surprise, replied very feelingly.

"Longfellow was served, and a jolly time spent. The evening ended with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem."

WANTS A LOAN FROM THE TOWN

At last night's session of the council the Citizens' Committee appointed to deal with the re-organization of the Sylvester Manufacturing Co. came forward with the report that the town make a loan of $50,000 to the new concern, which was now being placed on a satisfactory basis.

Mr. J. D. Flavelle was the spokesman for the Committee, and in opening referred to the difficulties experienced by Mr. Sylvester in his efforts to successfully finance the industry.

The newly organized Company, it was pointed out, intended to confine itself to the manufacture of axes and cutlery, and to sell for cash or its equivalent, and carry out the entire business on a cash basis. This plan would only be deviated from in the case of an order from the John Deere Co., with its twelve million dollars capital, or other large concern. A problem that the new company had to face was how to sell for 20,000 machines, and more $180,000, which would be paid on June 1st. Mr. Flavelle emphasized the fact that capital must be obtained in order to make the project a success. The town of Lindsay had generally interested and he believed every citizen recognized the importance of the industry. The town, he thought, ought to assist by way of a loan and the citizens should also subscribe a certain amount of stock.

It was the full intention of those interested in the re-organization work that the town would not lose a cent of the money asked for. The industry, could be firmly believed, pay for itself, and in the $180,000 worth of property of the Company should be fortunate enough to get it, would be a handsome profit to pay off creditors.

Mr. Flavelle said the difficulties that he would much prefer keeping outside of the scheme of re-organization, and stated that he had assured the Committee that if those locally interested got in they would try and make every difficulty possible out of the undertaking.

Mr. Flavelle next referred to the tremendous expansion in the West, and the opportunities that this expansion afforded as a market for the output of the Sylvester Co. The company, he said, was further considering to get a credit of $100,000 to $150,000 from the bank and they also hoped to get a reasonable amount of stock subscribed.

The loan of $50,000 asked from the town would enable the Company to pay 100 The town could issue debentures at 4½ per cent covering a period of twenty years. Reference was made to the loan given the Toronto Co. at Orillia, of $50,000 as well as the loan from the town of Oshawa to the Motor Car Company, and stated that in no instance the municipalities referred to incurred no risk or suffered any loss. In Orillia, he said, there were great possibilities ahead for the Sylvester Mfg. Co., and he was confident that the town would make a lot of money. Each ratepayer, he argued, should be willing to give a little quota in order to help the concern.

A rumor had prevailed, said Mr. Flavelle, that the Citizens' Committee intended paying Mr. McCosh for his services in connection with the agreement. This was incorrect. The committee had refused to recognize his services as he had been hired by Mr. Sylvester.

The intention of the Company was to ask for a loan from the town and also be assured of an order similar to the John Deere order. Unless these two assurances were secured they would not do the proposition. Mr Flavelle energetically hoped the town would put up a certain amount of stock. The business at present was in the hands of Mr. McCosh with Mr. Boxall as trustee. The Committee hoped to get a couple of prominent local men outside men interested in the project. Mr. Flavelle said that personally he would not subscribe a dollar unless the town did not come to the assistance of the Company. It he went into it, it would be to make money, but he was anxious that the town interested in it in order to help the town.

In answer to a query, Mr. Flavelle said that Mr. Sylvester had been eliminated as a factor in the business. He would simply be a company, with a list of creditors and it would rest with the creditors to certain legitimate obligations.

Mr. Vroomen seconded the proposition, was a most important one for the town and he believed the citizens looked upon as such. The loan asked for interest in it, the proposition Flavelle and other gentlemen retained interest in it the proposition would be favorably considered by the citizens generally.

Mr. J. Boxall said the men at the foundry would be back to work in two weeks ago, but the committee kept them at work. Two carloads of goods were turned out, and the company organized Company, and the cash for same would be turned into the same organization.

Mr. Vroomen would withdraw His Worship Mayor Beal said that every effort should be made to retain the industry in Lindsay.

The Council and Committee will again confer on Monday evening and it is expected a by-law will be prepared for submission to the people at an early date in connection with the loan asked.

Only property owners are allowed to vote on this measure, and two-thirds of the majority vote must be obtained.

EDUCATE...DON'T FRIGHTEN

Dr. Bruce-Smith Reports on the Tuberculosis Question

In his annual report Dr. R. W. Bruce-Smith deals principally with the question of tuberculosis. Tuberculosis is recognised as the most frequent cause of death, he says, "but it has been markedly during recent years it has comprehended that it is not a fatal but curable disease. The results have been a gratifying decrease in the annual death rate in Ontario. The decrease evidently is due to the fact that people gradually are learning how to live. In people were educated, not frightened, in regard to disease, a more rational view would be taken and the expenditure for its prevention and cure, would be better understood. The result would be that the disease gradually, but certainly, would be lessened. Dr. Bruce-Smith, Dr. Smith reports, 53,932 patients were treated in the Sanatorium for the province. Grants to the 78 hospitals totalled $1,000,000 and the income from all sources was $1,453,871.

COMPLETING NEW MILL

Recent reports indicate that the Maple Leaf Milling Co., a recent consolidation which comprises both the Hedley Shaw Mill and the Maple Leaf Flour Mills, is made very steady progress. A report from Mr. Hedley Shaw, the managing director of the company, to the directors, stated that the contract made by the Shaw Flour mill and elevator which the company is erecting at Port Colborne, would result in the company being able to operate the entire plant at that point by June next.

"I COULD NOT LIVE"

WITHOUT "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Writes The Treasurer Of Caledonia Township

PERTH CANADA, Ont., Jan. 20th, 1910.

For thirty-five years (and I am some man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation.

No matter what remedy or physician I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure.

About two years ago, I read the testimonial of Hon. John Costigan regarding "Fruit-a-tives" and I decided to give this fruit medicine a trial. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" ever since. They are the first and only medicine that did me any good. Here is my list for "Fruit-a-tives". I am satisfied that I could live.

"JAMES PROUDFOOT.

The liver controls the bowels by giving the necessary tone to make the digestive tract. The only possible way to cure constipation is to make the liver active and healthy and just about sufficient bile to move the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver—ensures an abundance of bile—and causes the bowels to move regularly and naturally. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. at dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Are Noted in Building Permits of the Chief Canadian Cities—Vancouver Is Leading

Fewer issues than were noted in the previous month, and a substantial improvement as compared with the corresponding period of last year, is the summary of building operations carried out in twenty representative Canadian cities during the month of February. Permits issued in the twenty cities aggregated to $4,851,995, as against $3,000,127 in the same month of last year, which represents an average of gain of 54 per cent.

Ottawa dropped behind to the extent of 33 per cent, and both Winnipeg and London registered respective decreases of 21 and 17 per cent. On the other hand, Toronto has a total of $948,200, which is 19 per cent better than last year's showing, and Hamilton doubled her February figures, the total being $1,000,000 as against $75,450; and Windsor and Brantford succeeded in surpassing their February marks to the extent of 514 per cent, and 180 per cent. In Ontario generally the West a marked onward movement is in evidence on practically all sides. Vancouver not only surpassed the million mark, but again has the greatest total for the month registered in the Dominion. While less prominent, Prince Rupert is hydraulic in point. Victoria's total of $162,940, represents a gain of 139 per cent, showing excellent progress, and as much can be said regarding the total of Calgary ($333,660), and the amount of Winnipeg ($1,000,000), which is a reflect a most satisfactory and wholesome condition. Edmonton also, with a gain of 187 per cent, notes a substantial equipment. Regina has shed by 104 per cent, and Moose Jaw ranks on a gain of 27 per cent.

Without the figures of Montreal, the Eastern section would be rather slimly represented. Montreal, however, is issued permits amounting to $642,815, as compared with $274,000 in February of last year, and has the third largest total in the list.

FIRE IN HISTORIC CHURCH

The historic Gordon Church at St. Elmo, near Cornwall, Ont., made famous by Ralph Connor's "Man from Glengarry," recently had a narrow escape from destruction. As the people were assembling for worship smoke came curling out of the vestry in the church. Investigation showed that the fire had started at the door and had made some progress under the floor, which was covered by a thick carpet and scattered around were about 200 silver coins which were being used for a Dream. The fire has been reported to Mr. B. S. Spencer, the district crown.

TRUE CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP

The following paper was read at a recent meeting of the W.C.T.W.:

This is still the law of Christian citizenship. This good Christian must be a good citizen, and the more he is interested in the affairs of country into politics, the better politics will be. A man in this country, who is too good to take an interest in public affairs is too good to be a Christian.

The better a man is the more he is needed. We do not need any politics in our religion, but we need all the religion we can get in our politics. Behind every political question, there is a moral question. Whatever the political question before us, we may satisfy seek its solution in the moral law. That law is eternal. There is not one law for the pulpit and another for the pew; one for the school and another for the home; without other reason; one for Americans, and another for foreigners. Thou shalt do no murder; thou shalt not steal; thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself—these moral precepts are universal in their application. They apply to every man, community, to politics, to government, to the affairs of state and nation and individuals either. There are no exceptions, and there can be no exceptions. Whenever these laws have been violated, whether by individuals or by nations, the answer has received his wage.

"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." Righteousness will always gain the victory in the end. Its triumph may be delayed but cannot be defeated. So great is the power of truth that a few good men are sufficient to overcome a host of evil. If there had been a right-consciousness in the city, Sodom Gomorrah have been saved. Many a city has been saved by a small number, who had the courage to speak out and force the moral issue. One may think he can accomplish little, but the man who dares to attack wrong, even though single handed, has at least the satisfaction of not be estimated. One is a minority, but one with the right idea constitutes a majority in the world. Where a moral issue is plainly made the majority of men will be found on the right side of wrong. The good people are in the majority, but they are too often unorganized and silent, while the other side are generally as vociferous as to deceive any as to their number. The right cause may be in the minority, but lack righteousness so much as the majority of righteousness meaning men lack courage. Immorality is always a sign of weakness, and it is the weakness of immorality is often too positive. It is not enough to be against wrong, one must be actively against it, wrong if his influence is to count. The devil does not care how much one is against him, so long as he does not do anything to help him.

Christian citizenship does not mean to be good inactively; it means to be a brave, active, aggressive, and a consistent conflict between right and wrong in every sphere of life. The right must be always fought for. The bad must always be hunted against. The farmer sows his useful grain; it must be cared for and nurtured; while the thistle and the accident and cared for by chance, will flourish anywhere. A field neglected will not grow up to wheat or corn, but to thistles and weeds.

So in government, so in our lives—the good only comes by cultivation and unceasing effort, wickedness is the fruit of neglect. True Christian citizenship is aggressive. It is not afraid to show its colors. It boldly declares itself for and before its forces of evil melt away like spirits at the dawn of day.

OFFERED THEIR SKIN

Members of Congregation Responed to Plea of Pastor—Offering to Save Man's Life

A request for one hundred inches of human skin made by Rev. Dr. Herbert Symonds before a crowded Christ Church Cathedral rather startled the members of Montreal's most fashionable congregation.

Dr. Symonds explained that a very difficult operation was to be performed within a few days at the General Hospital. William Thomas two weeks ago fell on an electric shock in his home while attempting to fix a stove. Physicians were hurriedly summoned, but doctors now declare that only a new skin can save the man's life.

Dr. Symonds said one hundred square inches were required. He asks for ninety members of the congregation to volunteer each to part with a piece of their skin three inches long and one inch wide.

Within the next day fifteen members of the congregation had volunteered to contribute toward a new skin for Thomas.

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness in my back, and often after my meals my stomach would distress me and cause me much misery. Lydia E. Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has helped thousands to health and her advice is free.

FORMER WELL KNOWN ELDON BOY PROMINENT IN THE INSURANCE WORLD

The Post has on different occasions, referred to the success achieved by Victoria County's sons and daughters who have crossed the line into Uncle Sam's domains, and gained for themselves and distinction in their respective vocations. They have (like many other Canadians) invariably displayed that rare business acumen and tenacity, which has won the admiration and respect of their competitors, and which is the secret of the great success of many of Canada's sons in all parts of the world.

In the year 1893, Robert Campbell, the subject of this sketch, left the home of his parents in Eldon Township, Victoria County to make a name for himself. He came of good Scotch parentage, who gave him a thorough Christian training. He inherited all the best traits which are characteristic of the sons of the heather—grit, perseverance, and an honesty of purpose.

Robert came to Lindsay and first engaged as a circulation canvasser for a local newspaper. His success at this line of work was marvellous, and those who were identified with himself at the time, prophesied a successful future for the young man.

After receiving his initial baptism as a newspaper canvasser, he accepted the local agency for the Mutual Life Assurance Company, and of course he proved eminently successful in that position.

Robert, however, was ambitious, and after a short time, he felt, I can say, he went to Toronto, and accepted the important position of Superintendent of Central Ontario the Manufacturers' Life, which it merged with the Temperance and General Assurance Co. The story of success can be told of his career in Toronto. There were experienced men in the insurance world in Toronto, but Robert Campbell, who surpassed all the rare business qualifications of the son of Eldon township, and who foresaw a brilliant future in store for him.

After a stay of a couple of years in the Queen City, Mr. Campbell was called upon to fill a new post which brought into full play the rare business acumen, with which he was endowed. He crossed over to Detroit, and assumed the position of manager of the Manufacturers' Life for the city as well as the entire State of Michigan. The success was instantaneous. The business of the Company increased rapidly, and as a result, he has since added to his territory, the States of Ohio, and Pennsylvania. He at present occupies the position of Manager of the three States, and is also the representative of the Manufacturers' Life in the Western States of the Union.

Mr. Campbell's office is in the Washington Arcade, Woodward Ave., Detroit. The appointments are modern in every detail, and his private office in the same building is in keeping with the important position he occupies. Mr. Campbell's city office staff consists of a cashier and two lady stenographers, one of them by the way, being Miss Blanche Siddall, formerly of town. Mr. Campbell has an his cashier, an exceptionally clever and courteous young lady from Sarnia, who performs the important duties, devoting upon her with rare ability. The other employees of the staff are singularly adapted on their respective positions.

Mr. Campbell has a beautiful residence on Josephine avenue. His home life is happy and both Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are blessed with two winsome children. Mr. Campbell is one of the leading members of the Woodward Avenue Presbyterian church, which is nearing completion and which will be dedicated next June.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Campbell is an extremely busy man, he finds time to mingle with his friends in social intercourse. He is a whole-souled, generous hearted gentleman and is immensely popular with the people of Detroit. His hospitality is proverbial, and despite the fact that he has lived in an American city, his heart beats warm and true for the land of the maple, and more especially his native county, whose residents are always assured of a hearty greeting at his hands.

Mr. Campbell is truly a self made man, who by dint of perseverance, combined with natural ability, has forranged the vast business for the Manufacturers' Life in the triple states referred to, to such an extent, that he is recognized as one of the prominent leaders in the insurance world.

This statement is strikingly endorsed by the fact that Mr. Campbell occupies the central position among the leading insurance men in Detroit, whose office he occupies a conspicuous position in his office.

ADVENTURES WITH LATE ALEX NIVEN

RACY NARRATIVE BY E. V. NEELANDS

The following interesting narrative is from the pen of Mr. E. V. Neeland son of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Neeland, Lindsay. It was read before the Engineering Society of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, during the session of 1898-9.

IT was my good fortune last spring to be appointed an assistant on the surveying party in charge of Alex Niven, O.L.S. Our work was to complete the boundary line between Algoma and Algoma, about 180 miles in all, from Night Hawk Lake to the Moose River.

We left Pendacamingue on May 22nd and after crossing a six-mile portage proceeded up the Montreal River in canoes. The current was swift and heavy, but by paddling, towing and poling we reached the height of land after five days. Then, by utilizing a chain of small lakes, we arrived at Night Hawk Lake on June 5th, and commenced our work.

Nothing of moment occurred until we reached the Attitibi River about the middle of July, where we met our supply men, who had come up Fort Attitibi for supplies. They also brought the mail, already a month and a half old, which was the last we were to receive. They had lost one canoe descending the rapids, but everything else was safe.

Our supplies were to ascend the Attitibi, which at this point is nearly parallel to the line, for about ninty miles and we had to leave our canoes at the main camp, a distance within the mas-shoed to be about fifteen miles.

However, when we got opposite New Post, the point from which the supplies were selected, no one appeared. We ran the line on for about a week, in the hope of meeting our supply men, but at last, all we were forced to stop for want of food. It was then decided to send eight men to look for New Post, a Hudson Bay Post, and the only place where supplies could be obtained within at least two weeks. The remaining men were to remain in camp until we returned.

About enough bread for two days was all they could spare us. In addition to this the position of New Post was very uncertain, the map, Ogilvie's report, and the latitude differing from each other by as much as twenty-two miles. Still it seemed the only chance.

Our plan was to work back along the line twenty miles, and then turn west, and march out to the supposed site of the fort. Owing to the lack of provisions however we were forced to abandon this plan, turning back eight miles back. We left notes on all the main side posts stating our plans in case of the arrival of the supply men. We camped on the line that night, and the next day started west and walked all day fording and swimming rivers.

About night we heard the roar of a rapid ahead, and pushed on eagerly thinking it must be the river, so by ourselves we had come nearly fifteen miles. Imagine our disappointment when we saw, from the dark, of course it was not the Attitibi.

It was too late to cross then so it was already dark, so we camped on a small lake that night. It was a gloomy situation; we had only one small cake left among eight of us and did not know where we were and it was cold and raining.

Next morning at daybreak we ate the last of our bread and started to feed the river in the rapids, one of the men was already starved, and the rest were in the river when we heard a shout down stream, and presently a canoe entered the bend with one of our supply men, Toussaint Hunter, in it.

They had reached the line the same day we had left, and on reading one of our notes Toussaint had came back travelling all night to head us off at the river. We learned from him that it was twenty-five miles to the Attitibi, instead of thirteen, and we were one of our slight directive errors crossed the fort, so his arrival was most opportune for us, as if he had been five minutes later he would have missed us and we would have starved in the bush.

After a delay of nearly six days we were able to relaun the remainder of the party on the line with the supplies.

On October 16 after obtaining supplies from Moose Factory the chief Hudson Bay Fort on the Bay, we commenced our return journey, we found it even more difficult than we had anticipated. The current was so swift and heavy that we seldom could make more than ten miles a day against it. In addition to this we had to remember a strict ration, and had rapids, nine miles along, all of which had to be poled, as there was no portage out.

After a week's hard struggle, we reached New Post, sixty miles above the Line; here we spent Sunday, the first night under a roof for nearly five months. Next week we worried our way on up the river, poling, towing, paddling against a current that never seemed to slacken. The hardest work came on Saturday when we poled up the Long Sault Rapids, seven miles, through a storm of rain and sleet.

Next day the weather turned suddenly colder, and from Sunday until Thursday we worked our way up the stream in a continual snow storm. The snow was very deep, and our camping was a most elaborate process. It was necessary to go ashore about 4 p.m. in order to prepare for the coming night.

The worst in the rapids was now particularly severe, as the spray from the icy waters and the snow made it impossible to run a canoe pole more than a few minutes at a time, while wading was almost unbearable. At night the canoes had to be thawed out over a fire, as each day snow and ice would accumulate on them till they were almost unrecognizable.

On Thursday morning we were congratulating ourselves that our troubles were almost over, "Tonight," we said, "we'll get to the lake and by noon Saturday we'll reach Fort Attitibi." But as usually happened, our hopes were doomed to disappointment. When within about eight miles of the lake we were stopped by a pack ice, jammed in the river as far as we could see. We broke through it however, with poles, but reached only inlet, only to find what was apparently a worse condition of affairs there, not yet climbing the high bank. We saw that we did not extend more than two miles at the most. We broke our way through this also and reached the open lake that night, though too late to cross, as there was a heavy swell from the north, and our boat, a bark one, was leaking in every seam, being badly strained by the ice. We decided, therefore, to camp, and make a desperate attempt to reach the Fort by the next night.

Imagine our disappointment when next morning we discovered the lake was frozen over as far as we could see. It was impossible to walk on it, it was too thin, yet it was too thick to break through in canoes. It was over a hundred miles to the Fort by the shore, and this was thin country so rough and snow so deep that we could not march more than ten miles a day. In addition to this, several of the men were not in a condition to undertake a trip of this nature, and we had only one day's provisions left.

Good fortune had not altogether abandoned us, though, for it happened that the Indian taking his winter supplies down the river had also been caught by the ice, and after some difficulty was induced to let us have some flour and smoked bacon. We also caught a few fish and a few days later shot a caribou.

Meanwhile the ice became solid enough to walk on, though not yet without considerable risk; but, our food supply becoming nearly reduced again, we were forced to start. Two of our Indians left us here, under the pretence of catching fish, and followed us some days later, hoping to overtake the canoes and everything but food was absolutely necessary, began the march for the Fort. We took our canoe with us as it was a chance of meeting open water.

On the following day the weather turned so cold that we were forced to use the ice, and two days later a warm south wind broke up the ice completely. By this time we were reduced to a slice of bread a meal, and more than half the men had nothing left for next day, and we were worked half way to the Fort.

That same afternoon we discovered an Indian "camp" containing some fish and flour. These were immediately seized upon, and also two old bark canoes which we found. The two Indians which had left us, met us with one of the bark's left behind, so that we now had enough to carry the whole party.

Next morning, notwithstanding a heavy swell, we again set out, each canoe paddling as hard as possible to get through. When still about seven or eight miles from it, a heavy fog arose so that we could not see 100 yards ahead. As no one in our boat knew the lake, it was impossible to run except by compass. We blundered on as well as we could till about 4, when we heard yelling through the fog, close at hand, and heading for it we found an Indian shanty on the shore. They told us the way to the Fort, and we again set out.

We had gone about seven or eight miles when it became so dark that it was impossible to go on, we had landed and boiled some tea, though we had no food. We stayed around our fire till about 12 p.m., when the fog having lifted somewhat, we decided to try again.

A point about two miles ahead, loomed up through the darkness, and we headed for it. We were eagerly discussing the prospect of a fine hot meal in two or three hours, when we courting what we should have, when we crashed into a piece of ice. For an instant everything was hazy, we was done, but as the canoe heeled off we could feel her setting. We quickly threw over all her load, and paddled for the nearest shore. It was useless to make any attempt to stop the leak, the peculiar construction of the bark canoe making it impossible to see, the more so in the darkness, its position and nature.

When within about 200 yards of the shore, in spite of our exertions, she went under, and left the six of us struggling in the water. Two of us managed to reach shore, one with a waterproof box, which acted as a support, and the other, an Indian, clinging to some paddles. The rest of us stayed with the boat, and after a hard struggle succeeded in dragging the boat ashore. We had only one Indian, the Indian having never reached the shore. For some time we were too weak to move, but as soon as we were able, we emptied the canoe, and by making two trips, and getting in the storm, raising the damaged bow out of the water, we managed to get back to our camp fire.

Here we passed a most miserable night, especially as a heavy snow storm came on, making it almost impossible to keep the fire alive, the more so as wood was scarce and we had no axe.

Next day we decided to walk the shore to the Fort, but two miles brought us to a river that it was impossible to ford, as it was over our chains wide, deep and rapid. We then decided to go back to our camp fire, and next day tried to reach the Indian's camp, but that we found on the shore. Next morning three of us started back, the others remaining in our canoe some miles back to look for us. We struggled on till day through the bush, using a compass altogether, as it was still snowing, and we could not see the sun, sometimes so each that we could only walk a few minutes at a time. At last, when we had given up all hope, we heard a shot, and, on reaching it, we saw smoke on a point almost a mile away. The last mile was the hardest of all, as we had to run, we seemed hours to walk. At last we came to the clearing. An Indian was sitting his knee within yard of a shotted, and he dropped his axe, he could not speak English, but in broken Indian I explained the situation. He greeted sympathetically, and led us once into the house, and told the squaws to get us something. It was two roots only we ate, they were as famished wolves. The menu was not elaborate, lumps of dough, fried in pork fat, I never spent such a happy hour before.

Next morning the Indians went out and brought in the other two men, who were almost exhausted and had given up all hope.

While we stayed with the Indians, they guarded themselves against loss by taking our boots, which, of course, meant they would have to do the edges of the clearing and point sprinkling, to do the trap, and then to the axe, and we would get no work; although we were still too weak to see them, I heard, making a bargain with the Indian, that we should be ready to start at sunrise, and, if we failed to be ready, we set our sleeping bag as guide. When nearly half way we met two of our men coming out to meet us, I went out on the ice to meet them. One was an Indian—a friend of the deceased—and he said, "Toussaint is drowned." He said nothing, but after a few moments thought, came up again, and he said, "And so Toussaint is drowned? Yes. Well by gosh!" and never spoke to the subject again.

The three of us turned back to lose the body, while the others went on to Fort Attitibi, and returned the next day, after a fruitless search.

We found the party busily engaged in making toboggans for our trip out as the deep of snow was now and stay together given up. Three days later, we again started south, every man with a toboggan and taking one canoe on a sleigh. We had scarcely gone eight miles when the weather again turned soft and quantities falling the toboggans through the bush, a long, laborious feat, owing to the windfall prevailing along the bush.

We then crossed Upper Lake on the thin ice, not, however, without some of the party getting through. Here we came to a long stretch of open water and again we were forced to take to the woods, the canoe being our baggage. Fortunately we discovered an old bark canoe, which we used to carry the toboggans, though it could only be kept afloat by constant bailing and, even so, she sank twice suddenly, and left us to hard load out.

Two days of this monotonous work brought us to Island Lake, where we found a Hudson Bay Fort, which had so often happened before, the lies could neither be broken or walked on, and it took us three days to make eight miles over it. We then reached the bright of land and the head of Long Lake.

After a vain attempt to raise an old Hudson Bay bateau, which was lying sank here, we again started to drag our canoe and supplies on our toboggans for the last time. Three days more brought us to the foot of the lake, and as we were almost out of provisions, we decided to leave everything and take to the bush, going south-west to Lake Temiscaming.

Leaving everything except a little food we struck off through the woods, and on the second day came to the Fort, after a continuous walk over one and half days. The same night we reached the Indian village at the mouth of the Quinze River, and for our first news of the outside world and also our first meal in civilization we visited one other luxuria. We expected to take the steamboat next morning, but unfortunately Cupid's arrow had pierced the breast of one for several miles down, making it necessary for us to walk the lake for twenty-five miles to Ville Marie where we met next morning we caught the Meteor for Gordon Creek and the south.
